THE OASIS FOR THE THIRSTY

Every Other Day is a Day, is the Town of Juarez Which is Located on Mexican Border.

JUAREZ, Mex., April 5.—This little Mexican frontier town has become an oasis in the great American prohibition desert. Here, on Calle Comercio, may be seen barrels and cases of American made whiskey and wine which is offered to the few who are permitted by the passport regulations to visit Juarez, Mexico has not yet reached the prohibition stage and the number of saloons along the main street has increased until every other door is a bar.

At present few Americans are permitted to take advantage of this opportunity to purchase drinks. The passports are limited only to those having urgent business in Juarez and, should an American make too frequent trips or visits the saloons too often his passport is recalled. The saloonkeepers are looking forward to the time when all passport restrictions will be removed and Juarez will again become the mecca for the thirsty as was the case under the Villa rule.

Many old time saloonkeepers from El Paso, who were familiar figures behind the bars of famous saloons in American cities, have made their appearance here and the Mexican main street is beginning to assume the appearance of the frontier town of olden times. The bars and fixtures are from the American side, having been shipped across the Rio Grande when prohibition became effective in Texas. Slot machines, "art" pictures and all of the appurtenances of the American saloon have been installed and, except for the Mexican loafers, the visitor might think he was in an American bar.

"Bootlegging" is developing into a regular traffic since these saloons opened, according to American customs authorities, who have discovered that Mexican saloons, which women and laborers who cross to the American side and selling it at a high price.

Carload of Clothing Sent Away for Relief of Europe's Destitute

As a result of the week's drive for donations of clothing to be sent to the war sufferers in devastated Europe, the local Red Cross on Friday shipped off to New York one carload of supplies, representing the donations collected from all points in Union and Walla Walla counties. This shipment will go direct to New York and will be sent immediately across the Atlantic to the districts where it is most needed.

Included in the shipment were thirty perfectly new quilts, and there was a great deal of clothing that was in first class condition. There was considerable work about the collecting of the articles and the boxing of them for shipment, and the Red Cross ladies wish to have their best thanks conveyed to all who helped them, as well as to all who gave. Particular mention is made of H. C. Lawyer, who gave two days to do the crating.

The ladies who had the drive in charge, while pleased that they were able to send away as much as they have, were somewhat disappointed that their appeal did not meet a better response in the city of La Grande. In proportion to what was received from other towns, they say La Grande people failed to make a very good showing.

Suppose you were a visitor or a prospective buyer entering your own house. What would be your first impression? A shabby entrance with a porch badly in need of paint? Then why not change it?

B-H Porch Floor Paint is prepared especially for this purpose. Assures an unusually durable finish and helps preserve the porch and steps by saving the wear and tear of walking on them.

HOMES ON SMALL TRACTS

A good place of 20 acres, being in Fruitdale only 2 miles from La Grande. Ten acres of this place is in rough state, as it has never been all cleared and placed in cultivation, but is good land. The other ten acres is now in cultivation. There is a fair house. A large fruit storehouse, a few small outbuildings. This tract is where some one can make an ideal home. We have a number of 5, 10, or 20-acre tracts at this time for sale.
