MAGGIE PEPPER AT THE ALCADE TUESDAY

BEAUTIFUL Ethel Clayton, Paramount star, who is starring in a screen version of the late Charles Klein's famous play of department store life, "Maggie Pepper," written by Gardner Hunting and directed by Chester Withey, recently discussed the life of department store women with a reporter. Said Miss Clayton: "My sympathy is invariably with the woman who is compelled to work for a living—particularly in one of the great department stores of a big city. To be subjected day after day to the whims of thoughtless patrons, or the petty autocratic methods of superiors in the business must be a dreadful thing for even a phlegmatic person. To one of nervous temperament it must be truly unpleasant."

"I think goodness, however, that in these latter days, there is a great deal more humanity being practiced in commercial life, that there is more harmony between employer and employee. Do you know, I have an idea that the films are largely responsible for that?"

"You see, the possibilities of a girl in motion pictures have been such that hundreds of young women have been able to throw off the shackles and become more independent. The only trouble is that the supply exceeds the demand. No girl should make a wild jump at the picture business. But for one with beauty, talent and other requisites, there is unquestionably a chance to succeed."

"Yes, I think everyone will enjoy 'Maggie Pepper.'—It is certainly a human story with so much sympathy and a kindly spirit, yet it has a thrill in every scene, almost—and the cumulative interest culminates in a fine climax. I liked the role and the company was excellent, so that the picture ought to be a success."

"Maggie Pepper" tells the story of a plucky girl in a big store that has fallen behind the times. The manager hates Maggie and this hatred is intensified when Jim Holbrook, the owner, comes from abroad and takes a fancy to the girl. Holbrook's fiancée is the manager's ward, which is an added source of trouble. She repudiates the engagement when he is attracted to Maggie. Then Maggie leaves and goes home, where Holbrook follows to get her to return.

to steal the child. Holbrook is slightly wounded but pretends it is serious and stays in bed in Maggie's home. Next day he demands that she marry him. And she finally consents, because she has learned to love the impetuous and handsome owner of the store where she has seen so much sorrow and hard work.

ADVENTURES GALORE IN "GO WEST, YOUNG MAN"

Tom Moore makes his third appearance as a star in Goldwyn Pictures at the Sherry's Theatre, last showing today in "Go West, Young Man" by Willard Mack. Chosen carefully to present him to his admirers in a new guise, there seems little doubt that he will surprise and please them in the story of a seton of wealth who quarrels with his father and starts out to see the world. It is not from the window of a parlor car that Dick Latham does this, but from the "blind baggage" of a freight train in company with a crowd of hoboes.

In a few Western towns his real adventures begin, however, the first of which is when the office of sheriff is thrust upon him by a scheming politician who plans to use Dick as a tool to mask his own nefarious designs. The actions of the tenderfoot sheriff constitute the most amusing moments of "Go West, Young Man."

But Dick is as true to himself as he is to the responsibilities of his new job and when the time comes he refuses to heed the warning sent him by one of the men associated with his supposed patron. Instead, Dick becomes a real reformer, cleaning up the town, seeing to it that a certain girl, whom he wins for his own, is not done out of her property.

Also shown "The Katzenjammer Kids"—Cartoon.

Looking for Cat. Little Paul, age seven, and his aunt were playing with the cat when it ran under the buffet. Strooping down his aunt said: "I can see only his hind quarters." Paul ran to the other end of the buffet and looking under exclaimed: "Oh, I can see its head quarters."

THOUSAND ACRES FROM ONE PLANT

BEST FORTY-FOLD SEED WHEAT IN STATE IS HERE

Original Plant From Which Came This Year's Crop Was Selected Four Years Ago.

EASTERN OREGON BRANCH EXPERIMENT STATION, Union, Ore., Aug. 9.—(Special to the Observer).—The finest forty-fold seed wheat in the state was grown in Union county this year by Charles Playle, William Ledbetter and Duncan McDonald, all of the Sandridge section, according to Prof. G. R. Hyslop, of the Oregon Agricultural college, who is touring the state inspecting grain fields for seed certification.

The seed used to grow this forty-fold came originally from a single plant selected in pure line selections at the Eastern Oregon Experiment Station in 1915. Two years ago Mr. Playle secured from the experiment station a small quantity of the seed that had been grown from this single plant and by using extreme care in growing it he kept the selection pure and produced a large quantity of certified seed, a sample of which took first prize at the State Fair last year. Sufficient seed had been grown to furnish Mr. Ledbetter and Mr. McDonald enough to plant about a thousand acres and thus from a single plant this section has obtained a start in the production of certified seed.

The use of this purebred seed gave an increased yield of more than ten bushels to the acre according to Mr. Ledbetter, whose yield on dry land was over 40 bushels to the acre in spite of the scarcity of rain in this section during the growing season.

Probably all of the forty-fold wheat grown by these men will be sold and used for seed this coming year. County Agent Paul Spillman has already received a number of inquiries for this certified seed.

BLACK SEA GULLS ADOPT HOT LAKE AS THEIR HOME

CAFETERIA PLAN ADOPTED AT THE SANATORIUM—A $9,000 CAR ATTRACTS ATTENTION—ALL VISITORS ADMIRE DR. PHY'S HEREFORD CATTLE.

HOT LAKE, Aug. 9. (Special).—"Once tried, always used" has for years been the slogan and "add" of a popular remedy, but the trite saying has never been better exemplified than it is in the case of the new "Cafeteria" system of dining, at the close of its first week of running at the Hot Lake Sanatorium. One might be forgiven for having doubted the question of whether it would be, for the guest, a change for the better from the old and ordinary order of things, but after a week of eating it is safe to say that the modern, well-organized Cafeteria has come to stay.

Beyond doubt it is popular with the guests. There is little or no trouble in getting a nice shining aluminum tray at one end of the counter, sliding it along a little pair of smooth metal rails, and on its short journey up to the cash register filling it up with a selection of choice viands temptingly displayed and when requisite kept perfectly hot by a running stream of near boiling water under the glazed metal containers which are many and conveniently fixed in the "hot press." While unformed servants help the guests in their selections and in the space of less than one minute it is possible and usual to get a full meal together and be enjoying the eating thereof at the tables adjacent. It puts an end to the no inconsiderable time formerly occupied by the waitress making several trips to the kitchen and pantry, there to await the filling of a tray for perhaps one guest's order. This, in case of a waitress having to wait on perhaps eight or ten guests, made it a long time before she got around to find out what No. 8 wanted. All this is now done away with and Dr. Phy himself, is thoroughly pleased with his own new arrangement which he has for a long time advocated, is receiving the compliments of a house-full of the guests who would not wish to go back to the old order of things. Of course the grill room, adjoining, is still open with "a la carte" system and has its own following amongst the guests who desire a little more service.

It may truthfully be written that the Cafeteria at Hot Lake is a success.

Many people are calling at Hot

Like these days to look at Dr. Phy's best of beautiful Hereford cows and many are the expressions of admiration to the doctor in hearing about his stock of pure bred cattle, and they certainly are worth anybody's while to stop off while passing to examine the herd.

Amongst the guests arrived during the past few days are Mr. and Mrs. Fred Murphy of Pocatello, Idaho, with their new Pierce-Arrow automobile. It is a superbly built automobile, as it should be, considering that it cost in the neighborhood of $9,000. Whilst parked here it has been the object of much close attention by eye-witnesses, those days, can converse, discuss and argue of the thousand and one parts and points of the present up-to-date car.

Thursday morning, Dr. McAllister, who has been one of Dr. Phy's assistant physicians for nearly two years, left for Portland, where he contemplates practicing his calling. Mrs. McAllister accompanied him.

Young Cato Johns is about to get the big warehouse next to the railroad tract in condition to house the grain crops of the immediate vicinity.

Half a dozen cray back sea shells have taken up their home on the east lake, where they mix up quite friendly with the rest of the water fowl living there.

Cause for Rejoicing. Leonard was walking with his nurse and met a friend of his mother, who proceeded to engage him in conversation in a most effusive and cultivated manner. On parting with her, Leonard was silent for a long time, and then said with a gentle sigh of thankfulness: "I am so glad, Sarah, that I've got a nice, gloomy mother."
