VALLEY STOCK RANGE—800 acres only 4 miles from La Grande. 100 in the valley. Nearly 500 acres in the bottom land and the balance in on the hill. Fine pasture, a little timber and plenty of water. The improvements are wood. The price of this property is twenty thousand dollars, and the owner would take a good, well-improved, four or six acre lot at the right price as the first payment. Terms, cash balance. SECURITY LAND & SAVINGS CO. 8-29-31

160 acres not far from Union. The improvements are only fair, but the land is good, has water for irrigation and is a place that is making money. The price of this property is only $1000.00 per acre. The man who buys at this price has made $4000.00, as soon as the deal is closed, as there is nothing around it priced at less than $125.00 per acre. SECURITY LAND & SAVINGS CO. 8-29-31

240 acres of cut over land, west and south of town, good cabin, mostly fenced, fine spring. This is a splendid property for summer pasture and the price is very reasonable; easy terms. SECURITY LAND & SAVINGS CO. 8-29-31

$1250.00 buys a neat little home on North Fir on macedonian street. Improvements nearly all paid. SECURITY LAND & SAVINGS CO. 8-29-31

Modern house, close in, trees, large lot, $3,000.00 Terms. SECURITY LAND & SAVINGS CO. 8-29-31

Would you buy a 55 acre tract of good Sandridge land at the right price? The land is all in cultivation but there are no improvements. Just buy this and rent it out as it will make you better interest than you can make at anything else, and besides, it will increase in price 25 per cent before another year. SECURITY LAND & SAVINGS CO. 8-29-31

If you know a bargain, and would buy one, let us show you a property on the North side with all Street assessments paid, at a price $1000.00 less than it is worth. Can be bought now for $2200.00. SECURITY LAND & SAVINGS CO. 8-29-31

A woman wanted to help her husband accumulate some property. She can help him by buying one of the best rooming houses in town, now earning $100.00 a month, besides living apartments for the family. You can take in this money while your husband attends to his business. The property is now $8,000.00. Well located on the best street in La Grande, and will be worth more money. The Curtiss plane has been in the city since last Thursday and during that time every part of the machine has been tested to the full and complete satisfaction of the boys who are to do the flying.

Curiosity has centered around the machine and people have come from quite a distance already to see the instrument that was developed during war's necessity and made practical for commerce. That the future holds a great air program no one will deny, for already the work of the plane is astounding the world, and it has only begun.

The Central Labor Council is responsible for bringing the airship to La Grande and it will remain here the entire week making daily flights and doing passenger work for those who are inclined to visit the clouds.

DON'T STAND TEST

Reader's Caustic Criticism of Modern Heroine.

Why Look the "Homey" Qualities of the Characters in the Pages of Dickens, Is One Thing He Has Noticed.

Doctor Pedbury picked up the gayly bouled novel that lay on his patient's counterpane.

"Well, Hosen," he inquired, "how's the light literature prescription working? Good story? Mighty pretty girl on the cover, anyhow."

"Ain't read it and ain't a-going to," declared Hosen aggressively. "Gif's pretty enough, but no three hundred pages of her doin's for me. She don't stand the test. They don't any of 'em. Cover or frontispiece; there's only two sorts of 'em, and I don't like either. I ain't pertickler whether they're tall or short, skinny or dimply, gypsyish or light complected; but I do want 'em a nice, likable-lookin' sort of humans—and they ain't. You put 'em to the button test, and it downs 'em."

"The button test? What's that?" asked Doctor Pedbury.

"Oh, I s'pose there's others," admitted Hosen, "but that's the easiest; jest s'pose a feller wants a button sewed on—wants it right off. Well, he hangs his coat on his arm and goes to one of those girls, 'Gwendolen Gertrude,' says he, 'I want to wear this coat, there's a button off. Can you fix it? Well—' Hosen displayed the Imperial beauty on the book cover—"jest look at her, doc. You know what she says without me tellin' ye. 'Base slave, begone' or 'Minion, avaunt!' or 'Impertinent Rube, go ask your grandmother!' or some little thing of that sort. That's the general idee; that's the way Gwendolen Gertrude looks."

"And there's lots to her—chin up, head back, eyes shut; handsome critters; but gosh! who'd want to ask a favor of 'em?—less by telephone, so's he could drop the receiver quick before he got an answer. Well, that's some folks' idee of a lovely heroine, I s'pose—but it ain't mine."

"The other kind ain't so dangerous lookin', but she ain't much more use. Jest frivolous. Horney or kittery, one or t'other. 'Elsie Maree, here's a button sewed sewin'; s'pose you could do it? 'Elsie Maree, she laughs pretty and shows nice teeth and says, pleasant, 'Why, yes, of course'; only she's got engagements up to the middle of next week, and, anyway, the buttons she sews ain't warranted to stay on more'n an hour or so; so maybe, after all, 't would be as well to ask somebody else. Well, that's 'Elsie Maree; and she ain't my notion of a lovely heroine, either."

"Heroines were different when I was young, Dickens' heroines, now; they was real nice and lovable besides bein' pretty, and their picters looked it. That little Dot woman with the baby, and that Ruth girl that made the beef-steak puddin'—they'd ha' stood the button test all right."

"Goin', doctor? Say, reach me that seed catalogue off the table fast, won't ye; and, say, if ye would stop to the library as ye pass and ask Bill Hickens for a copy of Nicholas Nickleby—mine's that bad print ma won't let me read it in bed—and bring it along next visit. I'd appreciate it a lot. Thank you, doctor! I thought you wouldn't mind."—Youth's Companion.

Famous American Clipper Ships.
In the days of the famous clipper ships, the American vessel, was second to none, writes Frederick A. Collins in Boys' Life. No other country could build ships at once so staunch and so speedy. Records were established which have never been surpassed by sailing craft and, even with the use of steam, were not bettered for nearly half a century. In 1872 the Sovereign of the Seas sailed 436 miles in a single day. The Lightning crossed the Atlantic in 13 days 20 hours, and the James Blaine of 2,500 tons made the voyage from Boston to Liverpool in 12 days and 6 hours. Although America led the way with the first transatlantic steamship, she allowed the sovereignty of the seas to slip gradually from her. At the beginning of the war most of her tonnage was spent on the great lakes or engaged in coastwise traffic, and her deep-sea fleet was small.

Joys of Tournament Golf.
Wouldn't it make you mad if you were entered in a golf tournament and you started out shooting the little old pill down the line, better than you ever had and finished the first nine holes in the lowest score you had ever made; slipped a little on the second nine, but still had a chance to make a respectable showing, and then on the eighteen hole in the presence of an admiring throng of friends you proceeded to put the pill into the ditch three times and take eleven strokes where five should have been plenty? Wouldn't it make you mad?

Well, the only consolation we know of at that horrible catastrophe is that we remembered even in our rage that there were ladies sitting bearing witness. We came up smiling out of the ditch, but we sincerely hope the young woman in the pink gown and the big hat who grinned gleefully at us is no reader.—Exchange.

What do they mean by words? "There's no such thing as free money. Every body has to work for it."—Louisville Courier-Journal.
