MARINE NEEDS AVIATORS

Wonderful Opportunity to Learn a Trade Without Expense.

The aviation section of the Marine Corps is urgently in need of four year enlisted men for gas engine mechanics, machine shop mechanics, electricians, wireworkers, woodworkers, welders, blacksmiths, etc. Men of good character and mechanically inclined are satisfactory. Those entering for this duty will be sent to Mare Island, California, for the regular recruit training and after completing that, will be transferred to the regular mechanics school at Great Lakes, Illinois, and receive a thorough education in all or part of the above trades. They will be sent to the flying stations and receive a thorough practical training in mechanical work.

This is a wonderful opportunity for young men to learn a profitable trade at the expense of the government. A large percentage of men on aviation duty are non-commissioned officers and most of these receive in addition to their regular pay, 50 per cent increase. Mechanics who entered at the beginning of the war with qualifications allowing them to earn only $2.50 or $3.00 per day in civil life are now expert mechanics and are securing upon discharge, positions paying $10 to $12 per day.

Further information regarding this unusual offer may be obtained by writing to the U. S. Marine Recruiting Station, Third and Alder streets, Portland, Oregon.

AMERICAN BOATS IN WHITE SEA

Craft Are Known As the "Tin Lizzies" of the Navy, But Officers Are Proud of Them.

ABOARD U. S. EAGLE BOAT NO. 3, IN WHITE SEA, July 20.—(Correspondence of the Associated Press.)—American Eagle boats now are operating on dispatch service in North Russian waters.

Eagle Boats Nos. 1, 2 and 3, the first built of this type for the American government, arrived in Archangel after a 6200 mile run under their own steam from the Atlantic seaboard and according to their officers, have more than made good.

Crews of the larger naval vessels are inclined to chafe the Eagle Boat men and call these craft the "tin lizzies" of the navy, but the officers of the Eagles are proud of their seaworthiness and efficiency.

The Associated Press correspondent made a trip from Archangel to Kem, across the White Sea, aboard the flagship of the little flotilla, and in this 16-hour run, in stormy weather, the flagship and the No. 1 had ample opportunity to show their seaworthiness.

In Archangel, at this season of the year, the weather has been almost tropical, and the American officers, who had expected to find the Arctic frigid even in the eternal daylight days, were confronted instead with temperatures and sunshine that made white duck the prescribed uniform.

Two hours out of Archangel, however, at the entrance to the White Sea, the Eagles ran into a cold gale and snowstorm which set the light craft tossing and rolling and forced the crews quickly into their woolens and oilskins. However, the Eagles kept ploughing along to their course, and arrived in Kem harbor none the worse for one of the worst batterings they have yet received.

With their two four-inch guns, one three-inch anti-aircraft gun, and machine gun anti-airplane battery, the Eagles might be expected to give a good account of themselves, any the officers, against submarines or any above the water craft of anything near their size.

The three boats operating in the White Sea are under the command of Lieutenant Commander Norman Scott, U. S. N., whose home is in Indianapolis.
