Buttermilk May Become the National Drink in the "Great American Desert"

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 24.—July 1 is National Buttermilk Day.

Buttermilk, the United States Department of Agriculture thinks, is one of the best drinks in the world—nutritious, palatable and full of zest and vim. The man who drinks buttermilk regularly and copiously is doing a good turn for himself. That is one of the purposes of proclaiming National Buttermilk Day. The other is that the dairy industry in the United States will be encouraged.

Buttermilk Day, it is hoped, will remind many people of this drink, introduce it to others and be the beginning of a greater consumption of buttermilk that will contribute to the health and happiness of the consumers and, at the same time, help dairy farmers to develop production.

Inasmuch as a simple supply of buttermilk, both for homes and for hotels and restaurants on July 1, the Department of Agriculture requests cream, milk plants, and other dairy establishments to cooperate in the plan to popularize the drink.

It is pointed out that, while straight buttermilk is an excellent drink, there are a number of delicious combinations. Buttermilk lemonade is obtained by adding the juice of two or three lemons to a quart of buttermilk, with sugar to taste. Buttermilk may be combined with lemon juice, orange juice or eggs and sugar for making frozen daiquiris.

Aside from its food and beverage qualities buttermilk is said to possess medicinal qualities. Many physicians prescribe it in the treatment of certain intestinal disorders. The bacteria that brings about the chemical change by which buttermilk is produced is believed, by many physicians and bacteriologists to destroy certain other organisms that, in the human body, tend to hasten senility. Many prominent men drink buttermilk regularly as a tonic. One of the most widely known lecturers and writers in the United States drinks buttermilk as regularly as he brushes his teeth, and declares that he feels himself getting younger with every glassful.

HAY CROPS FOR LIVE STOCK

Many Farmers Unmindful of Necessity of Providing for Fall and Winter Feeding.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

The high price of rough feed emphasizes the necessity of all farmers planting a sufficient acreage of summer forage crops to enable them to provide themselves with hay and other roughages for their live stock during the coming year. With the abundance of pasture available in the springtime farmers oftentimes are unmindful of the necessity of providing for that period during the fall when pasture will be dry, or during the winter when there will be no feed available.

The county agents should be consulted with reference to the availability of seed. Where outside purchases have to be made the order should be placed at once, so that the seed may be on hand to sow when the soil is in good condition and the season is not too far advanced.

Among the several summer hay crops for the Southwest sorghum or Sudan grass are undoubtedly in most favor. In the southeastern territory sorghum and cowpeas, planted any time before the first of July, will mature a great abundance of good quality rough feed for mules or cattle. The county agents should be consulted with reference to best crops for local conditions, method of planting and quantity of seed per acre to be used in different localities.

The principal speaker at a political meeting was a budding orator who loved the light of publicity. Grasping the speaker by the arm on the conclusion of his long address, the chairman said: "Your speech was like a glass of good champagne," here the chairman smiled pleasantly, "lots of froth and very dry!"
