CAN A WOMAN REARED AS DOLL CHILD HAVE IDEAS OF HER OWN

This Problem Is Solved by Elsie Ferguson in Her Newest Photoplay, "A Dolls House," Soon to Be Displayed Here.

Can a woman, reared as a doll child, have an idea of her own? This is a question that has been the subject of much conflicting argument by psychologists, as well as dramatists, the world over. In "A Doll's House," one of the most famous of the Henrik Ibsen plays, the question has been answered with fidelity to truth in the affirmative.

"A Doll's House" has been picturized by Artcraft for Elsie Ferguson, the famous dramatic star, who will be seen as Nora Helmer, the wife of a poor lawyer, who falls ill and for whom she commits a forgery in order to provide funds without the aid of which his death is inevitable. For eight years she lives under the dread of exposure as a doll wife, and when disgrace comes her husband is about to discard her, despite her self-sacrificing course in his behalf, when a letter reaches him containing the incriminating evidence against his wife. With the fear of disgrace gone, the husband's manner changes and he seeks to reinstate his doll wife to her lost place in his household. Her troubles have transformed her sentiments and ideas, and she leaves her husband, convinced that they are mismated and that happiness for both lies in their separation.

FROM ABROAD IN THE STATE.

Charles Allen and James Tomb, trappers, brought into Bend Thursday night by District Game Warden George Tonkin, pleaded guilty in justice court and were fined $125 each for killing deer out of season. Mr. Tonkin found 10 fresh deer skins, a quality of venison and a beaver tail in their cabin. The venison was presented to the Bend chapter of the Red Cross, to be distributed among the poor of the city.

At a meeting of the Multnomah county fair association, the dates for the fair this year were set for September 16-20. It is planned to ask for a larger appropriation from the state for the support of the fair, which combined with the money given to the Portland Land Products show, will total $1600. H. A. Lewis, John M. Mann and C. D. Minton were named to present the matter to the state legislature.

Colonel Leader will leave Eugene again in the near future to make a tour of the schools in the southern part of Oregon. He will also address assemblies in this part of the state on war, reconstruction and Anglo-American relations. Among the cities he intends to visit are Roseburg, Medford and Ashland.

IMPROVED STANDARDS

Landlord and Tenant Committees Conciliate Disputes.

The bureau of industrial housing and transportation, department of labor, reports that the local committee originally organized to protect war workers from excessive rentals and illegal eviction and therefore known as "rent profiteering committees" are in some instances giving considerable attention also to other matters. They are time and again, for example, affording protection to the landlord against destructive or generally undesirable tenants; they undertake, so far as possible, to adjust by conciliation all of the various grievances between landlord and tenant which come to their attention, they aid in the enforcement of sanitary regulations and foster improved housing conditions. It has been suggested, therefore, that a more appropriate name for them would be "Landlord and Tenant Committees." Beginning with February 1, the active committee in Cleveland, O., assumed the name of "Landlord and Tenant Relations Committee of Cuyahoga County."

MISSING MAN LOCATED

Wounded Soldier Is Found in Hospital After Search by Knights of Columbus.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 17.—After several weeks of anxiety, James F. Murphy, 3677 Eighteenth street, San Francisco, has been located by his parents in a base hospital in New York City, whence he was taken after being returned wounded from France.

Today, through the agency of the Knights of Columbus, a check for $50 will be in his hands. It was dispatched by Albert G. Bagley, head of the K. of C. war activities in the nine western states, at the instance of Murphy's parents.

Complete identification of the wounded man was made possible by use of his mother's pet name "Dettie." Mrs. Murphy sent several checks to her son in France, but he did not receive any of them, leading to the belief that another soldier by that name had secured them.

She explained her predicament to Bagley, who wired the New York headquarters, explaining how identification might be made certain and within forty-eight hours word was received that the wounded man was located in base hospital No. 5. He is doing well and the family expect him home within a few weeks.

NOT MUCH MOURNING.

Old Custom of Wearing Black Is Gradually Passing Out.

The request of an Englishman of title in his will that no mourning should be worn for him is an instance of the disrepute into which the once national custom of wearing black for dead relatives is falling amongst the smart set.

The managing director of one of the largest mourning warehouses in the West end said it was becoming no rare thing for ladies to go to funerals in half-mourning, such as grays, heliotropes and even for men to go attired in dark oxford grays. Few people wear crepe or widow's weeds, and even where black is worn a tendency is to go into colors again at the earliest opportunity.

So great is the falling off in the allegiance to black that the mourning wear department of the big drygoods stores, formerly a very important section of the business, is now the least important. Many firms do not even trouble to devote a special department to it. A famous countess who lost her husband and son at different times on each occasion declined to wear mourning, though she loved them both dearly. At the funeral of her son, who was a great sportsman, she, and the other members of the family appeared in shooting costume.

PREDICTS DRY SUMMER

GENEVA, N. Y., Feb. 17.—Charles Kelley, a half-breed Mohawk Indian of this city, predicts the dryest summer this year that has been experienced in many years. Kelley sprang into prominence as a weather prophet last autumn, when he prophesied that the present winter would be a mild and open one. He bases his predictions on the actions of the muskrat and other animals. The habit of the muskrat is to build his house thick in wall and high. This winter they were the reverse, says Kelley.

PAY $60 FOR WATER

OKLAHOMA CITY, Feb. 17.—The "wholesaler" carried his sample and the "retailers" declared it "great stuff." "How much for a full case of pints?" he was asked.

"Sixty bucks, cash," replied the wholesale dealer. The men dug up.

When the case was delivered the retailers were on hand to sample it. It looked all right.

"Stung," yelled one as he placed his lips to the first bottle. "Water and coffee," was their verdict, instead of "old sour mash."

AUTOISTS FOOL FARMER

WELLINGTON, Mo., Feb. 17.—A farmer living near Higginsville evidently had not heard that war prices had been reduced a bit when he charged two Higginsville motorists $5 for pulling them out of the snow following a storm. He found it out later, for when the two men reached town they stopped payment on the check they had given him.

IN MEMORY OF WASHINGTON

TREE PLANTING PROPOSED AS A METHOD OF COMMEMORATION

Daughters of American Revolution in Oregon Suggest Plans for the School Districts.

The yards surrounding every school house in Oregon from the large and imposing high school to the smallest rural building, is to be planted with black walnuts from the historic trees surrounding the tomb of George Washington at Mount Vernon; the tree planting to be made a part of the Washington's birthday exercises to be held Friday, February 21, as Washington's birthday falls on Saturday.

O. M. Plummer, general manager of the Pacific International Live Stock Exposition, also a director of the Portland public schools, visited Washington's tomb ten years ago and succeeded, after crossing the old negro attendant's palm with silver, in carrying away six nuts from the celebrated trees, which he planted as soon as he returned to Portland. Only one grew, but it has attained a height of forty feet and this year bore 100 pounds of nuts.

The Oregon state chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, have succeeded through the present legislature in having Washington's birthday again made a legal holiday in the public schools of Oregon with a patriotic program in the morning. Mr. Plummer has turned the nuts over to the Daughters with the suggestion that the tree planting be made a part of the exercises and the suggestion has been adopted and Mrs. R. S. Farrell of Portland is chairman of the committee.

Wherever it is possible a member of the Daughters will assist in the exercises and a child born of foreign parents will turn the first spadeful of earth, thus emphasizing the new internationalism. There are D. A. R. chapters in Albany, Eugene, Dalles, The Dalles, Portland, Marshfield, Oregon City, Pendleton and Roseburg. Mrs. F. M. Wilkins of Eugene is the state regent and she has expressed the hope that every school principal and teacher will co-operate in making this year's celebration a notable one in the history of Oregon.

Dreadful Cough Cured.

A severe cold is often followed by a rough cough for which Chamberlain's Cough Remedy has proven especially valuable. Mrs. F. W. Olsen, Marysville, Mo., writes: "About two years ago my little boy Jean caught a severe cold and coughed dreadfully for days. I tried a number of cough medicines but nothing did him any good until I gave him Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It relieved his cough right away and before he had finished taking one bottle he was cured. I think it is just fine for children." adv

Wire's Long Stretch.

While S. E. Wharton of Boston was traveling in Switzerland his attention was called to the longest unsupported telegraph wire he had ever seen. It crosses in one span the Lake of Wallenstadt, being fastened to two iron towers which are almost 8,000 feet apart. The line is made of steel and that section of it closest to the lake is more than 100 feet above the surface of the water.

MEDICAL SERVICE

Factories Report Industrial Health Work Adds Much to Efficiency

Industrial medical service has been of considerable value in maintaining the health and efficiency of factory employees, according to reports received by the working conditions service, Department of Labor. A number of large plants which maintained nurses and physicians in constant attendance offer many special medical benefits to their workmen.

Careful health supervision prevents the spread of contagion even in plants where many thousands are employed, the reports state, and thereby health security is increased. Some factories have installed fully equipped hospitals with free, or practically free, dispensary service and dental service.

Periodical inspections including most of the employees of the company are usual where industrial medical service is given, and a visiting nurse service is adopted in many places. Factories which have adopted such plans report material increases in the efficiency of workmen as a result.

One factory makes a specialty of preventive work and encourages its employees to seek treatment from their family physicians when incipient defects are disclosed. Education in hygiene is considered of first importance by the management of a large clothing factory in Ohio. An Ohio automobile factory finds light work for handicapped men whose physical examinations have disclosed their defects.
