Arthur Reinhart, young Salem lawyer, who is now with the American army of occupation in Germany, writes Mrs. Reinhart that he has enjoyed the distinction of killing a deer on the private hunting grounds of ex-Kaiser Wilhelm. American soldiers, it appears, are allowed the use of the grounds.

Oregon quota of the Victory Liberty Loan is expected to be between $30,000,000 and $35,000,000 and for the 1919 war savings stamps and certificates $10,000,000. The drive for the final Liberty Loan will begin April 21 and continue three weeks, while the war savings campaign will continue throughout the year.

Private Chester Haven has been cited for extraordinary heroism in action with Company B of the First engineers, near Exermont, France October 9, 1918. Private Haven, with another soldier, displayed courage in attacking two machine guns which were hindering the advance, according to the citation. Undaunted by the heavy machine gun fire they poured deadly rifle fire upon the enemy gunners, forcing them to flee toward our attacking troops, who captured them. Haven is the son of Alfred R. Haven of Falls City.

LONG LIFE OF FISH

Was Bequeathed Four Different Times—Died at 67 Years of Age.

In a recent lecture to children at the Royal Institution, London, Professor D'arcy W. Thompson told of a jellyfish known as Granny that was rescued by Sir John Graham Dalyell and kept alive in sea water, according to theDetroit News. Granny according to Detroit News, Granny carefully tended by Sir John and fed regularly on one-half mussel a fortnight. She throve exceedingly under his kind attention. Six hundred of her offspring were known. On the death of Sir John she passed to the care of another explorer and was bequeathed by him to another scientific man. Granny outlived four protectors and died at last October 11, 1857, at the authentic age of 67 years, because of the neglect or ill treatment of a botanist.

Professor Thompson did not say so, but he left it to be assumed that had the neglectful 'botanist' been careful and attentive as was Sir Dalyell Granny might yet be alive, says the New York Tribune, in which case she would be no less than 98 years old, and assuming that she was at least two when Sir John found her, which seems probable, she would be well past the century mark.

ATHLETICS REVIVED

Big Carnival Is Staged for Oregon Agricultural College

CORVALLIS, March 12.—Many high schools of Oregon are making inquiries in regard to the big athletic carnival to be held at the college this spring. This carnival was an annual affair previous to the war. Gold, silver, and bronze medals will be awarded to winners of every event. Cups will be given winning teams of each class. In order that the smaller high schools may have a fair chance entries will be divided into two classes. The larger high schools of the state will be in class A, and the smaller schools in class B. Some entries have already been made. May 3 is favored as the date for the event, but no definite decision has been made.

INCOME TAX EXEMPTION

WASHINGTON, March 12.—It was announced today that the full $200 exemption from income tax is allowed for each child, no matter at what time during the year the child was born. As in the case of marriages, the 1917 income tax only allowed a pro rata exemption for children.

There are only five cases on the docket of the circuit court, which convenes at Oregon City next Monday.

WOMEN GIVE OUT

Housework is hard enough when healthy. Every La Grande woman who is having headaches, blue and nervous spells, dizzy headaches and kidney or bladder troubles, should be glad to heed this La Grande woman's experience:

Mrs. Geo. Bunch, 1706 N. Spruce St., La Grande, says: "Two years ago I was nearly bed-fast with kidney trouble. For several weeks my back and hips were so painful, I could hardly keep going. When I got down, it was almost impossible for me to straighten up, as my back was so weak and sore. My kidneys didn't act right and caused me a great deal of misery. One box of Doan's kidney pills made me feel like a different person. Since then, I have taken them when I have had any trouble from my kidneys and they have never failed to help me."

Price 60c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Bunch had. Foster-Milburn Co., Mfrs., Buffalo, N. Y.

"OUR MARY'S" ROLE IN SUPERB PICTURE HAS FINE APPEAL

Not since her memorable triumph in "Tess of the Storm Country" has Mary Pickford had such an opportunity for the exhibition of her amazing talents, as in the production of "The Dawn of a Tomorrow," Frances Hodgson Burnett's celebrated story of faith and love, which will be shown at the Arcade theatre today and tomorrow.

The delicate touches with which the noted author adorned a tiful idea, the tenderness with which she suggested something half philosophy, half theology makes this picture intensely appealing. The story founded on a love and trust that know no fear, comes close to you and warms your heart. The picture reveals a pathetic story, behind which is the shadow of a spiritual purpose, and its influence cannot be other than uplifting and edifying.

Best of all, it reveals the inimitable Mary Pickford in a character the very essence of which is womanly nobility, a nobility intensified because the character is clothed in rags.

CATTLEMAN BACK FROM EAST.

F. E. Stillwell, well-known cattle dealer of this city, returned home last night from a trip to Michigan points, having been away about two weeks. Mr. Stillwell traveled over a large part of the state while away. He went by way of St. Paul and Duluth and visited Marquette, Escanaba, Gladstone and other places in Michigan.

GAME WARDEN TRAPS TRIO

BEND, Or., March 12.—After temporarily disconnecting rural telephone lines to prevent the warning of his intended visit being telephoned ahead, District Game Warden Tonkin searched the homes of Harry Heising, Ed Porka and Clyde Gist in the Sisters country, 25 miles from here and found deer hides, venison and in one instance a beaver pelt he testified in justice court here.

Heising and Parks pleaded guilty to the charge of violating the state law by killing game out of season and paid fines totaling more than $100. Gist will be tried later.

VICTORY GARDENS NEEDED

WASHINGTON, March 12.—Miss Grace Tabor, noted magazine writer and landscape architect, has enlisted in the new war—the war for food. She is to make a swing through New Jersey, Pennsylvania, New York and New England for the National War Garden commission of Washington and will reach this city shortly.

"The best looking landscape," said Miss Tabor upon her departure from Washington, "will be the one on which the potatoes blossom in nice, straight rows. They may have to shovel snow from in front of my trains, but right now is the time to plan your Victory garden. The frontiers of freedom can only be made secure with the fortress of food. Upon food can these frontiers, won at such a cost, be maintained. Food is the best antidote for Bolshevism, and consequently there is far more need of Victory gardens than of war gardens."

L. D. Chamberlain, an old time resident of Lebanon, died in that city last Saturday, aged 62 years.

SAVAGE METHOD OF WARFARE

Germany Broke International Agreement When She Began the Use of Poison Gas.

Poisonous gases are produced by some explosive which have been commonly used in warfare. They are the products of the explosion. The direct use of poison gases, however, was specifically inhibited by The Hague convention. They were used deliberately for the first time on April 22, 1915, on part of the Ypres salient. A poison gas cloud (chlorine) was there launched by the Germans against the French and British, where they joined, the Turcos and Canadians receiving the brunt.

Frustrated in the quick accomplishment of their aims, the Germans again threw all honor aside, as they had done in Belgium, and used poison gases. In this way they proposed to end the war quickly. The immediately bitter purpose was to kill and affect the morale of the colonials. Written and spoken narratives of the effect of that great greenish-yellow cloud on the minds of those soldiers, as it rose right out of the ground, rolled toward and enveloped them, the first whiffs choking, then producing spasms of agony, are thrillingly terrible. Many died a horrible death; many who raced away ahead of the weird waves got sufficient of the gas to affect their health seriously.

The morale was not broken, however, and the war was not soon over. If the Germans had done the vicious thing more thoroughly the war might have been over long ago.—American Review of Reviews.

CAME OVER TO ITS FRIENDS

Eagle in France Quickly Naturalized When Made Prisoner, and Went Into Battle Against Huns.

This story is told by Stars and Stripes, the American army paper printed in France:

On Bastille day a group of French and Yanks were celebrating in a little town not far behind the lines. The Yanks were doing their part by pitching small coins into a tin can when a big eagle swooped down from the north and alighted on the ridgepole of a barn. He was so black and rapacious and altogether militaristic in appearance that he looked as though he might have flown squarely out of the Prussian coat of arms.

"Fritz, ha!" shouted a French soldier, and the game stopped.

Somebody got a net, and somebody else got up on the roof. The net was too short and the eagle just looked at it, yawned and went to sleep. A young French soldier who started a second offensive was foiled when the eagle awoke and flew lazily to a neighboring roof. Another tried. This time the eagle flopped off and alighted on the American billet.

He seemed to think he was safe there, or perhaps he didn't mind, for the next attempt to snare him succeeded.

That night the battle began. A rain of shell fell on the town as Yank and French went up into the line. And Fritz-la went in, too. He had become naturalized overnight.

Shipley Says He Nearly Starved

Lived 6 Weeks on Milk—Laid Up Whole Year—Gains 21 Pounds on Tanlac—Now Eats Anything.

"When I finished taking my first bottle of Tanlac I couldn't see much improvement in my condition, but, if I had given it up at that time it would have been the mistake of my life," said John H. Shipley of 1203 Sanchez street, San Francisco.

"It has certainly paid me well," he continued, "to stick to Tanlac, for a few bottles have done me more real good than everything else I have taken combined, and I have spent a small fortune trying to get relief. I have suffered from stomach trouble for twenty-five years and had despaired of ever getting well until Tanlac commenced to put me in shape. I used to have my worst trouble about three or four hours after eating when I would have a sickish feeling through my stomach and such fearful pains about my liver that I could hardly stand it. One doctor said I had gall stones and would never recover without an operation. I then had an ex-ray examination and was told it was my liver that caused my trobue and, so it went on, one saying one thing and one another. In the meantime I was put on a diet of cereals and toast, and from that to a milk diet. For six solid weeks before I began taking Tanlac I never had a bite of any kind of food—just drank milk and was literally starving, but it dieting did me no good and I gradually got worse. I was also troubled with constipation. There have been months at a time when I was unable to work and one time I was laid up for a whole year.

"So things rocked along until a friend of mine talked me into trying Tanlac. When I started on this medicine I weighed only one hundred and fifty-two—so you can imagine what a dreadful condition I was in. Well, my first bottle of Tanlac never helped me any that I could tell, but I couldn't afford to condemn a medicine so many people said had helped them, so I kept on taking it and am certainly glad I did for it has really and truly made me feel like a new man. I never felt any great improvement until after I had taken five or six bottles and then I began gradually feeling better. So I kept right on, taking five or six bottles more, and by that time I was weighing one hundred and thirty-six pounds, had gained twenty-one pounds, and since then I have felt perfectly sound and well. I never have an ache or pain nor a sign of stomach trouble any more. I sleep like a log every night and have more energy and strength than I have had in years. This is certainly one happy New Year for me and is the first one in twenty-five years when I could say I was free from suffering. I still take a dose now and then and would buy every bottle in town if I knew no more was going to be made. I have just finished my dinner of salad, meats, vegetables, pie and coffee, and I can digest these things now better than I could milk before I took Tanlac. I would spend my last dollar for Tanlac rather than be without it."

Tanlac is sold in La Grande by Silverthorn and Richardson Drug stores; in Union by L. A. Wright; in North Powder by L. A. Russel and in Elgin by Scott E. Harris and in Telocaset by Telocaset Grocer Co."—Adv.
