

WIND TEARS BIG AIRSHIP FROM ROPES

THREE HUNDRED MEN HELD BRITISH DIRIGIBLE FROM BEING BLOWN AWAY.

WILL START BACK ACROSS THE ATLANTIC TUESDAY

Concluded Successful Trans-Atlantic Flight Sunday Morning After Hours of Severe Battling With Storm and Fog—Will Take Southern Route to Spain on Return Voyage.

(By Associated Press to The Observer)

MINEOLA, L. I., July 7.—The big British dirigible, anchored here since yesterday morning, was torn from her moorings rope this morning by a violent gust of wind and a hole six feet wide by three feet deep was torn in her gas bag. The giant airship was saved from being blown away by three hundred men who seized ropes hanging from her sides and with difficulty succeeded in holding her.

No change in Commander Scott's plan of departure has been made. The return overseas will not be made today. On the trip back the dirigible will take a southern course, leaving from some middle Atlantic port and heading directly for Spain. The R-34 will start at 5 o'clock tomorrow morning, flying over Boston.

SHIP ANCHORED SUNDAY

MINEOLA, July 7.—Great Britain's super dirigible R-34, the first lighter-than-air machine to cross the Atlantic ocean, anchored here at Roosevelt flying field at 9:45 a. m., Sunday, after an aerial voyage of 108 hours and 12 minutes which covered 3600 miles.

Passing through dense banks of cloud, with the sun and sea visible only at rare intervals, the R-34 was forced to cruise 2650 knots to reach Trinity Bay, N. F., from East Fortune, Scotland, and 1080 knots from there to Mineola.

Petrol Almost Done

When the super-Zeppelin arrived here she had left only enough petrol to keep her moving 50 minutes longer. Her crew, almost sleepless for four and a half days, were weary almost to the point of exhaustion, but happy at the successful completion of their trip. The return voyage will be started Tuesday at 8:00 a. m.

Haggard, unshaven, their eyes bloodshot from the long vigil and lines of care bitten deep into their faces, Maj. G. H. Scott, the commander, and his officers showed plainly the effects of the anxious hours through which they lived Saturday while they were cruising over the far reaches of Canada and the Bay of Fundy, beset by fog, heavy winds and terrific electrical storms.

"It seemed as though the atmosphere was haunted by 5000 devils," said Lieut. Guy Harris, the meteorological officer.

Scott Calls U. S. Navy

With the R-34 long overdue at its destination, petrol supply running low and buffeted by strong winds, Major Scott decided Saturday while over the Bay of Fundy to send a wireless call to the American navy department to prepare to give assistance if it were needed. This was merely a measure of precaution and did not indicate discouragement. While destroyers and submarine chasers were racing to her assistance the R-34 was plugging steadily ahead on the way to Mineola. Once clear of the Bay of Fundy the atmospheric hood which had beset the craft from the time it took the air was gradually left in its wake.

The R-34 headed southwest out across the Atlantic along the coast of Maine, her nose pointed for Cape Cod, with the United States destroyer Hancock hanging on her tail and in constant communication with her. The destroyer stalked close in the wake of the air monster, running under forest draft, until Cape Cod was reached, and then the dirigible cut across the bay.

It had been decided on the voyage along the coast that across a fast-moving gale the R-34 would be forced to land at Boston, Rhode Island, or New York. The R-34 would be forced to land at Boston, Rhode Island, or New York. The R-34 would be forced to land at Boston, Rhode Island, or New York.

WOMAN WHO DIED AT 82 SAW WHITMAN MASSACRE.

Mrs. E. S. Warren Believed to Have Been Oldest Living White Woman Born West of the Rockies.

(By Associated Press to The Observer)

COEUR D'ALENE, Idaho, July 7.—With the death here recently of Mrs. Eliza Spalding Warren at the age of 82 years, there passed one of the few remaining participants in early history of the northwestern country. Mrs. Warren was believed to have been the oldest living white woman born west of the Rocky mountains and was a witness of the massacre by Indians of Dr. Marcus Whitman and members of his household, November 29, 1847.

Mrs. Warren was born at Lapwai, Idaho, in November, 1837, a year after her father and mother, Rev. Henry Harmon Spalding and his wife, had crossed the mountains with Dr. and Mrs. Whitman to become missionaries to the Indians of the northwest. She was said to have been the second white child born in the region surrounding the Nez Perce Indian mission founded there by her father and mother.

At the age of nine years, Mrs. Warren was taken by her father to the Whitman mission in the Walla Walla valley to receive her early education and it was there, when she was a child of 10 years that she saw Dr. Whitman struck down by a tomahawk in the hands of an Indian who had come to him ostensibly for medical attention, and Mrs. Whitman shot down inside her home. With other surviving members of the party, she was rescued later from the savages.

The summer after her arrival at the Whitman mission, Mrs. Warren, in company with her brother Henry and her father, made a horseback trip to The Dalles, Oregon, and thence by rowboat down the Columbia river to the present site of Portland. Portland then consisted of one log building, she states in her memoirs. There were two families at The Dalles, and Astoria comprised "one little shack of a house perched on a hillside."

Mrs. Warren was married in 1854 and lived for a time near Brownsville, Oregon, where her body was buried. She traveled by oxteam to the Walla Walla country in 1859, and in 1873 located in Eastern Oregon, where her children were born and reared. Her husband died in 1886.

DISTURBANCES IN SILESIAN DISTRICT OCCURRED SUNDAY

COPENHAGEN, July 7.—Several persons were killed and many wounded in disturbances which occurred Sunday at Katowice, Upper Silesia, according to dispatches received here today. Germans and Poles are said to have participated in the fighting.

Goal Almost in Sight the R-34 Flew trajectorially above the island and headed straight down the center of it for Roosevelt field, 100 miles away. The mammoth balloon was sighted in the distance about 9 o'clock and 15 minutes later was over Roosevelt field. She cruised about in a circle at a height of about 1000 feet until word was telegraphed that everything was in readiness for the landing.

Makes Parachute Jump

While the R-34 was circling the field at a great height, Major Patrick jumped off with a parachute. He landed safely near headquarters and, smilingly hurried before an automobile that had been pushed to the scene could reach him.

Weather Report

Weather report for today by the United States navy department says the weather conditions would be favorable for the return flight of the R-34 during the next forty-eight hours. It may result in delaying the departure of the big dirigible.

Chief Executive Working On His Address As Ship Nears New York—Senate May Receive Address In Closed Session, Although Wilson Wishes It To Be Open Session.

(By Associated Press to The Observer)

WASHINGTON, July 7.—President Wilson will address the senate on the peace treaty and the league of nations at 12:15 o'clock Thursday afternoon, it was announced today. He is expected to arrive at New York Tuesday afternoon, and to come to the capital the same night. The President is preparing his address on board the ship.

Because the treaty would be under discussion there has been some doubt expressed as to whether the senate would receive the address in open session, but it is understood that President Wilson has expressed the desire that the session be open.

The President will probably leave the middle of next week on a speaking tour, but he has many important bills to sign before leaving Washington again.

LOCALS WIN BY DECISIVE SCORE

BAKER TAKEN INTO CAMP HERE YESTERDAY

La Grande Has New Battery On Job and Whole Team Flays Hard to Clean Up on Visitors

There was no doubt but that La Grande won yesterday afternoon's ball contest here with the Baker team; nor was it one of those games where it might be said "the score was not indicative of the playing of the two teams." Scranton's outfit went on the field with fire in their blood and the determination that the sting of "defeat" met at Baker some time ago would be satisfactorily wiped out. And it was. Seventeen to two was somewhere near where the score stood at the conclusion of the orgy of hitting in which the locals indulged.
