

COOKING FOR FIFTEEN MEN

Wife Is Like Different Woman After Taking Tanlac Gains Strength

"My wife has not only been completely relieved of stomach trouble, but has actually gained weight, pounds in weight, on three bottles of Tanlac, so you may know from that what I think of the medicine," said William F. Moje, a well-known farmer, whose address is Box 157, R. F. D. Route No. 1, Post Falls, Idaho, while in Margaret's kitchen in Spokane, Wash., recently. Mr. Moje has lived at Post Falls, for the past seven years.

"For the time that the three years my wife has been in a terribly weak and run-down condition," continued Mr. Moje, "and most of the time has had a dull, aching pain in the side. She had absolutely no appetite and just had to force down what little she did eat and then she would be troubled with sour stomach and gas. She would suffer with this and I lost as much as three months' work staying at home to help her. She was so nervous sometimes that the least little thing would upset her completely and she didn't sleep well at all, but would just cry and rave about her home and would get up in the morning feeling more tired than when she went to bed. A day's work around the house would just wear her out and she was losing weight all the time and finally got down to where she was nearly blind. She also suffered a lot with sick headaches and would be in dizziness at times that she would just have to catch hold of something to support herself. Or worse, she tried different treatments but nothing she tried gave her any relief and she had almost lost all faith in medicine until she took Tanlac.

"We had read about Tanlac and what it was doing for others, so my wife decided to try it and can tell you right now I am mighty glad she did, because since she started taking it all her troubles just seem to have passed away. She never suffers anymore with headaches, the shortness of breath has been relieved and she pain in her side is gone. She is doing the cooking for fifteen men now and her work doesn't seem to give her the least bit of trouble, and eat! Well, you just ought to see her eat, that's all. Why, she eats anything she wants, and is never bothered a bit with sour stomach, gas or dizziness, and she sleeps just like a child for eight hours every night and gets up in the morning feeling fine; in fact, it just looks like she is a different person altogether. She is more than satisfied with Tanlac, I can tell you, and would be glad to have anyone write to her that wants to know what it did for her."

Tanlac is sold in La Grande by Silverthorn and Richardson Drug stores; in Union by L. A. Wright in North Powder by L. A. Kenna and in Elgin by Scott K. Harris and in Telocast by Telocast Grocer, Co.—Adv.

Question of Opinion.
The late General Booth of the Salvation army was conducting a big meeting which lasted unusually long, and toward the close a newspaper reporter left his seat and gained the aisle. General Booth pointed a finger at him and said:
"Whoever leaves this auditorium will be damned by God."
The reporter answered: "If I don't leave this auditorium and hurry back to my office I'll be damned by the city editor."
"God is above the city editor," retorted General Booth.
"Yes, I think he is," promptly responded the reporter, "but the city editor doesn't!"

Tic-Pac's Test It!
Is there a problem which, perhaps, is more likely to be answered some day than this one? Scientists have propounded to the bewilderment of scientists.
Suppose a pipe which would permit of the passage of a man's body were pierced through the earth from London to the Antipodes, and a man commenced to descend by means of a ladder running the length of the pipe. Naturally he would descend feet foremost. On reaching the center of the earth he would, on account of the revolution and formation of the globe, presumably be going upwards and be emerged in the Antipodes.
Query: How can a ladder in which one is descending become a ladder on which one is ascending? And how could one go up a ladder feet foremost? Next, please!

Names.
Nemesis was a goddess of justice and retribution. In Greek mythology, Nemesis was a goddess for punishing all forms of the divine distribution to every man of the proper share of fortune, good and bad.

No Place for Him to Go.
Daniel Webster, when he was in a town of decided Democratic leanings, begged his friends to take him home at once. "I was born a Federalist," he pleaded, "I have lived a Federalist, and I can't go to a Democratic town."

TRIES TO BURN LUMBER PILES

WOULD BE INGENUOUS AT PERRY, CAUGHT AT JOB

Perry Was Deserted Town During Latter Part of Last Week, With Folks All Camping.

PERRY, July 5.—(Special.)—What looked suspiciously like a specimen of "wobbly" work was frustrated by the timely arrival of a lady on the scene of action about 10 o'clock last Saturday night. Mrs. Matrot, whose husband is one of the company's night watchmen, was passing near some of the piles of lumber when she saw a man run away. On investigating, the lady found a small pile of waste soaked with oil and placed under the lumber, with three burned matches lying at one side. An alarm was sounded with the mill whistle and Earl Stoddard sent in a call for the sheriff. On his arrival a search of the yards was made but the man had made his getaway.

Some of the campers who were up in the Starkey country last week report that deer are plentiful in that part of the mountains.

A school supply man was here last Wednesday and sold the board enough new seats to finish seating one room of the school house.

Pete Hogansen and Howard Stoddard are out in the mountains and will be gone for about ten days. They are cruising several sections of timber for the Grande Ronde Lumber company.

Horace J. Nelson is shipping east about a carload of sweet cherries which he bought in Fruitdale.

A number of Perry people are attending the chautauqua at Riversdale park and report that it is very good.

Two young men are here from Utah in the interest of the L. D. S. church. They held services in the hall here on Wednesday evening.

Mrs. Earl Stoddard arrived home Tuesday morning from a two weeks' visit with friends and relatives in Salt Lake City. She was accompanied from the Utah capital by her sister who will spend the summer in Perry. Mrs. Stoddard reports that when she left Salt Lake the heat was intense, with a temperature of over 100 during the day time.

A bath house is being built to accommodate the men who work at the local mill. The building will have a cement floor and will afford both tub and shower baths for the men.

L. L. Northcott is building a garage to house his automobile.

Perry was well represented in the parade at La Grande on the Fourth. Perry was a deserted town during the latter part of the week, owing to the fact that most of the people took advantage of the half-week lay-off and went camping. Some spent the holidays trout fishing up near Starkey, while others went over to the Pine Creek to indulge in salmon spearing. Work on the school buildings is nearing completion.

Pete Hogansen was up from the lower camp last Thursday looking after some business at this place.

House fire still scarce here and a few families are living at the boarding house, till better accommodations can be had.

Forces Within.
Trials without disaster for the within. Says Victor Hugo: "There are instincts for all the crises of life." A deep perplexity awakens a flash of insight; a bitter opposition sets the soul on fire; a brave peril opens our eyes to horses and chariots of fire; a severe catastrophe evokes a heroism of which the sufferer had not thought himself capable.—W. L. Watkinson.

The Leading Citizen.
Stranger—"Does this man, Amos Durby, hold any place of distinction in the village?" Villager—"Ye kin judge for yerself. When the postman brings the weekly newspaper down to Guy Parkinson's grocery store, Amos is the first reader!"—Lila.
