My Country 'Tis of Thee, Sweet Land of Liberty

Saving Made By Withholding

When Secretary Daniels first recommended, last winter, a new fiscal building plan calling for the expenditure of $50,000,000 of additional money in three years, he himself did not clearly explain the purpose of the proposal, but there were two explanations suggested.

It appears now that the former suggestion was the correct one. The big navy plan was meant to make the United States perfectly capable of taking care of herself if the old international method were continued, making it necessary for every nation to take care of its individual self-interest.

This explanation, at any rate, seems defensible from Secretary Daniels' recent action in withdrawing his recent mediation and returning to the more conservative method of building plans laid down before the war.

What Are Necessities of Life? The demands of a sick child are addressed by the well-known medicine. Every household should have it.

The higher it includes savings, education, religious activity, health, insurance and more. It is not a new thing, but it can be made better after a new year begins. Health, wealth, well and good things are done. All that we have ever had has its own map is a plan of action, the necessities.

The Air Has Been Conquered

What had God wrought? was the first message transmitted over the telegraph wires by an international speech. Man's speech had conquered distance. There were those who were afraid that the world had been lost and that the feet had been accomplished.

But when, on the seventeenth day of May, America won her greatest victory: There came the day when the world was flashing throughout the world. A revolution day, full of jubilation looked backward over the years of war. To those who felt it most, it was a day of emotion too deep for language, close to tears. But wonderful as it was, it was a backward-looking day—a day of sadness because the times past was done.

The seventeenth of May, quieted teaching with profound feeling out for those of keen forward vision, will be remembered in the histories as the day when first we sincerely faced about with the lighting of the torch at Plymouth, the long, perilous journey behind them, America and the world must face the fact that the new era is at hand.
