A HELL-BOUNDS

HEART OF GOLD
Jack Sturgis, a thorough cad, marries Ruth Wells, a shop girl. Their marriage remains secret until Ruth is taken ill. The father of Sturgis, although well-meaning but firm, in his belief of blood and posterity, causes the annulment of this marriage.

Young Sturgis goes to Alaska, where he meets Ruby McGraw, proprietress of the General Store, who carries him and becomes his domestic slave.

Wm. S. Hart as Yukon Ed, the Hell-Bound, a prospector feared by men for his strength and loved by all for his goodness of heart, was the "dancer" and self-appointed protector of Ruby.

Sturgis was unfaithful and spent considerable time and much of Ruby's money on other women and wine. When he failed to return one night, Ruby, during a raging storm, goes out into the night in search of him, and finds him in a drunken stupor by the roadside.

Her exposure to cold resulted in pneumonia. Sturgis went for the doctor, and intentionally delays on route, knowing that if she died he would then be free, untroubled, and would secure her money. In his over-riding desire to return to New York and his money, Yukon Ed, on calling, finds her near death and in wild fits, brings back the doctor. Her arrival, however, was too late.

Yukon Ed finds Jack in company with another woman. Angered, holding him a brace of revolvers, he says: "She is waiting for you now on the deck of a ship—and you are being to meet her."

The "deep" pathos, the mighty wrath, the rough kindness of Yukon Ed are brought out in this wonderful drama of the great Northwest. "The Hell-Bound of Alaska" at the Star Theatre, on Friday only, is the sympathetic, stirring drama which only Wm. S. Hart the greatest character portrayal on the screen, ever

DAVID W. GRIFFITH PRODUCED
Hankson among the very finest of 2 On screen motion picture producers, David Wark Griffith has produced numerous screen classics which stand as examples of the best. The cinema art has thus far presented to the world. It is perhaps unnecessary to state that Mr. Griffith created these wonder pieces, "The Birth of a Nation," "Intolerance," "Hearts of the World," and "The Great Love," all of which are brilliant evidences of his industry and painstaking attention to detail. There is as much difference between Griffith pictures and the ordinary screen production, excepting only those of Cecil B. De Mille, Thomas H. Ince and Maurice Tourneur, as there is between the Polar night and the brass sun of the tropics. The Griffith picture, in point of conception, breadth of idea, splendor of execution, artistic portrayals, massiveness, photograph and general excellence is unequalled. In his new "Arcturion" picture, "The Greatest Thing in Life," all the qualities of production which have made Mr. Griffith famous, are clearly in evidence. The theme of this superb picture, which deals with love and war, is that patriotism and love of country through which men regain their souls and after many trials, find themselves, constitute the greatest thing in life. Insofar as the material welfare of humanity is concerned, Mr. Griffith has produced another photoplay in "The Greatest Thing in Life," which will stand in-

"QUICKSAND" WITH DOBOTHY DALTON IN BIG ROMANCE

John Lynch has written an exciting story for Dorothy Dalton's new Thomas H. Ince Paramount picture, "Quicksand," which will be presented at the Arcade Theatre Tuesday only. Cecil Smith produced the scene, and Victor Schertzinger directed the film. In this picture Dorothy Dalton returns to the emotional in a drama of the city, depicting the trials of a young wife whose husband is falsely accused of bringing a check on his firm and is sent to prison for five years.

To provide a livelihood for her and her little girl, she gets work in a restaurant conducted by a ward boss who advises her. To this place comes the police member of the firm for which her husband worked and is smitten with her charm. Believing that she may find out something to advance her, he leads the young woman, one of the very night her husband escaped from prison and is in hiding, the former follows her to her apartment. There, to avenge the ward boss and take flight, he is struck down by the young man. The wife makes him believe he has killed the man and, extracts a confession of the forgery for which her husband is being punished. Then the safe proprietor comes to and orders the arrest of the prodigal and promises to exact his influence in behalf of the wrongfully accused man.

The story is told to afford Miss Dalton abundant opportunities for splendid emotional acting, while the happy ending will send the spectators away in a comfortable frame of mind. A good cast supports the star, with Ed Coxen as leading man.

America's Glorious Day The 4th of July

means more than the flare of rockets and the roll of drums—symbols of our patriotic celebrations. For this day commemorates the birth of a nation—of a "Government of the people, by the people, for the people," which stands today a leader on the earth. Each generation has strengthened the great structure of Americanism founded on the ideals expressed in America's Declaration of Independence—ideals to which today the world aspires. With thankful hearts and a fixed purpose to be worthy at once of those gone before and of tasks ahead, we celebrate this glorious Day of Independence.
