NO REGARD FOR SPEED LAWS

The disease of speed mania seems to have reached a climax in the boated automobile record of two hours and 21 minutes between Astoria and Portland. Anyone who has made the trip between these two points by highway realizes that the danger line is crossed if it is undertaken in less than five hours.

To make the distance in two hours and 21 minutes means that an average speed of 45 miles an hour must be maintained. This would require in some places a speed of 50 to 70 miles an hour, owing to road conditions. When to this is added the thought that the roadway is only 16 feet wide and full of curves, it becomes apparent that it is dangerous business for passing traffic as well as the speeder.

Another bad feature is the encouragement given by reckless drivers and speed fiends by allowing such incidents to take place. Traffic regulation is one of the problems of the day. It does not make it any easier to solve by breaking records.

Still more important, the law fixes the maximum speed on public highways at 30 miles an hour.

It is pertinent to inquire as to the whereabouts of those whose duty it is to see that the law is enforced.—Oregon Journal.

TO KEEP OUT THE RADICALS.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.—To keep thousands of radicals and other undesirable aliens out of the country, the house foreign affairs committee favorably reported a resolution extending for one year after the ratification of peace the wartime passport restriction.

The action was taken at the request of Secretary of State Lansing, who presented consular reports to the committee showing that foreign agitators and others already have congregated at foreign ports to flock to the United States as soon as the wartime pass port ban is lifted by the proclamation of peace.

SHIP BUILDING MAKES PROGRESS IN ORIENT.

Correspondence of the Associated Press. LONDON, Sept. 2.—Sir Herbert Rowell, formerly president of the British Shipbuilding Employers' Federation, who has just returned from a four months' tour of the United States, Japan and China to investigate shipbuilding in those countries, says he is convinced that Great Britain can hold its own place in the struggle for maritime supremacy only by exerting every ounce of its energy and brains. "While it is true," he says, "a few vessels in the hands of circumstances which may be favorably to my mind a real potentiality in ship building and shipbuilding. I cannot say from my visit the possibility of serious rivalry in the future when I picture the transformation which had taken place in America.

"I was surprised to find that ship building in China and Japan was so far advanced. When China awakens we shall have another serious rival to face."

"Japan," he says, "has not developed her shipbuilding industry in the same degree as the United States. Raw material is her greatest need and difficulty in shipbuilding and, in addition, the Japanese have not got commercial enterprise in the same degree as the Americans. Generally speaking, the Japanese will not risk their money as the Americans do."

WRITING HISTORY OF SECOND DIVISION.

Correspondence of the Associated Press. NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—Historians are very busy these days at 512 Fifth Avenue, the newly-opened headquarters of the Second Division Association of ex-regulars formerly commanded by Major General John A. Lejeune, writing up and illustrating its fighting record which, it was announced today is to appear in book form about January 1.

The offices were opened here for the additional purpose, it is said, of enabling the veterans to keep in touch with their old "buddies," whose first annual reunion will be held in Chicago in November. Captain James Sharp, formerly of the 23rd infantry is in charge. General Lejeune is president of the organization, Brigadier General Preston Brown is vice president and Major C. Beekman Hoppin, of 45 Wall Street, is secretary.

PREACH AMERICANISM OF THEODORE ROOSEVELT

On the summit of a peak in the Black Hills of South Dakota stands a tower bearing the simple inscription, "To Theodore Roosevelt—the American." No further designation is, indeed, necessary. Theodore Roosevelt was a statesman, a historian, a journalist, a big game hunter, a naturalist, an explorer, but in and above all he was an American, whose ruling passion was his country. He saved his country with every side of his versatile being. He rescued from oblivion a romantic era of her history; he studied her wild animals and birds and gave them sanctuaries; he redeemed her deserts; he struggled for law and order in her slums; he fought for the lower of her flag, in war and peace, abroad and at home, with pen and sword, and the organized power of high position. He loved America, and with every breath he drew he served her.

Roosevelt the American! The path of the traitor, the demagogue, the politician, the profiteer, the revolutionist, the fifty-fifty fixer, is rough and difficult in America today largely because of the words and deeds of Theodore Roosevelt during the last quarter-century. Like a splendid torch that he knows, must continue to blaze through the centuries to come.

"We ran with the torches until we fell," said Theodore Roosevelt, "content if we can then pass them on to the hands of other runners."

Theodore Roosevelt has fallen. Other runners must carry his torch. Men and women, working in every state of the Union, for a national memorial to Theodore Roosevelt, are the natural torch-bearers. Only such should be chosen as are themselves altogether American at heart, scoring the thought of divided allegiance; and those chosen should conceive their task as a matter not merely of collecting dollars for a monument, but of preaching Americanism for the greater good of their fellow men.

As president of the Roosevelt Memorial association, I want to see the Memorial Fund subscribed; but more than this, I want to see a hundred thousand men and women, during the months of preparation for the memorial drive in October, preaching the straight unadorned Americanism of Theodore Roosevelt. If this wish is fulfilled, the workers in this campaign will be doubly serving their country and dolefully serving the memory of Theodore Roosevelt, the American.

The Roosevelt Memorial association is looking beyond the collection of a fund of $5,000,000 for the erection of a monument to Colonel Roosevelt in Washington and the creation of a park at Oyster Bay. The greatest task of the association is to preserve for all the people of the United States the inspiration that flamed in the heart of Theodore Roosevelt and guided his statesmanship. Unless the movement for the creation of Roosevelt memorials kindles in the souls of his fellow Americans greater devotion, more loyalty and deeper faith, it will have accomplished only a small part of what it was intended to do. Not only among the native but also the foreign-born American citizens must this patriotic feeling be fostered.—Wm. Boyce Thompson, President of Roosevelt Memorial Association.
