HIGHLY DRAMATIC ROLE FOR GERALDINE FARRAR

"Shadows" is Geraldine Farrar's new Goldwyn Picture at Sherry's, first showing today.

Pitched in a high dramatic key, it tells the story of a woman who has found happiness out of misery and who fights for that happiness when disaster seems about to overtake her. Her life in Alaska, when she was known as Cora Lamont, the plaything of brutal Jack McGuff, is almost forgotten in her life as the honored wife of Judson Barnes, a conservative New Yorker.

Her house of cards comes tumbling down, however, when she is recognized by a man who tries to induce her husband to enter a spurious mining proposition. She warns her husband against him, whereupon the fellow telephones her that she must persuade him to invest or the full story of Alaska will come out. Just how terrible that peri of her life was Mrs Barnes knows too well.

It all comes back to her as she sits, dry-eyed, clasping her child to her. She forms a daring plan whereby McGuff, who is coming to the home to claim her, shall have the tables turned on him. What this plan is and how stunningly it works out this comprises the story.

Also showing the Selznick Supplement, screen artists seen in their every day life, something new.

GREAT TO BE A KID.

Big Show Will Arrive in La Grande Early Tomorrow Morning.

It's great to be a kid once more, and hear the lions growl and roar, and see the bears and feed the monkeys and sprinkle peanuts on the trunks of the elephants all in a row that keep a-swinging to and fro; it's grand, you know, to be a kid and see that big Hagenbeck-Wallace Circus Show.

It's great to sit and watch the clowns perform their funny ups and downs, and see them laugh and hear them chaff until you split your sides in half; and watch those blokes play wicked jokes upon some unsuspecting mokes, as fat and thin they amble in, to make you squeal and smile and grin.

It's fin et suit and watch the rings, that hold so many, many things, with horses here and there; and pretty girls with golden curls performing scary mid-air whirls; and drivers bold in cars of gold, that race as in the days of old; and monkeys that will ride astride of ponies that are true and tried and throw a ball, but never fail; its mighty hard to watch it all.

It's great to see the big circus parade, and swallows circus lemonade, and see the lights and wonder sights, and pretty girls in spangled tights; and feast your gaze upon the blaze that the feat displays. Oh, once a year, its grand you know, to see the circus show.

After the unbosoming of the above the circus intimated that the Carl Hagenbeck and Great Wallace Shows Combined would arrive in La Grande tomorrow morning aboard three special trains. Two performances will be given, at 2 and 8 p. m. The doors to the monster zoological paradise will be opened an hour earlier. A two mile long street parade will leave the show grounds at 10 o'clock.

Don't forget the date of the Carl Hagenbeck-Wallace Circus in this city, Aug. 26.

If you don't think it's great to be a kid once more, look at the expression of the Carl Hagenbeck-Wallace show folks when one of the babies of the show is being handled by its proud progenitors.

JOHN BARRYMORE A LAWYER IN HIS LATEST PHOTOPLAY

Famous Paramount Star Seen to Exceptional Advantage In "Here Comes the Bride."

Portraying the role of a poor lawyer who is in love with the beautiful daughter of a millionaire, but who weds an ugly widow "with a past" to win a reward of $100,000, John Barrymore, the talented Paramount star, will be seen in one of the most humorous roles of his screen career in "Here Comes the Bride," which will be displayed at the Arcade theatre tomorrow only.

Mr. Barrymore is one of the best known actors in the country and he is now appearing in Tolstoi's play, "Redemption," at a New York theatre with great success. Notwithstanding that much of his time is taken up with this attraction, he finds time to devote many hours to motion picture work.

In "Here Comes the Bride," Mr. Barrymore has the part of a poor struggling lawyer who is induced to wed a strange widow for a bribe of $100,000, despite the fact that he loves the beautiful daughter of a corn magnate. She loves him, but the father is opposed to the match. This unfortunate marriage provokes numerous situations in all of which the artistry of Mr. Barrymore is finely displayed. The heroine of the story is portrayed by Faire Binney, a charming actress who won popular favor by her characterization in the Paramount-Artcraft special picture, "Sporting Life." Miss Binney has won many admirers by her conscientious work and personal charm. The supporting company is of the best and includes such well known players as Frank Losee, Frances Kaye Alfred Hickman and others.

State News

P. W. Post of Prairie City, with associates, is mining, hauling, and shipping chrome ore from his property on Dog creek. He has a contract to deliver 600 tons. This is high grade ore. The price received is not learned, but it was rumored to run about $22.50 at Baker.

The State Medical society has submitted to the Oregon Industrial Accident commission a proposal for increased fees for attending persons injured while entitled to benefits under the workmen's compensation act.

Major J. Francis Drake has been named to take immediate charge of the Oregon National Guard troops located in Portland, it was announced by Adjutant-General Sistrin today. The appointment was necessitated because of Colonel May's resignation.

Miss Agnes J. Flanagan arrived in Pendleton Saturday to fill a position all her own, for there has never been one like it in Umatilla county before. Miss Flanagan, who is a Red Cross nurse with 13 months' service in France to her record will be Umatilla county' public health nurse. She will probably work with the school teachers, with the infant welfare clubs, and with local organizations of the anti-tuberculosis movement.

Contracts were signed in Salem Saturday for the purchase of two Fordson tractors which will be used at the Home for the Feeble-Minded and State Training school. The tractors cost the state $979 each and will be delivered to the institutions before September 1.

Elijah Coleman, employed by the United States forest service as a lookout on Mount Hood, spent Saturday in Pendleton, having come in quest of John Mitchell, whose brother, Roy Mitchell, was killed while fighting fire Wednesday in the timber about Roaring river, a branch of the Clackamas. Mr. Coleman located the brother of the dead man on the George Strand ranch, where he had been employed for about a month. He knew nothing of his brother's death, until he was told by Coleman, who was a friend of both boys.
