AT SHERRY'S SATURDAY ONLY

William F. new stars, Albert Ray and Elmer Fair, will appear together in their newest attraction, "Words and Music by—" at the Sherry theatre on Saturday only. The picture, adapted by Charles Kenyon from a story by William Charles Langel, treats of a small town boy who makes his way to success as a composer, and shows him surmounting a series of obstacles, as country boys have a way of doing when they go into the world to seek fame and fortune. He writes an opera after several months of earnest labor and takes himself to New York to dispose of it. Naturally he encounters a plagiarist who succeeds in stealing his score, and the future looks black indeed while he endeavors to prove his authorship. Intervened with his career is that of a young woman from the same little town whose voice takes her to fame in operatic circles. She had preceded him to the metropolis, but as he considered himself a failure he had been careful to avoid her.

Also shown Mutt and Jeff and Chaplin.
