Among Coiffures Here is a Favorite

There may be several new things under the sun in coiffures, all seeking the favor of women who show less interest in new hairdressing styles than they did in prewar times, but none of them has had the success of the neat, attractive style that is pictured above. It is distinctly a youthful coiffure and it is worn, with little modifications as to partings, wavings, and disposition of locks about the forehead, by about nine out of ten of all the younger women.

In this coiffure—at its prettiest—the hair is marcelled or water waved and brushed back from the top of the brow. At the temples, or at one temple, it is brought forward in a deep wave and pinned flat to the forehead. A deep full puff is rolled at each side, entirely covering the ears, and pinned to place with wire pins. The disposition of the hair at the back depends upon its abundance; for it is arranged in from one to four flat coils, fastened close to the head above the nape of the neck. Where there is a lot of hair to dispose of the number of coils is increased in order to have them as flat as possible.

Sometimes the hair at the forehead shows a shallow part at one side of the other, or it is combed back without any part, leaving the forehead uncovered. For a very high forehead a flat curl at the center is often found to be becoming. It is pressed down while the hair is damp and dries in that position. The rolls or puffs at the side are plainly an evolution of the bobbed style of hairdressing, which gave the same lines about the face but necessitated cutting the hair. Women who did not have the courage to go to this length managed by simulating the "bob" by means of rolls at the sides. This style has the advantage of giving the carefully groomed appearance that is essential to every coiffure now.

Chiffon Velvets.

So limited is the supply of wool fabrics of women's apparel for autumn that chiffon velvets are being introduced not only for coats, but for suits, and this same fact will bring into prominence silk and satin suits and coats, which for comfort will be finished with quilted linings or heavily interlined.

War Time Jewelry.

Many women are wearing inexpensive colored jewelry to match different costumes, mainly because it is considered bad taste to wear elaborate jewels in war time.

Hand-Painted Flowers.

Among the ornaments seen on the summer hats are silk flowers painted by hand.

Fred G. Pottel, of Promise, Ore., was in town yesterday and today and was a business visitor at the land office this morning.

W. L. Kirby, of Baker; Mrs. M. Allen, Henry K. Healey and H. J. the land office in La Grande this morning. Kamela, were callers at morning.

Are Judges of Own Membership. The Constitution gives each house of the national congress the right to expel a member, and makes each house the sole judge in the matter. Any charge would suffice, if two-thirds of the members deemed it cause for expulsion. Neither house has anything to do with expelling a member of the other house.

RED CROSS RELIEF HEAD CENTER

Jesse Frederick Steiner, P. H. D., director of the bureau of training for home service, of the relief department of the American Red Cross, visited the ladies in charge of the canteen here today, while No. 6 stopped here. Mrs. O. E. Moran and Miss Lucia Harley were the ladies on duty. The ladies spent a pleasant ten minutes chatting with Dr. Steiner and heard from him generous praise of the work the Red Cross canteens throughout the country have been doing since America's entry into the war. At first regarded as a non-essential institution, Dr. Steiner said, the canteen has come to be one of the most valuable and most appreciated departments of the war work.

Greedy for Wasps. The common green frog has been discovered to possess an insatiable greed for wasps. This extraordinary appetite does not seem to be in the least checked by an occasional sting. The protective color of the frog, which sits motionless upon leaves, no doubt includes the most wary of insects into sense of security.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Electricity on the Farm. Electricity is now equal to nearly all kinds of farm work, from irrigation to churning. So far it has not affected plowing and cultivating, but electricity is not yet through with the farm.
