EVELYN NERBIT AS VAIDA SCORES ARTISTIC TRIUMPH

Evelyn Nerbit has shown what real art can do for the motion picture stars. At the opening of the latest William Fox release, "I Want to Forget," at the Sherry theatre yesterday, a most remarkable bit of acting was revealed. Miss Nerbit portrays the part of Varda Deering, who first appears as a flippant, radiant butterfly, whose sole ambition is to win favors from men.

Later she no longer is a butterfly, but a woman whom war has turned into an earnest worker. Miss Nerbit held everyone spellbound as she played the part of Varda, the woman Secret Service agent.

There are powerful moments in this drama of love and war. At one time the lives of thousands of American soldiers on troopships are at stake.

On another occasion this heroic woman detective is entrapped in an iron vault, where there is only room to breathe. Last showing today.

LUKE MELODRAMAT "SPORTING LIFE" WILL PLEASE YOU

Do you like melodrama? The real old Diary Lane brand filled to the brim with stirring action, suspense and genuine thrill? Who doesn't? If you do, you should not fail to see "Sporting Life," Maurice Tourneur's superb dramatization of the famous Diary Lane success of twenty years ago which will be shown at the Arcade theatre today and tomorrow.

Just as in the days when the vivid melodramas thrilled young and old alike, the picturizations of the more famous of those thrillers, is rousing popular interest to a high degree of intensity. When Mr. Tourneur began work on "Sporting Life," as his first offering as an independent producer, he gave orders that no expense should be spared to make the photoplay a distinct work of art, and that his wisdom was appreciated by the public was demonstrated on its presentation in New York theatre on September 15, 1918, when it was acclaimed one of the best photoproductions made in one night, with a score of neck-lace in her hair, and you can be sure she has no time to be spoiled over her want of the strongest thing about her. As the first degrees of love was that there was no room for this in this new experience she saw in her own imagination.

"The new road, the temptation, the shadow of her former associations and the fear that she should find out that she had been a thief, form a story of fascinating human quality, told in a really happy way by Ted Browning, who directed it.

The story was written by Freda Campbell, and the cast includes a wonderful trio of names: Lon Chaney, Spatswood-Altkoa and Wellington Playter. There is also to be seen the old buffa wrestler, Kalla Pasha, for the ever-present comedy relief.

CARRY SILVER SAFELY

Trains Cross Continent Without Loss of an Ounce.

Mint Director Revealed How War-Time Shipments to India Were Handled.

Washington.—Now that the government has completed its war-time shipments to India of silver from melted dollars, Director of the Mint Baker has disclosed how thousands of tons of the metal were landed from the Philadelphia mint in San Francisco in special trains, guarded by armed men, without loss of an ounce and without general knowledge of the procedure.

Eighteen of these treasure trains made the trip across the continent in the 12 months ending last April 23, with the silver like big bricks piled high in each of the five express cars composing a special train.

Two men with automatic pistols at their hips and sawed-off shotguns on their laps sat in each car, and later guarded the secret transfer of the white bars from train to ship at San Francisco.

Each silver brick weighed about 62 pounds and was worth $1,000, and each train carried between $5,000,000 and $10,000,000 of the bricks. Wrecking of the trains and theft of the metal by bandits was considered an ever-present menace to be guarded against.

Guarded shipments of silver dollars also were made from the United States treasury in Washington and from the New Orleans subtreasury in Philadelphia. These dollars traveled in stout boxes of 1,000 each and were handled much like bags of sugar, except that armed men always were near.

More than 205,000,000 silver dollars were melted and shipped to India during the year, to meet urgent war demands for coinage.

DECISION BY BYRON

Here's a decision by Byron Bill Byron in a Pittsburgh Philadelphia game as carried by a correspondent: Meusel was in third and Cravath on first and one out; Baird stepped to Cuthbert, who ran up the line, jagged Cravath between second and first, making the second out, and then stepped on first before Baird could reach the bag. In the meantime Meusel had crossed the plate. Now comes Byron to announce to the press box that Meusel's run counted. At least, so says the detail of the game, which is taken for what it is worth pending an explanation from the staging umpire.

GREAT RECORD MADE BY ADRIAN C. ANSON

Played for Twenty-Two Years With the Same Team.

Was Manager of Chicago Club for Longer Period Than Any Other Leader—Was an Active Player While Acting as Head.

There are records and yet more records in baseball—but what player will ever duplicate two records, both held by the same man—the years held by Adrian C. Anson. They point promptly to the batting marks that Uncle made—the way he peled that apple through the year—but the historians seem to overlook these two distinct features of Anson's great career:

He stayed longer in the service of a single club than any other man that ever wore the spikes—and he was manager of the same club for a longer stretch of time than any other manager managed a ball club before or since.

Anson played continuously with the Chicago team from the spring of 1878 to the fall of 1897—22 years under one banner. Never has any other man ever approximated that length of service, least of all without at least one change of posture.

Anson managed the Chicago club for 19 seasons—and nobody, before or since, has come anywhere near that managerial record. Moreover, Anson was an active player all the time—never did any of his directing from the bench. He became an institution in Chicago—something that was taken for granted; something the citizens assumed belonged there forever, and was as much a part of the scenery as the Masonic temple, the stock yards or the lake front.

THORPE BATTED FOR KAUFF

Indian Sent Up to Bat for Center Fielder in Recent Game—Quite Unusual Happening.

In the game of April 20 which witnessed the Gimtz and Ervase a pinch hitter was sent in for Benny Kauff. This was the second time in the major league history of B. Kauff such a thing has happened. Lew McCarty batted for him once last year in a game against Chicago. Jim Thorpe was the substitute this time and he came through.

KEEP EYES ON FRANK FRISCH

Wardham Baseball Star Being Watched by League Scouts—Is Playing Big Game Game.

The league scouts are keeping their eyes on Frank Frisch, the Foxboro baseball and football star. Frisch plays quarterback for the Foxboro institution, and is playing great ball against all comers. In a recent game against the Boston Braves, Frisch pitched a gem, and was named a triple and a single in five times out.

Preferred by girls in the neighborhood, and being questioned and respected for his remarkable performance, he never fights his way through the only argument.

GIVE US A CHANCE

Local Patriotism. The extent to which all classes of society have brought their patriotism into practice has been marvelous, was a remark made by Field Marshal Sir Evelyn Wood, V. C. in a recent conversation.

As an instance of this he mentioned how cheerily yet efficiently a wounded soldier's hospital, within a stone's throw of his residence at Harlow, was run.

Sir Evelyn is acutely interested in its management, and his daughter works there every day as a nursing maid, along with others studying to earn a living.
