WAR WAS CHEAP IF YOU BELIEVE MONEY EXPERTS

Treasury Statisticians Figure U. S. Paid 33c a Day Per Man to Beat Germany

It cost Mr. American Citizen just thirty-three and one-half cents a day to wage the war. This is what the statisticians of the Treasury Department at Washington figure the cost of the war to be for each man, woman and child in the United States, and from that they deduct that the individual in this country had an easy time of it in financing this country's part in the great world struggle. As nearly as can be estimated the total cost of the war in money to the American people from the declaration of hostilities April 6, 1917, until the signing of the armistice November 11, 1918, amounted to twenty-six billion dollars. The Census Bureau on January 1, 1919, set the population of the United States at approximately 104,000,000 people. From April 6, 1917, until November 11, 1918, is 640 days. The Treasury experts made two simple divisions and found—America paid thirty-three and one-half cents per capita per day for the war. The twenty-six billion dollars used in the estimate of the cost of the war included the amount to be raised by the Victory Loan. This final loan it was pointed out by the government officials will go in large part to paying for supplies ordered for the army before the cessation of hostilities and for the expense of demobilizing our wartime military forces, both of which must be counted as war expenses.

SHOT 9 TIMES SOLDIER TAKES HUN TRENCHES

Corporal Storms Heights of Ourcq River With Remnants of His Platoon

At the direction of the War Department General Pershing has forwarded from France accounts of 100 deeds of heroism performed by soldiers of the American forces, most typical of the spirit of our army. The story of Corporal Sidney Manning is one of conspicuous gallantry. Corporal Manning was in charge of an automatic rifle squad when his battalion assaulted the heights of the Ourcq River. During the advance on the hill Manning's platoon commander was killed, and just as the line reached the crest of the hill the platoon sergeant fell. Corporal Manning then assumed command of the platoon. Though he himself was severely wounded and was the only survivor of his squad, this soldier led forward the 25 remaining men of the platoon against an enemy strong point, wired, outmanned and defended by machine guns, which dominated the Ourcq valley. He was repeatedly wounded but with seven men took the position. While his men consolidated the line he held off a considerable number of the enemy fifty yards away with his rifle. When the position had been consolidated he crawled back to shelter, having received nine wounds. Hacking up such examples of sacrifice as this the government is calling on the people to take the Victory Loan to pay for the expenses of our war time army.
