ENID BENNETT HAS DELIGHTFUL ROLE

A novel role, that of the daughter of a prospector, was selected for dainty Enid Bennett, in her latest Paramount picture, "Fuss and Feathers" which will be displayed at the Arcade theatre today and tomorrow. It is said that Miss Bennett never portrayed a more appealing character than this and that her work therein is all that can be desired.

The story of "Fuss and Feathers" was written by Julien Josephson and it was directed by Fred Niblo under the supervision of Thomas H. Ince. An unusually powerful cast was selected to support the star, the players including Douglas MacLean, leading man, J. P. Lockney, Charles French, Sylvia Ashton and Robert McKim.

Human interest, the thrill of tense scenes, humor and many attractive settings, particularly those representing the mining camp, will, it is believed, justify the prediction that this is a distinctive production and one of the most unique in which Miss Bennett ever has appeared.

The story concerns a prospector who strikes it rich and his daughter Susie. They go to San Francisco where they are snubbed by society, but Susie has her revenge and marries a scion of wealth and aristocracy. There are many strong situations filled with interest and heart appeal.

Robert Newhard is a photographer of artistic ability who has recently become identified with the Thomas H. Ince company and who has done exquisite work in his camera work on "Fuss and Feathers."

BOBS CROOK TO PAY HIS PAL'S MARRIAGE FEE

Bill Hyde's been a jailbird and all that, but he's a man of principle, nevertheless. Will Rogers, the far-famed roping wit and cowboy of the movies, is the [illegible] Goldwyn Pictures "Laughing Bill Hyde," testifies to that. No admirer can [illegible] friend of Bill's—and then say he received no pay for the job, so if Bill Hyde has to go out and rob a man to get the fee. And that's just what Bill does in the author's greatest screen production, at the [illegible] theatre, [illegible].

When Bill and his old pal, Danny Dorgan, break from prison, they manage to elude a posse of deputies. But in their flight Danny is badly hurt by a fall down a gulch. Bill carries his injured comrade into the town and makes his way to a doctor's office. The doctor knows them to be escaped convicts, but is so impressed with Bill's kindness to Danny that he makes the injured fugitive as comfortable as possible during his last hours.

Bill Hyde then makes his way to Alaska, where he meets the doctor. The physician is there to [illegible] his fortune in order to wed the girl of his heart, but things break badly for him at the start. Bill spurs him on to greater efforts that promise big results. Soon the doctor gets a pleasurable surprise when his sweetheart arrives at his shack. An immediate wedding is planned, and Bill is designated master of ceremonies. Hyde goes to the cabin of the only clergyman in the section and brings him back to the doctor's place. After the marriage the minister congratulates them and leaves.

"My God, Doc, we never paid 'im!" says Bill. "He'll think we're a couple of pikers." That night Bill goes to the Bonanza saloon and at the bar he sees a man he knows to be a crook. He follows him out of the place and attacks him. Bill soon has his man helpless and, grabbing his purse, Bill takes out a $20 gold piece and flings the purse back. He runs to the minister's house and on gaining entrance surprises the clergyman by handing him the gold piece, saying:

"Ye know we plumb forgot about yer pay!"

ISLAND CITY NEWS

Mr. and Mrs. Guy Glenn and sons, Howard and Elmer, are home from a two week's auto trip. They report a fine trip through parts of Washington, enjoying the Rose show at Portland and going to the coast, but Grande Ronde valley looks good to them again.

Chilean Ambassador to Italy Stood By States In Fiume Demonstration

ROME, (Correspondence of the Associated Press)—Testifying to the esteem of Chile for the United States the Chilean ambassador to Italy, Signor Enrique Villegas, remained in the United States embassy during the Fiume demonstrations here in order to assure Thomas Nelson Page, the American ambassador, that Chile wanted to show her staunch loyalty to America.

The American embassy had been guarded during the demonstrations by 500 Italian troops so that access to the building was extremely difficult. Signor Villegas succeeded in gaining admission past the military guard and assured the American ambassador of his country's and his personal friendship for America.

Next day, the Cuban minister, Signor Antonio Martin Rivero, called at the embassy to pay his respects and to state that he had been prevented from visiting the American ambassador while the demonstrations were in progress.
