LOCAL HAPPENINGS

Big Barns on Big Farm
J. E. Reynolds, president of the board of directors of the Oregon State fair, is in the city today, having returned from Salem, where he has been in attendance at a board meeting. On his Grand Road valley farm, which, by the way, is no toy farm, as it consists of several thousand acres, can be found just about everything that can be produced in that climate. He has all kinds of pure-blooded horses, blue ribbon cattle and sheep, prize-winning swine and poultry of every description. Big barns and towering haystacks are in evidence on every side, and a general atmosphere of contentment surrounds the Reynolds farm.—Oregon Journal.

Is Delegate to Elks' Convention
R. J. Green, local attorney, leaves this evening on a trip east to Atlantic City, N. J., where he will represent La Grande. B. P. O. E., No. 433, at the annual convention of the order. Mr. Green will be joined at Baker by Mrs. Green, who has been visiting her parents there for a couple of days, and she will accompany him east. They will visit several of the larger cities of the country before returning.

Judge T. H. Crawford in City
Judge T. H. Crawford, dean of the Union County Bar Association, is registered at the Imperial this week. Judge Crawford is here with Fred J. Holmes, another Democratic warhorse, to assist in representing Union county at the Democratic foregather in honor of the visit of National Chairman Cummings. After the reception and general council of war, the judge will leave for San Francisco, where he will visit his son, Clare Crawford, a leading attorney.—Oregon Journal.

Senator Pierce Arrives
No Democratic meeting in Oregon is complete without the presence of Walter M. Pierce, state senator from Union and Willamette counties. The senator arrived early Monday morning, and says he will stay until the conference is over. Senator Pierce says that while a little rain would be helpful to the Grande Ronde valley farmers, there will be a good crop and no one need worry about a short yield this season.—Oregon Journal.

Troop Train Here
Over two hundred troops passed through the city this morning at 10:50, on a special train, enroute to Camp Lewis for discharge. The train was made up of Oregon and Washington men of the eighth division, 708 Casual Company, 162 Infantry, and many other divided units. They were generously cared for by the ladies of the Centennial by the Salvation Army.

Chautauqui People Here

THAT GIRL IN FRANCE.
—What do you know about that French girl that your soldier boy, back victorious from the war, is going to tell you about? Are her clothes startling? Do the skirts show her hose? Is she the "French" sort of person you imagine her to be? D. W. Griffith's newest motion picture introduces you.
Lillian Gish portrays the girl. Her two love affairs don't go quite smoothly. Garlie fumes but one of her idols and the other is scarred with a scar for all mankind. But a war-won makes a tremendous difference! There are worse things than garb, and cads can change. Meet that girl your boy knows in France.
