GOES UP ON HIGH

Wealthy Chinese Has Novel Trip from this Life to Next.

There was once a pretty custom among some of the ancients when a prominent citizen died, to send his valet along with him on the road to Paradise, and it was oftentimes necessary to resort to extreme methods to insure the company for the departed. But in the territory of the China-American Trading Company, Ford dealers in Tientsin, China, they have discovered a much better trip to the deceased over the rough places on the trip to the Promised Land.

It is a custom of the Chinese to burn various kinds of effigies at the funeral ceremonies of the rich, the more wealthy the departed, the more elaborate the figures burned over his grave. These effigies represent every manner of thing such as human figures, horses, sedan chairs, tables loaded with money, etc. The figures usually conform to some of these stereotyped fashions, but at the funeral of Mr. Li, who died a short time ago in Tientsin, and who was a very wealthy man, the greaved family outdid themselves and made an effigy of the deceased gentleman's Ford car to be burned at his grave.

This Ford effort was made of strong Chinese paper with red and black in every detail, the job done and of frames. The car was accurately placed and all made of paper and bamboo. The interior of the car was also accurate in detail, being carefully photographed in paper. The effigy of the driver, as shown in the photograph, was a work of art. The car was carried about three miles through crowded streets to the grave side where a match was applied and was consumed in a few minutes.

This is the first time a motor car has been burned at the grave of a Chinese, and there is every reason to believe that the deceased went up "High."

DEBATE TO BE DEVELOPED

Two Hours Credit Given For Work This Year.

UNIVERSITY OF OREGON, Eugene, Oct. 11.—Debate, developed more last year than ever before is the University, has received an additional impetus this fall in the announcement by the department of public speaking that two hours credit toward graduation will be allowed those who participate in intramural debating under faculty supervision.

The plan to be followed for the inter-organization debating will be approximately the same as in use last year, when sixteen fraternities, six critics and halls of residence, together with the Oregon Club, made up a non-fraternity students living off campus, put affirmative and negative teams into the race for campus supremacy.

An organization meeting is to be called by Robert Prescott, professor of public speaking, within a few days when the rules for this year's work will be drawn up and a schedule prepared. Professor Prescott announces that competent coaches will be provided from among the members of the faculty, varsity debaters and others and he expects even more interest in debating than was worked up last year.

Notice is hereby given of this year's term. "We are not afraid of lightning ourselves," a nurse in a woman's hospital told me, "but it has a harmful effect on the patients. ing of cars for "prospective movements."

As they did two years ago, when the freight car shortage reached an all-time high, the Dodge Brothers, Dodge motor car manufacturers, have set their entire organization to work to help to virtually every business in the United States to get out of the "speed-up" campaign. A Dodge executive commented on the situation as follows:

"We have asked all our dealers to help us by wire as they discontinue that an automobile freight car is a string of cars is best applied only to cars. We are positive that the number of such cars are on the side line, particularly in the western districts. Presumably these cars are held for a later shipment, but we must eliminate the 'later' and get them out of the line."

City Grocery and Bakery

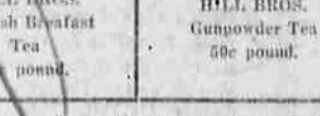

These cars are being used. We are positive that our statements that dealers themselves should under no circumstances lose time in unloading and turning freight cars back to the railroads. If every trifling delay is eliminated the situation will be much less severe than the present outlook indicates and motor car dealers will benefit to a degree proportionate with their efforts to relieve the shortage.

It was added by the executive that there are fewer freight cars in active service now than at any time in the last 100 years.

The campaign undertaken by Dodge Brothers is in line with the advice of the Director General of the Railway Administration, who conceded a few days ago that there was grave danger of a freight car shortage. In asking shippers to give their cooperation,
