LET'S GO COMPANY WILL CHANGE PROGRAM TONIGHT

The "Let's Go" company will close their engagement at the Arcade theatre tonight and by so doing will present an entirely new change of program. The show they will put on tonight is as good as if not better than the bill they offered last night. The scene is laid in the lobby of a popular hotel and affords Dick Darling ample opportunity of keeping the laughs coming fast and furious.

Al Cotton will play the role of a blackface hotel porter. With the burnt-cork on Cotton will have a chance to shoot across the footlights a line of rich patter and con jokes that he used while appearing in vaudeville a season ago. Harvey K. Gatchett will be seen in the role of Reuben Beanstock, proprietor of the hotel, while Mr. Rogers himself will appear in a special number of his own creation.

Helen Huntington will also play a prominent part while the rest of the company will do their utmost to put tonight's show over with a snap and a bang!

Tonight at the Arcade theatre.

PRESENTATION OF TARZAN FILM EAGERLY AWAITED

One of the most eagerly awaited events of the amusement world will take place Friday and Saturday when "The Romance of Tarzan" will be shown at the Arcade theatre.

This spectacular seven-part cinema presents the concluding chapters of Edgar Rice Burroughs' "Tarzan of the Apes," which aroused so much interest when exhibited here at the Arcade theatre a short time ago.

It is urged that as many as possible arrange to attend the matinee performance as there will undoubtedly be large crowds in the evening to see this picture.

ROLE OF SEERESS GIVES MAE MARSH "SHIVERS"

Playing the role of an Oriental clairvoyant was not without discomforts for Mae Marsh, the delightful Golden Star, who had previously never felt the slightest uneasiness in the scores of parts she has been called upon to portray. Work in the studio and on location has always been so much play for her, but depicting weird incantations in the garb of an Egyptian seeress, as she does in the latest Golden picture, "Money Mad," which comes to the Sherry theatre tomorrow, got on her nerves, she said.

"Being chased by a giant negro, as I was in 'The Birth of a Nation,' was child's play compared with the feeling that came over me in my first experience in the play as an Egyptian clairvoyant," remarked Miss Marsh.

"It all seemed so weird, and, though I never for a moment forgot that it was all acting, I must confess I got on my nerves at first. The weird surroundings, the dimly lighted halls and the sinister-looking Hindus about the place gave me moments of uneasiness, but soon I was myself again and found much that was pleasing in the role, for you know, I've always wanted to play such a part."

Also shown the Ford Weekly and a comedy.
