Porcupine's Quills Not "Thrown." The spine of a porcupine, in the usual position, the nearly flat, with their points directed backward, but when the animal is excited they are capable of being raised. The quills are loosely inserted in the skin and may, on being violently shaken, become detached, a circumstance which probably gives rise to the purely fabulous statement that the animal possesses the power of actually ejecting its quills like arrows or darts at an enemy.

Pumpkinickel.

Pumpkinickel is the rye bread used by the Westphalian peasants, which in some other parts of Germany is regarded as a great delicacy. The loaves are sometimes 60 pounds in weight. The name is said to have originated in the saying of a French cavalry soldier, who rejected the bread with disgust, saying it was only "Bon pour Nicholas"—that is, fit or good for Nicholas, his horse.

Cultivate Worthy Thoughts.

Such are the habitual thoughts, such also will be the character of the mind; for the soul is dyed by the thoughts. Dye it, then, with a continuous series of such thoughts as these: for instance, that where a man can live, there he can also live well. But he must live in a palace; well then, he can also live well in a palace. Exchange.

To Save Charred Documents. Documents that have been charred by fire are rendered readable if collodion is poured over the charred paper. In a few minutes this dries and a tough, transparent coating is produced through which the printing can be seen. Bank notes and other papers thus charred have been treated in this way with success.

Economy in Telephone Use.

A Brazilian newspaper has been for some time enjoying the privilege of using one telephone line for three simultaneous conversations. With three telephone sets at each end of the line, one pair of users talks English, one pair French, and one pair Portuguese. The listeners seem to find no difficulty in selecting the sounds intelligible to them and ignoring the others. The newspaper people express great satisfaction with the result, especially as they pay for only one line.

Correspondent Answered.

Roger sends a clipped advertisement running: "Lost—Laborer's watch on road near pumping station," and wants to know wherein a laborer's watch differs from a banker's watch. Perhaps its hands are encased, Roger.—Boston Transcript.

A Characterization.

She was a woman of experience at least if not of wisdom, with strong passions, but with a not ungenerous heart; outspoken from the knowledge of her "great possessions," perhaps as much from a natural frankness; a warm friend and not a very bitter enemy; and at the bottom of it all with a certain simplicity of character, of which her love of flowers was an example.—James Payne.

Too Good for Daily Use.

We must have a weak spot or two in a character before we can love it much. People that do not laugh or cry, or take more of anything than is good for them, or use anything but dictionary words, are admirable subjects for biographies. But we don't care most for those flat-pattern flowers that grow best in the herbartum.—O. W. Holmes.

To Get Rid of Paint Stains.

Paint spilled on a doorstep is most unsightly, and is often rather difficult to remove. In that case make a strong solution of potash and wash the step, leaving the solution to soak in. In a short time the paint will become soft and can be washed off with soap and water. Then use cold water. Paint which has been left on for some time will yield to this treatment.

Antiquity of Gloves.

Gloves are of great antiquity, having been worn in England as long ago as in Saxon times. Practically the only change which there has ever been in styles of gloves has been in their decoration. Sometimes they were richly adorned with jewels, as having been paid for a pair in the fourteenth century.—St. Petersburg Times.

Accommodating Lily.

South America is not the only country that can boast of large leaves. In India the Victoria Regia grows leaves several feet across, and with a buoyancy sufficient to sustain the weight of a child. The edges turn up and form a sort of bowl.

Chamberlain's Colic and Diarrhoea Remedy in Michigan.

Mrs. A. H. Hall, Caseville, Mich., says: "I wish to thank you for your grand good medicine, Chamberlain's Colic and Diarrhoea Remedy. We are never without it in the house, and I am sure it saved our baby's life this summer."

Mrs. Mary Carrington, Caseville, Mich., says: "I have used Chamberlain's Colic and Diarrhoea Remedy for years and it has always given prompt relief."—Adv.

Business Skirts, Sport Skirts and Others

The separate skirt, to be worn with a shirtwaist, has established its place in the regard of business women, as firmly as the coat suit. It answers the same purpose and makes opportunity for variety, which is the spice of apparel as of other things. In stormy weather the girl who goes to business relies upon an enveloping storm-proof coat, stabs she must get out rain or shine, and wears under it the regulation and the best outfit for business—a tailored blouse and skirt or a plain tailored frock.

Besides these one-day, utility skirts there are the very smart skirts for informal wear, that are classed as sport skirts. They meet the need of the woman who wishes to be smartly but informally dressed and to embody much individual style in the simplest of costumes. They are worn with various coats and sweaters, coats, and each year sees them produced in a greater range of styles and prices.

women are educated to their character. Just now those for southern tourists are coming over the horizon for the benefit of smart women who leave the North in January. They are in rich colorings in plaids, crossbars and plain fabrics. There are some very rich skirts in plain satin, in tulle and heavy, fancy weaves of silk. These are worn with blouses that match them in quality.

There are skirts of other things than fabrics; those of white, black or tan leather, which may be heralding the day of the airplane or meant for any other service, for sport, that demands the greatest strength, are among the new skinnings. The new drapery skirts of silk or satin prove the most interesting of all.

Just What She Needed

"I used a bottle of Chamberlain's Tablets some time ago and they proved to be just what I needed," writes Mrs. Voyta Hanksen, Chillicothe, Mo. "They not only relieved me of indigestion but toned up my liver and rid me of backache" and dizziness that I had been subject to for some time. They did me a world of good and I will always speak a good word for them."—Adv.

"FULL MEASURE" VULCANIZING

What we mean is, that when we vulcanize a used tire for you, we do not skimp on the new rubber or materials used but actually rebuild the worn parts of the shoe. We "re-sole and re-head and re-shape" the tread and the whole casing, just as a shoemaker does to an old shoe. And our work is just as durable.
