CHANGING RUBBISH TO GOLD

One day, when in London, a spinner came across a heap of silk waste mixed up with dirty ropends, leaves and sticks, all knotted together.

"What is that? he asked.

"Oh, simply rubbish. It is impossible to do anything with it," was the reply.

But the trained young spinner of Yorkshire knew better. He bought the great heap of waste at a halfpenny a pound, and was laughed at.

"For nearly ten years all the profit from his mills went into experimental machinery for the utilization of this waste. Then came the startling announcement that he had produced a machine which at small cost turned the waste rubbish into beautiful fabrics. The result is that today waste silk pours into the great Manningham mills from all parts of the world to come forth worth hundreds of thousands of pounds.

In nature there is no waste. It is only because of man's limitations that the world is littered with what seems to him rubbish. Some day a ray of genius falls upon a dead heap of waste and turns it into gold.—The Christian Herald.

DRAMA LEAGUE IN LONDON.

LONDON, June 17.—A British drama league, operated on somewhat different lines from the Drama League of America, is to be formed soon. It is to be a kind of consulting center for all interested in the theatre.

Lord Howard de Walden is to be its first president. Other well known persons interested in the movement are Miss Lena Ashwell, the actress, Granville Barker, and the labor leaders, J. R. Clynes and J. H. Thomas.

NO CROWDS ALLOWED.

(By Associated Press to The Observer)

BIRMINGHAM, Eng., June 17.—You must not read a newspaper on the streets in Birmingham. John Turner did it and was fined $2.50 for causing an obstruction of traffic. The arresting constable testified that Turner bought a paper from a newsboy and began reading it, causing a crowd to gather to see what the news was. The newsboy also was fined $2.50 for causing a crowd to collect by selling papers while standing on the sidewalk. Newsboys must keep moving in Birmingham.

MEDFORD DEFEATS SCHOOL BUDGET

MEDFORD, June 17.—The school district budget was overwhelmingly defeated in yesterday's election. A citizens' committee will confer with the school board on a new budget to be voted on at another special election to be held soon.

WOMEN WHO SMOKE NOW PUFF ON PIPES

LONDON, June 17.—Smoking by women will no longer be confined to the poverty stricken or to the rural districts, according to tobacconists here. A member of the trade has disclosed publicly that short cigarettes of large diameter are now smoked in holders resembling pipes by numerous women of all stations.

It is supposed that this practice will lead to the appearance soon of highly ornamental pipes for women to use with real pipe tobacco. Tobacconists say that increasing consumption by women accounts for the shortage of cigarettes.

Some of the London papers print today pictures of an officer and bride, both smoking cigarettes immediately after the ceremony, the bride still wearing her wedding gown. More women smokers are seen at the bathing beaches and on the Thames this summer than ever before. Many are becoming proficient in rolling their own cigarettes.

Gow Why has raised a large family and he is having them provided with good education along strict American lines.

The Vicar's Slip.

An exceedingly amiable widow came to live at Little Redcomb. The vicar, a bachelor, regarded her with fear and trembling; she was so very obviously after him. He cured her, though, one day by making a fortunate slip.

The dear lady met him in the village, and stopped him.

She talked of this, that, and the other, and at last worked up to the point where she could talk about herself.

"It is very lonely for me now," she said. "I have always been used to having a man about the house, and I can't get used to the quietness."

She turned and gazed away to the distant hills, while her underlip trembled piteously.

The vicar muttered the strongest word in his vocabulary, and then said hastily:

"Oh, don't worry, my dear lady—don't worry! You know the wind is always tempered to the born shorn."—Answers, London.

Lest You Don't Know.

We have been informed on good authority that a dental parlor is also a drawing room and sitting room. When the people fill the room the dentist fills their teeth. He fills their teeth with gold and they fill his hand with silver. They grind their teeth with fear and anxiety. He grinds their teeth with a burr and an emery wheel. They shriek for assistance and he calls for assistants. He gives 'em gas and then charges 'em for it. They ask him to give them credit for the work he does himself. He calls the teeth hollow when it's the owner of them who does the hollering. And so on, ad infinitum.

More may be said, but we shall save it for another time.—Indianapolis Star.

Horrors of Chinese Outlawry.

The city of Antu, on the Han river, was the scene of a horrible outrage by a few disbanded Chinese soldiers on January 2, according to the Central China Post. The hills north of the town have been infested with these brigands for some time. A merchant of Antu set out to collect some bills, was captured on the main road to Chinsun and held for ransom. When the money demanded failed to arrive, the outlaws bound their victim, covered him with straw and, setting it afire, burned the man alive. The police and a few soldiers were sent to the scene, but the murderers had escaped.

Dirigible Launches Airplane.

An unusual aeronautic experiment was tried recently at Rockaway Beach, L. I. when an airplane suspended from one of the navy's "Blimps" was released at an elevation of 3000 feet. An illustration in the April Popular Mechanics shows the plane just at the moment of launching. A cable about 100 feet in length attached to the dirigible was supplied with a contrivance which gripped the center section of the top plane, and which could be instantly released by the pilot.

Heavy American Purchases in Less Than Year Held Significant

LONDON, June 17.—Exportation of precious stones into America in the five months ended May 31 from London alone reached $15,000,000. For the same period last year it was $8,000,000, which was then considered a notable figure.

The importations represent 65 per cent of the uncut diamonds and are viewed as the development on a large scale of the diamond cutting industry in America.

Presence here of representatives of some American jewelry interests is thought to indicate an intention to secure some hitherto unobtainable gems from the old world, especially from Russia.

An agent of one American jewelry concern just left London for Archangel to ascertain the possibilities of obtaining diamonds from Russia.

From the latter have since been obtained many of the finest existing sapphires. Aside from this deposit the most important source of fine gem stones of the kind is a district in Ceylon.
