MALTHOID and RU-BER-OID READY ROOFINGS Here you see one of the shredding machines preparing rags for making into the tough, long-fibre felt which is the "base" or body of Malthoid and Ru-ber-oid Roofings. Good ready roofing is simply a long layer of felt, saturated with a waterproof material and coated with a heavier weather-proof composition. It can be seen then that the protection afforded by any roofing against sun and rain is in proportion to the quality of the materials that go into it. Thus the great importance of good, tough, long-fibre rag felt. All the felt that goes into Malthoid and Ru-ber-oid Roofing is manufactured in our own mill. And because we are large consumers, we have the pick of the rag market. From this we carefully select exactly the rags we need to make quality felt. Malthoid and Ru-ber-oid are made to last. Starting with the felt, quality is built-in. Every step in the manufacture of Malthoid and Ru-ber-oid is carried out within our own mills and factories—under the care of experts—by means of the most modern machinery and facilities. When you buy roofing buy the best—the safest protection you can get. It pays in fewer repairs and less cost per year of service. Malthoid and Ru-ber-oid Roofings have been making good for years, under all sorts of extreme conditions. Malthoid and Ru-ber-oid are sure, rain and fire-resistant. THE PARAFFINE COMPANIES, INC.
