MARGUERITE CLARK AND PATTY ARBUCKLE AT ARCADE

"Three Men and a Girl" Made Hit in New York a Year Ago.

A delightful story in every respect, "Three Men and a Girl," Marguerite Clark's latest Paramount picture will be shown at the Arcade today and tomorrow, is based upon Edward Childs Carpenter's stage success, "The Three Bears," which was produced at the Empire Theatre, New York, in October, 1927.

The theme deals with three men, all of them woman haters, and a vivacious girl, who, to escape an odious marriage, finds refuge in the summer camp where the "mog" had gone to escape women. One of these, Christopher Kent, is pursued by a woman, while Julius Voneman, a violinist hater, womankind because he was killed. Dr. Henry Forester, the third of the boys, an Sylvia Weston calls them in the self-satisfied guardian of the others.

When Sylvia escapes from her home to avoid wedding an old man she despised, she flies to the woods and finds refuge in a summer camp where the three woman haters are living. When they return, they find her alone, rushed up on a couch. They are extremely annoyed and Sylvia, taking them by surprise, leaves them to take up her residence in a nearby home, with her nurse.

A dad line is established between the two inhabitants, but strangely enough, the hater of women seeks to cross the bond line, continually to talk to Sylvia, whose beauty charms them. So it happens that she falls in love with Kent, the "little boy." The support is excellent.

A new two reel "Fatty" Arbuckle comedy is also being shown on this same program.

HARRY CARRY AT STAR SATURDAY AND SUNDAY

In the days of the fenced West gunplay was a science rather than a hobby to be trifled with in idle moments. The man with the quickest gun frequently lasted longer than the man with another check to turn. Gun fighting is a bit on the eccentric side of the great West, but there was a time when it was the first law of the men who rode the range. There have been times, within the memory of many of us, when gunplay was the only way to settle a feud.

Gun-play at its height as a science is depicted in "Riders of Vengeance," a Harry Carry success which is to be shown at the Star Saturday and Sunday.

OLD TREES FOUND IN NORTHERN IDAHO

MISSOULA, Mont., Oct. 17.—Cedar trees more than 2,000 years old and still alive and growing have been found in the Kamiah forest of the first forest service district, according to J. W. Girard, district logging engineer, whose headquarters is here. The Kamiah forest is in the extreme northeast corner of Washington and the far north end of the Idaho panhandle.

Mr. Girard stated that he investigated a report of trees of that age, believing that no trees grew to that age in America except the redwoods on the Pacific coast. His investigations proved the truth of the report, he declared.

"These trees," said Mr. Girard, "varied in size from a foot to ten feet in diameter. I used a boring instrument on them and found the report was true. Any way I figured it I found the trees were in all cases 2,000 years old, and some of them heavier 2,000. The wood is firm and is a potential source of high grade lumber. I know of no other place in the United States except the redwood forests where trees of that age may be found."

RURAL LIFE SCHOOL HAS GOOD PROSPECT

Enrollment at Gooding College in districts. Encouraging interest and support.

GOODING, Idaho, Oct. 17.—The advance enrollment for the rural life school at Gooding college, October 21-22 already exceeds the total attendance of some of the rural schools that have been held in the past.

Dr. John W. Hancher, associate secretary of the board of education of New York City arrived in Gooding, October 14th, and brought with him Dr. F. D. Emory, who has charge of the village committee to raise $100,000 for municipal and county sanitary improvement.

Saturday, October 17th, was observed as Gooding College day for the district of rural schools of the Idaho-Mountain Empire, when pastors and ministers were also held the opening year of the campaign which will mean so much to the young men and women of the west.

WITNESSES TELL OF BRUTALITIES IN BAVARIA

BERLIN, Sept. 21.—The trial of social time and attention to Gooding college matters.

The Rural Life School will commence October 21st. Dr. Ralph A. Felton, who has done so much for the home boards of both the Presbyterian and the Methodist churches will have direct charge and will be assisted by a number of most able rural experts and religious workers.

The Rural Life School will commence October 21st. Dr. Ralph A. Felton, who has done so much for the home boards of both the Presbyterian and the Methodist churches will have direct charge and will be assisted by a number of most able rural experts and religious workers.

Superintendents J. E. Baker of the Pocatello district and W. H. Ewing of Boise are calling all their men together for a conference October 26-27. A cordial invitation has also been extended to many other preachers and rural workers, regardless of denomination or church affiliation, so the success of this, the first Rural Life School to be held within the bounds of the Idaho-Mountain Empire, is already assured.

Money Ready for Student Activities. MOSCOW, Ida., Oct. 17.—More than $15,000 will be expended this year for the maintenance of student activities of various descriptions at the University of Idaho, according to a statement by Professor Howard T. Lewis, who heads a faculty advisory committee on student affairs recently appointed by President E. H. Lindley.

LITERARY MAN IN NEED OF AID

LONDON, Sept. 21.—Ernest Viotelly, who made the name of Emile Zola known in England through his comprehensive translation of the French author's works, and who for many years occupied a high position in the London literary world, was today an inmate of the sick ward in a North London workhouse. Discouraged by his impoverished condition, Viotelly sat on foot a movement to have his troubles taken before the Prime Minister in the hope that his name will be placed on the pension list.

For seven years Mr. Viotelly, who is now 64 years old, has been lodging in Canonbury where he was engaged last winter in writing his latest book, "Paris and Her People." He became ill and fell blind. Eventually he was forced with the necessity of walking out into the street with nowhere to lay his head.

WAS HIS OWN SURGEON

BRESE, Sept. 21.—A few days ago according to a story in the French papers, a street row occurred here in which some American soldiers took part. One was hit by a revolver bullet. The hospital surgeon took a long time probing the wound, but the American stoically bore the pain.

"What are you doing, anyway?" he asked finally.

"Looking for the bullet," said the doctor.

"Why didn't you say so? I've got it in my pocket. I took it out myself," was the retort.
