ETHEL CLAYTON IN "THE MYSTERY GIRL"

Ethel Clayton, the talented, beautiful and versatile Paramount star, will be seen in "The Mystery Girl" at the Arcade theatre on Thursday only. Martin Fairfax adapted the picture from one of George Barr McCutcheon's latest and most popular novels—"Green Fanny."

George Barr McCutcheon has the reputation of never writing a dry story. His imagination is vivid and he puts a great deal of originality into his books, coupled with a whimsical and fantastic humor, and a genius for invention that renders them entirely different from the average best seller.

"Green Fanny" was a striking story, but it is said to have been improved by its transference to the screen. The change in title gives a better idea of what it is about. For Miss Clayton is truly a girl of mystery and a very charming one.

There is a lot of trouble about crown jewels of an imaginary principality, and the war is introduced through the fact that the heroine is at first seen as an ambulance driver in the battle zone, while the hero, played by Henry Woodward, is an American Army captain, invalided home because of a smother's heart. There is adventure, thrill, excitement and humor in the story and the ending is said to be distinctly charming.

William C. De Mille directed the picture with much skill. The supporting cast is an excellent one, the players including Henry Woodward, Clarence Burton, Charles West, Winter Hall, Maym Kelso and Packer Jones.

FIRST FARRAR PICTURE MODERN AND THRILLING

Geraldine Farrar makes her first appearance in Goldwyn Pictures; the play chosen for her being "The Turn of the Wheel," by Tex Christie. When the international celebrity appears at the Sherry theatre tomorrow and Friday it is said that she will have a role of her own choosing, which means that "The Turn of the Wheel" is a play of today, the star having announced ed that she means to appear only in modern roles. The story of "The Turn of the Wheel" is a highly dramatic one beginning at Monte Carlo, where Rosalie Dean, an American girl, is occurring with her lover. At the Casino she sees a stranger, also an American, who she recognizes and he goes. Feeling a powerful attraction, Rosalie follows him and stops Maxfield Grey when he is on the verge of suicide. Like all gamblers, he is sure that he could win back everything if he had one more chance. Rosalie insists that he take that chance with money she gives him and Grey does win back—everything. At the moment of his triumph Grey is arrested, charged with the murder of his divorced wife in New York. She returns to America with him.

Remanded to the Tombs, Grey refuses stubbornly to say anything to clear himself. His attorney is helpless. Grey says that he visited his wife the night she was shot, but beyond that will tell nothing. Rosalie's belief in his innocence never wavers. Her astute work in uncovering the real murderer, brings a thrilling and interesting conclusion. Also a comedy.

VIOLA DANA CREATES ROLE OF TOM-BOY VAMP

A new role, not yet familiar to picture audiences, has been created by Viola Dana in "Satan Junior," the Metro comedy-drama which will be the attraction at the Sherry theatre last showing today, when she appears as a tom-boy vampire—a modern Diana of the chase.

In this play Miss Dana epitomizes the role of Diana Arduway, a girl of impulse—charming to the eye but formidable in her feminine capriciousness. It is a role which brings out the delightful and refreshing artistry of the little star and gives to sophisticated theatre-goers a new angle on the tom-boy vampire which will be decidedly welcome.

Ant Development.

Ants have developed nothing remotely resembling industrial organization. Many unnecessary conclusions have been drawn from comparing nesters (developed female) ant workers with the unmarried women of modern industry. A comparison with child labor would be truer. For ant workers are always "hunger" stimulated creatures who have no economic opportunity to grow up—who are forced by family necessity to venture out for food before they reach full growth.

Home of Nymphs.

Near the cape of Shimu, in Japan, there is a village the name of which in Japanese means "The settlement of Nymphs." Women in this village is the predominant partner. The chief industry is pearl fishing and the women are the fishers. The men stay at home and do the work.

Housework is hard enough, when healthy. Every La Grande woman who is having headache, blue and nervous spells, dizzy headaches and kidney or bladder trouble, should be glad to heed this La Grande woman's experience:

Mrs. Geo. Bunch, 1706 N. Spruce St., La Grande, says: "Two years ago I was nearly bed-fast with kidney trouble. For several weeks, my back and hips were so painful, I could hardly keep going. When I got down, it was almost impossible for me to straighten up, as my back was so weak and sore. My kidneys didn't act right and caused me a great deal of misery. One box of Doan's Kidney Pills made me feel like a different person. Since then, I have taken them when I have had any trouble from my kidneys and they have never failed to help me."
