Chapter No. 14 of "A Fight for Millions"

Society

(During the rush of making up the Sunday morning Observer the society page was closed without the following articles which were written and set for that issue of the paper. They are run today with proper apology for the omission of yesterday.)

An a crowning event to perseverance, application and thorough instruction the first concert of the Monday club under direction of Mrs. A. L. Richardson given Monday evening at the High School Auditorium, was a delight to the large number of invited guests and a commendation to the club as a community that high grade music has far from been neglected, but on the other hand, has been intelligently cultivated by the young ladies who comprise the club.

The occasion was in honor of Miss Mary and Miss Nellie two members of the club, who have for Chicago to enter a conservatory and spend in years.

Decorations highly appropriate for such an elite occasion turned the auditorium stage into a floral garden with the tasteful evening dresses of the singers, blended into a most beautiful setting.

The entire Monday club appeared in the first two numbers, "Where My Caravan Has Rested" by Lore and "Our Soldiers Welcome Home" by Rose, with Mr. Frank Garko as accompanist. The audience knew when the first number had been rendered, what a pleasant occasion was in store, and sat down to full enjoyment of the event.

Miss Mary Newlin in "The Nightingale Has a Lyre of Gold" by Whelpley and "Down in the Desert" by Rose removed the admiration for this young lady's voice which the La Grande public has held since first she began to sing in public.

"My Mother Bids Me Bid My Hair" by Haydn and the "Robin's Song" by Lyssa gave Miss Friederike Sehlke opportunity with a well trained voice to impress the beauty of the songs on the large audience.

"Carmena" Wilson was rendered by the entire club and Miss Leona Newlin followed with "The Star" by Rogers. "Bird of Love Divine" by Wood and "You, Dear and I" by Clarke. Her voice was excellent and general appreciation marked these numbers.

Miss Ellen Pearce won everyone with "I am Thy Harp" by Woodman and "I Love You Truly" by Bond. Especially fitted to the selections she had chosen Miss Pearce carried not only the tones perfectly but her manner on the stage fitted the theme of the songs.

With her sweet contralto voice Miss Jennette Scudder appeared most charmingly in "Singing Smiles" by Gooden in which she was assisted by Mr. L. G. Linder with violin obligato and Miss Wilson at the piano. She also sang "The Nightingale" by Nevin, increasing, if possible the great admiration held for this young lady.

Miss Mary Newlin then sang "Two Roses" by Gilbert and "Magnolia Water" by Arditt, after which the Monday club closed the program with "One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest" by Rogers and "The Americans Come" by Foster.

Encores after encores followed each appearance and the floral remembrances were most beautiful. The accompanists were certainly remarkable. At Clarke accompanied the Monday club selections and Miss Beattie Allison and Miss Lee Wilson accompanied the other numbers. It was a concert of the most uplifting nature—a concert that brought admiration and words of praise from every person in attendance. Mrs. A. L. Richardson has directed the Monday club since its organization and has shown what work has been done was, plainly, evident in the entire program. La Grande as a community for years to come will feel the effect of this splendid work.

NINE MEASURES: UP FOR A VOTE

PEOPLE TO DECIDE ON $7,500,000
BOND ISSUE.

Recent Legislature Passes Up Measures to a Special Election to Be Held June 3.

Nine measures are to be voted on at the special election which is to be held June 3, as provided for by the legislature just closed. Included in these measures will be provision for issuance of $7,500,000 in bonds. Of these, $5,000,000 are to be for reconstruction purposes and the other $2,500,000 for the construction of a coast highway to be known as the Roosevelt coast military highway and the issuance of the bonds to be dependent upon the federal government appropriating a like amount.

The measures submitted to the people by the legislature are as follows: Senate joint resolution No. 25—Amending article XI of the constitution of the state of Oregon by adding section 7a, providing for the issuance of not exceeding $5,000,000 in reconstruction bonds of the state of Oregon.

House joint resolution No. 32—For the addition to the constitution of the state of Oregon of article XII, providing funds for the payment by the state of interest, for a period not exceeding five years, on bonds issued by irrigation and drainage districts.

Senate joint resolution No. 11—Amending section 10 of article XI of the constitution of the state of Oregon, increasing the limitation of taxes by counties for roads.

House joint resolution No. 20—Amending section 3 of article XIV of the constitution of the state of Oregon as to the location of public institutions of the state, and excepting from the former constitutional provisions an industrial and reconstruction hospital.

House joint resolution No. 51—Amending sections 1 and 8 of article V of the constitution of the state of Oregon and providing for a lieutenant-governor.

Senate bill No. 266—Authorizing the issuance of reconstruction bonds of the state, conferring certain powers on the state board of control, providing for the use of funds derived from reconstruction bonds in the construction of state and public buildings, the supervision of such work, promoting land settlement, land reclamation and providing employment.

Senate bill No. 269—Providing state financial aid to honorably discharged soldiers, sailors or marines enlisted or inducted into the service from the state of Oregon who desire to pursue a course of study in institutions of higher learning in the state of Oregon.

Senate bill No. 283—Being an act to levy annually a tax of 1 mill on the dollar on all taxable property in the state for market road purposes, providing for a distribution thereof, and containing other provisions.

House bill No. 147—Providing for the construction of a highway to be known as the Roosevelt coast military highway, appropriating $2,500,000 contingent on the United States appropriating a like sum for the construction of said highway and providing for the issuance of bonds by the state of Oregon.

BERT LYTELL SCORES HIT IN METRO PLAY

"Unexpected Places," which was the attraction at the Sherry theatre yesterday, and in which the popular Metro star, Bert Lytell, played the leading role of Dick Holloway, was a decided success and met with a large and general appreciation.

It is a breezy play full of vim and go and the story was appealing both because it was adventure of a regular man's sort and because it had a loyalty touch where the three main spies were welded in the battle of brain and brawn which ensued.

The story, of which Dick Holloway, a dynamic young New York reporter, is the center, was written by Lunt, Frank R. Adams and was published in the Blue Book Magazine. Dick finds that by an unusual break of circumstances he has been mistaken for a young English nobleman, Lord Vanden, in America on diplomatic business. For certain reasons, he decides that he will continue to pose as the Englishman and in doing so has many adventures, the happiest of which is the meeting with Ruth Penfield who mistakes him for her cousin, Lord Vanden. A romance at once develops between the two and knowing this the German agents, who are constantly on the watch for kidnap Ruth.

Knowing the character of the men Dick is facing, but with a daring maneuver he rescues the girl and at the same time does good work for his country.

"Bill's Baby," starring Smiling Bill Parsons, in a two reel comedy will also be shown.

By these young ladies and boys made will each higher standard of culture of the Monday club and its effect.

UNIFORMS FOR BAND ORDERED

NEW SUITS EXPECTED HERE IN ABOUT FOUR WEEKS

Organization Will be Equipped With Regulation Band Uniform, Blue and White.

They are a well pleased bunch of men around the O.W. shops today, especially those who belong to that promising organization, the O.W. band. The measuring of the musicians for their band uniforms was completed tonight and the men will await the coming of the first of April with as much expectation as when youngsters, they used to look for Christmas. The new uniforms have been ordered from the Henderson-Ames Company, of Kalamazoo, Mich., whose representative has been here since Saturday, taking the men's measurements, and it will take all of a month for the tailors to complete the order.

There is no doubt but that the band will make a splendid appearance when they come out on dress parade. The cost of the uniforms will be blue, trimmed with black braid, the trousers will be white with trimming of white braid, and they will wear a blue military cap. The cap will bear the O.W. insignia on the front, with the name "La Grande" above it. The band is not telling yet what their fine feathers are going to cost them. It hits up around three figures, however, and it will take the proceeds of their St. Patrick's day dance, added to the contributions of their friends in the city, to cover the bill.

The band does not forget that it is the generosity of many well wishers in La Grande that has made possible the obtaining of the uniforms, and they give assurance that to show their appreciation of that support they will work hard to develop themselves to a point of musical excellence that will make La Grande known over the northwest as the possessor of one of the best bands in the country. They already have several trips in sight, among them one to the Rose carnival at Portland this summer, and another to Pendleton's annual celebration.
