URGES LIMITING TRAFFIC ON ROADS

SALEM, Jan. 24.—Authority for the state highway commission to regulate roads and traffic on state highways, and the establishment of a speed limit of thirty miles an hour are among recommendations to the legislature made by the commission. A list of recommendations has been submitted for consideration when cold legislation is considered at the present session.

Another recommendation is a revolving fund of $50,000 for the state highway engineer to enable him to meet claims promptly. The commission also asks authority to condemn right of way through public ground.

RUBY NEW TOWN ON OREGON MAP

Situated in the second unit of the Jordan valley irrigation district, in Malheur county, a town, to be known as Ruby, is sprouting. It is within close reach of the Oregon-Washington Railroad and Navigation system's Vale-Crane line and the adjacent sagebrush lands will be brought under irrigation this season. D. D. Joslyn, who attended the Oregon irrigation congress in Portland two weeks ago and who is watching the proceedings of the legislature in the interest of irrigation projects, is proclaiming the new town's bid for consideration.

GOVE BOY WINS UNIQUE HONOR

COVE, Jan. 24.—Cove probably has the only aviator in Eastern Oregon who got a German airplane. A letter from Will Motley to his brother, Lee Motley, dated from France, January 17, says he brought down a German airplane just before the armistice was signed.

Young Motley is a Cove public school boy, a graduate of the Oregon Agricultural college and had had some experience in flying when he volunteered for enlistment in one of the earliest aero squadrons to go overseas.

STATE MAY PENSION WIDOW OF DENNY

SALEM, Jan. 24.—Mrs. O. M. Denny of Portland, wife of Judge Denny, who introduced the Mongolian pheasant into Oregon, will be provided an income of $100 a month from the state if a bill which may be introduced in the legislature should pass. Judge Arthur Langguth of Portland was here Wednesday in the interests of the movement and conferred with the game commission of both houses. It is estimated that between 30,000 and 50,000 meals have been enjoyed by Oregon people from game birds which Judge Denny brought to the country.

Intelligent co-operation now—not radicalism, will save the day for all industries.

THIRTY-ONE CARNEGIE MEDALS AWARDED

PITTSBURG, Jan. 24.—Thirty-one acts of heroism were recognized by the Carnegie hero fund commission at its fifteenth annual meeting held here Wednesday. Nearly all the recipients of medals were easterners. In seven cases silver medals were awarded; in 24 cases bronze medals. Fifteen of the heroes lost their lives, and to the dependents of ten of these pensions aggregating $7820 a year were granted; to the dependents of four of the others who lost their lives the sum of $1250 was granted to be applied as the commission may see fit. In addition to these money grants, in four cases, $5200 was appropriated for educational purposes; in twelve cases awards aggregating $10,000 were made for other worthy purposes.

BAKER PLANNING FOR MEMORIAL

BAKER, Jan. 24.—Business and professional men of Baker Wednesday night laid the foundation for an organization to erect a suitable memorial in honor of the soldier dead of Baker county.

Committees were formed and active work will begin soon in Baker county the monument on the court house square. Other meetings will be held as the campaign progresses.

ANOTHER VIOLENT DEATH IN CHICAGO

CHICAGO, Jan. 24.—The body of a woman was found today in Erie avenue. She is supposed to have been murdered as both legs were broken above the knees and both arms were broken and there was a deep gash just back of her right ear that was supposed to have been made with a knife. The police made a hurried examination and came to the conclusion that the woman was murdered in another section of the city and was removed to Erie ave. by automobile. There was a card in her pocket that bore the name of Miss J. McDonald, but no other identification mark was found.

FROM ABROAD IN THE STATE.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.
Before using this preparation for a cough or cold you may wish to know what it has done for others. Mrs. O. Cook, Macon, Ill., writes, "I have found it gives the quickest relief of any cough remedy I have ever used." Mrs. James A. Knott, Chillicothe, Mo., says "Chamberlain's Cough Remedy cannot be beat for coughs and colds." H. J. Moore, Gval, Pa., says "I have used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy on several occasions when I was suffering with a settled cold upon the chest and it has always brought about a cure."

MADGE KENNEDY'S SIMPLICITY
HER GREATEST CHARM

Sudden Success on the Screen Did Not Turn Head, of the Vivacious Goldwyn Star.

There is a notable absence of conventionality in her attitude toward her work and life in general about Madge Kennedy, the Goldwyn Pictures star who appears in "The Fair Pretender," at the Sherry theatre, last showing today. She is first of all a wholesome, unaffected girl who happens to be where she is, not because of her unique individuality alone, but rather on account of her very real artistry. For Madge Kennedy is conceded by America's foremost critics to be a brilliant actress, versed in all the subtleties of characterization and mistress of the technique of the screen. Her glorious eyes and smile are merely happy accidents.

A comedy is also shown.

GREAT FIGHT IN WOODS IN "HUGON THE MIGHTY"

The great giants of the forest swayed their branches swishing in the storm that carried blinding flakes in its folds. The snow crunched harshly beneath his feet as he tramped on over a stiff trail, unmarked save for the great gashes cut in the tree trunks by pathfinders.

But Hugon the Mighty was happy, Bura and roared in the great forests of the north, storms had come to be things of routine. Today he saw only beauty in the vast dreariness about him. Constantly before him was the vision of a girl's face—The Girl.

Hugon the Mighty loved Marie. The strongest man in the north, he was ready and willing to crush and kill anything and everything if she would but say the word. And now, he was on an errand of destruction. Crooked surveyors had ordered the people of the woods off the land, claiming the government had taken it.

All the governments in the world could not have made Hugon the Mighty obey such an order without resistance. He would see. And he did see; and when these land thieves and Hugon met, the north saw its most glorious man-fight in its history.

This fight, reproduced with startling realism, is a feature of "Hugon the Mighty," the thrilling Blue bird photoplay in which Monroe Salisbury will appear at the Star theatre on Saturday and Sunday.

LARGE NUMBER OF ALIENS INTERNED

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24.—Four thousand and twenty enemy aliens were interned by the United States during the war, the department of justice has informed the house immigration committee, which is considering a bill authorizing the deportation of these persons. Twenty-two hundred of them were merchant seamen, and the remainder resident aliens.

Closing Chapter of Winter Millinery

The last chapter in the story of winter millinery is presented and the tale concludes with all-fur hats or hats that are made of fur in combination with other things. Although shorter than the story of velvet or other fabric hats, it is not so very brief as one might suppose. The ingenuity of designers lengthens it. But after fur hats have been disposed of, one may write "this" winter is over, so far as new things in winter hats are concerned. In January millinery begins to be springlike "between season" and "early spring" are the inspiration of millinery designers, who must then be occupied with the demands of southern tourists.

But only a few people journey South, and those who remain in the lands of snow face two or three months of midwinter weather—hence a variety of fur hats is needed. They are here in many shapes and combinations. Turbans and small shapes predominate among them, but there are large shapes with crowns of fur and brims of velvet, or lace or netting often with embellishments of fur on them. On the smaller hats and turbans, feather crowns with fur brims and leather coronas on turbans with fur coronas are new and beautiful ideas.

Besides feathers, furs are used in combination with long-napped beaver cloth, satin and velvet in smaller hats for covering shapes. In the larger hats fur is combined usually to the crown, but in some wide-brimmed picturesque models, in which dull silver and gold laces, or other transparent materials are used for the trim covering, narrow borders or fringes, in fur like that on the crown, since the brims. Many turbans and small hats have crowns covered with rows of ribbon—in want ruffles and brims covered with fur.

In the group of fur hats pictured the tall Coosack turban is especially smart. A round hat presents a combination of two furs—mole in on the crown and seal-skin brim. The seal-skin skating cap is the regulation and always fashionable type that appears each winter, this year with a fur band on the top. So large a proportion of suits and coats are fur-trimmed, and fur neckpieces and garments so universally worn that a Vogue fur hat to match was a logical conclusion. It has arrived.
