Hiram Johnson Given a Rousing Ovation By St. Louis People

(By Associated Press to The Observer)

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 13.—Hiram Johnson declared last night that the outstanding question in the league of nations controversy is whether the United States will do its duty as it sees it, or whether she will subject herself to the will of Great Britain and Japan. He was given an ovation lasting eighteen minutes. Hundreds were turned away from the hall.

"No, I did not rob any bank, nor have I been profiteering. I am going to Canada, all right," said Elam Andrews last evening as he boarded the train, "but I am going to meet some old friends and possibly take a drink from an Imperial quart while I am gone, and I don't want any stories about me fleeing from justice, either." He will meet eastern friends and they will hunt big game in the Canadian country for a few weeks.

Can't Fool "Put" On Deer Meat—

Dr. Charlton went deer hunting—so did C. D. Putman. The doctor shoots to kill when he hunts deer—Putman does not always do that. The doctor came home with a deer, sent a fine roast of venison over to the Putman family. A few guests were invited, but at dinner Mr. Putman steered the conversation away from deer meat until a lady guest asked what deer meat looked like. A full and complete explanation followed and an illustration was made with the roast to explain how much different deer meat would be from that which was being served. For the fact was, Mr. Putman did not know of the Charlton success in hunting and he did not know he was eating venison which had been brought down with the Charlton rifle. His wife did, and the joke was too good for her to keep forever.
