SALEM TO HAVE HISTORIC PAGEANT

The most stupendous historical pageant ever attempted in Oregon will be given in Salem for the commemoration of the 125th anniversary of the founding of Willamette University, the oldest university west of the Mississippi river. Between 250 and 500 people will take part in the 24 episodes which picture in dramatic form the great events of Oregon history. Over 100 Indian parts will be played by Indians from the Chemawa Indian School.

The pageant has been written by Prof. Della Crowder-Miller, who is known through all the Lyceum circles as the "Bon Har Lady" because of her famous interpretation of that masterpiece. Prof. Crowder-Miller will give personal direction to the pageant, which in itself is an assurance of its artistic and dramatic success.

Many pioneers are showing much interest in the pageant because of its depicting the famous scenes of Oregon history. Much assistance is being derived from their suggestions as to the characters and appearances of the great pioneers.

The pageant is under the direction of a committee composed of both university people and the citizens of Salem. Upon the general executive committee is Pres. Carl Gregg, Denny representing the administration, Prof. Della Crowder-Miller representing the faculty, and Prof. James T. Matthews representing the alumni.

The pageant is to be presented on a large out-of-door stage. As the seating capacity of the stadium will not exceed 200 people, the entire performance will be repeated on three different days, June 7th, 9th and 10th.

A BISHOP OF COMMERCE

An Episcopalian bishop, who also served as an army chaplain, has been elected president of the chamber of commerce in his diocese and has accepted the office and its responsibilities. Ten years ago this would have been an impossibility. No community would have had the hardihood to suggest a bishop for the place and no bishop would have dared serve. It is still somewhat remarkable, but the only question asked is "Why not?" and the more it is considered the more certain is the conclusion that and invite to this place his capacity and an inspiration. In the first enlarged rather than lessened, and place, if the bishop is such a man in the second place the standing
