Low grade gas and leaky valves is a combination that make starting difficult. There is a remedy at the Standard Auto Repair shop, Fir st., between Adams and Washington. Ed Cyr, Prop. 10-15-tf

Monday Oregon's 48-hour week for working women replaces the 54-hour week of the past and the new minimum wage of $13.20 a week for women became effective, according to the new regulations of the industrial welfare commission governing women's working conditions.

After July 1, 1920, undergraduate nurses are restricted to a 56-hour week, permitting no more than 10 hours' work in any one day.

Elevator operators have been added to the classification of experienced adult workers and are allowed a 48-hour week, these hours being restricted to the period between 7 a. m and 11 p. m.

NEW CROP FLOUR IS PECULIAR.

Data In Regard to Baking Which All Housewives Should Know.

From available statistics, it is evident that wheats grown throughout the Northwest vary greatly from year to year, even when taken from the same field. This variation includes many important characteristics of the grain, but particularly those relating to the bread making quality of the flours from these wheats.

For the past two years, Pacific Northwest wheats have been extremely high in gluten. Gluten is the muscle- and tissue-building property of the wheat, and is quite similar in composition to the lean or muscular tissue of meat. This year, due to climatic conditions affecting the soil and the growing grain, wheats carry considerably more starch and proportionately less gluten than during the two years previous. As a consequence, they are more tender and the flour will not stand as much fermentation or "raising" as the flour from last year's wheats.

Breadmaking specialists agree that the average time for raising the dough from a 1919 crop wheat should be at least one hour shorter than the time for raising the dough from a 1917 or 1918 crop wheat. So far as bread results are concerned, it is very much more preferable to have bread rise less, rather than more than the required amount. It is especially necessary to watch the rising of the dough in the pan and not allow it to attain its maximum height before putting it in the oven. Failure to observe these precautions is very likely to result in bread of grey color, which will lack expansion in the oven, and in loaves which will lack flavor and dry out too rapidly.

EMMY WEHLEN SEEN IN FOOLS AND THEIR MONEY

Clever Comedy-Drama Shown at the Sherry Theatre Wins Applause.

"Fools and Their Money," one of the cleverest comedy-dramas of the season, was shown to a large audience at the theatre yesterday with Emmy Wehlen in a role of distinctive individuality.

The play tells the story of an ambitious social climber, the wife of a newly-made munitions millionaire who mistakes the daughter of an ultra-aristocratic family on the adjoining estate for a servant. This girl, Louise Allenby, sees her opportunity for an adventure and, as her parents are away, decides to act as social secretary for the rich parvenues.

Her experiences are many and varied, and end by her realizing that the son of these newly-rich is a virile, red-blooded young man far above the average of her own set. A romance ensues which ends in a marriage between the blue-blooded aristocrat and the red-blooded real man.

LILA LEE LOVELY IN PICTURE "PUPPY LOVE"

Paramount Star in Charming New Characterization.

The old saying, "all the world loves a lover, so it must love love," sounds like the title of a popular song, doesn't it? Well, it might well be, for it is inspired by Lila Lee, recently the "Cuddles" of vaudeville fame, who appears at the Arcade theatre tomorrow only in "Puppy Love," her latest Paramount picture. It is said the photoplay is as delightful as the star, whom no one can fail to recall with pleasure, who has ever seen her in a Gus Edwards review.

Charles Murray, the famous Paramount-Mack Sennett comedian, has an unctuous role in this picture story, and the cast is one of the best ever assembled. R. William Neill did the directing and Henry Kotani, a clever Oriental cameraman, shot the scenes.

The story is one of young love in a settling of the country town variety. It tells of the tragedies of youth and unrequited affection. It depicts the awful consequences of hearts that are shattered by the cruelties of sweet sixteen. And, withal, it is really charming, whimsical, redolent of the springtime fancies of those who are on the sunny side of sixteen.

STAR THEATRE OPENS TOMORROW

H. B. Warner, the distinguished actor whose screen productions have established him in strong public favor, has another excellent picture in "For a Woman's Honor," that will be shown at the Star theatre Thursday and Friday nights.

The story is one of blackmail by an unscrupulous adventuress, the intrigues of a wily Oriental opium smuggler, and the self-sacrifice of a young English doctor who bore the stigma of a bigamist in his attempt to conceal what he believed to be the dishonor attached to the reputation of his fiance's dead father.

Warner, as Captain Clyde Mannering, the young doctor, has excellent scope for his splendid talents, and he works convincingly. This splendid actor never overacts, but his work is none the less effective for his quiet, tense methods.

The production teems with color and action. The story starts out with a strong, dramatic situation, an adventuress blackmailing the young physician by threatening to reveal a supposed scandal in the life of his fiance's father. To protect his sweetheart's name and that of her father, Mannering pays the woman her price, only to find that his actions were misconstrued by the girl and her mother, who believe that the woman is his own wife whom he has put aside.

His affair broken off, Mannering goes to India. When the girl and her mother later arrive in India, he finds himself involved in a maze of intrigue, the denouement leading to a fateful end for the Oriental after a desperate fight with Mannering who has traced Helen to his house and rescues her.

Marguerite DeLaMotte plays opposite Warner and makes a charming heroine. Others in the cast are Carmen Phillips, John Gilbert, Hector V. Sarno and Carl Stockdale.
