"THE BLUE BIRD" TO BE SHOWN AT ARCADE THEATRE

"The Blue Bird," an Aracraft picture, will be shown in the Arcade theatre Friday and Saturday. It is an adaptation, by Charles Maigret, from "Misterlinck's" masterpiece, which has attracted wide attention in the dramatic and literary world. While it deals with subjects of great profundity in an allegorical manner it was easily understood. The great author took for his central figures a little boy and girl, and for them he drew aside the curtain of life, delved into the past and touched eloquently upon the great beyond.

In the form of a play, as produced in London and later in New York, the story teamed with dramatic interest, and instead of a heavy preachment or a dry sermon it developed into a virile presentation, sparkling with vivacity. In adapting this work to motion pictures, director Maurice Tourneur, who staged the production of "Aerflakt," has carried out the idea of the author in making the photoplay understandable. He discussed the scenes with the tiny actors, who are theoretically the leading characters, believing that if these children can grasp the story, the average patron of a moving picture theatre, with the aid of the loud titles which embellish the film, should easily follow the play and understand the allegory.

The result is a unique play, of stupendous magnitude, in which is incorporated the highest technique of photographic art, with multiple film exposures requiring infinite care and patience.

Settings of colossal size and ensemble of hundreds of people make this photoplay a highly spectacular offering in which the scenic details have been carefully looked after.

WITH THE ORIGINAL CAST

The unusual photoplay extravaganza, "All Baba and the Forty Thieves," which will be shown at the Sherry theatre today and tomorrow may be said to have some of the original cast of which the romancers of old Persia wrote when they compiled that remarkable volume, "The Arabian Nights." "All Baba" is said to have been produced with all the splendor of the original times and period. Among the properties secured for the production were a number of rare old Persian rugs. The history of one of these, it is claimed, dates back to the famous monarch Haroun-al-Rashid whose court it adorned. Such a claim is not unreasonably true. It is well known that Oriental carpets and rugs are prized over frequently in the night, bringing thousands from the fires but despite our protests at his noisy mode of sleeping, he declared he had a "rattling good bed."

Firewood was obtainable along the route and we were able to use our woodstove after cutting a hole in the side of the car for the stove pipe. Liquid fuel proved our only difficulty. It was impossible to boil even half of an inch of water on the stove when the car was in motion. We had a real American coffee grinder. The coffee beans were put in a clean sack and one of the men to the tune of "Yankee Doodle" would crush the beans with a hammer.

ANTWERP IS REGAINING ITS FORMER ACTIVITY

Shipping Men Are Anxiously Waiting the Opening of American Base.

ANTWERP, April 16.—(Associated Press Correspondence.)—Antwerp appears to be passing through a process of resurrection, although the tonnage handled since the port was reopened more than three months ago represents that which would ordinarily come through this port in one week during the days prior to the war. Ships now come straggling in, and along the seven-mile waterfront the wharf is heard creaking here and there, the vision in some of the great sheds is obstructed by unpretentious stacks of bags of American rice and there are barrels of Chicago pork, and there are foodstuffs, clothing and manufactured articles, most of which, however, is for immediate use.

The American Commission of Relief in Belgium had seventeen steamships in port early in April and the American base for supplying the German army of occupation in Germany was unloading five others.

Shipping men are anxiously awaiting the opening of the American base at Contich, about two miles outside of Antwerp on the Malines road. Barracks are being erected at Contich for the accommodation of 20,000 soldiers at a time. This is expected to inject a little more life into Antwerp port. The grounds picked out for the American base is a vast plain, dry and well irrigated, and the doughboys will find living and sanitary conditions there much better than in other bases which have achieved greater prestige.

The Americans have taken over some of the piers where North German Lloyd steamships formerly docked. The work was arduous, as the piers were encumbered with gravel imported from Holland by the Germans, ostensibly to repair roads but actually to build reinforced concrete shelters, dugouts and trenches. One hundred thousand cubic yards of gravel had to be removed before the piers could be used. It is estimated the Germans had enough gravel there to repair Belgian roads for fifty years. Fifteen thousand longshoremen and stevedores are idle here and the only solution shipping men find when they are questioned as to how the situation can be remedied may be summed up in one word, "America."

RED CROSS WORK IN MACEDONIA

Unusual Experiences of Nurses and Field Workers in Repatriation of Greece

SALONIKI. (Correspondence of the Associated Press)—Some of the more amusing "human interest" incidents of the activities of the American Red Cross nurses and field workers during the repatriation of Greeks deported into Bulgaria during the war are related by Lieutenant A. S. Bodell, in charge of the American Red Cross relief stations in Macedonia and Bulgaria.

"We came into Bulgaria on a German freight car," says Lieutenant Bodell in his report. "This Red Cross car was the first car of the first train that ran from Serbia to Saloniki after the armistice and it was with the Red Cross until we returned to Greece."

"On the trip out of Bulgaria we had one iron bed and two camp cots. One Red Cross man slept on a crate of biscuits, the bed being demountable to furnish five chairs by day. The Red Cross man turned over frequently in the night, bringing down the first bit of sleep, our protests at his noisy mode of sleeping, he declared he had a "rattling good bed."

"Firewood was obtainable along the route and we were able to use our woodstove after cutting a hole in the side of the car for the stove pipe. Liquid fuel proved our only difficulty. It was impossible to boil even half of an inch of water on the stove when the car was in motion. We had a real American coffee grinder. The coffee beans were put in a clean sack and one of the men to the tune of "Yankee Doodle" would crush the beans with a hammer.

"When chicken was wanted for dinner one of the party would go out with half a cup of sugar in hand, wander about the village until he saw a "likely" chicken, which he would thereupon seize. The native woman who made the most outcry was presumed to be the owner and usually was glad to accept the half cup of sugar in exchange. Our much maligned ration of "bully beef" proved to be acceptable also.

"Bartering was the order of the day at all stations. A slice of bread would obtain three shins, a fill of large water jar or attract a carriage of supplies. During our last afternoon in Dedeagatch, on the Aegean Sea, we had the use of a horse and wagon all afternoon, in order to return borrowed furniture for the payment of one tin of bully beef."

"The fame of American Red Cross relief stations spread throughout Bulgaria to such an extent that other Red Cross workers and British and French officers, including two French generals, sought us out in passing to secure a canteen of hot tea or to replenish depleted rations."

OLD DISCUSSION RENEWED

A Mountain on Puget Sound Is the Object of Much Contention

SEATTLE, Wash., May 8.—Puget Sound's old discussion as to whether "The Mountain" should be called Mount Rainier or Mount Tacoma has been reopened by newspaper suggestions that both sides to the argument drop their claims and compromise upon Mount Roosevelt. Tacoma long has held that the big peak's name is Mount Rainier and as one argument in its favor, has pointed to government maps bearing the name Rainier.

A Portland newspaper, in what it termed "a helpful and charitable spirit" recently suggested that the name be changed to Mount Roosevelt. One Seattle paper seconded the idea and another suggested that the scheme be carried farther by naming Puget Sound Oyster Bay and "The Mountain" Sagamore Hill.

Tacoma, speaking editorially, refuses to accept any of the suggestions stating that Theodore Roosevelt himself supported Tacoma's claim to the name.

"By the way, how do you go about it to change the name of a mountain" one editorial asked. The question has not been answered.
