ANITA STEWART IN "MARY REGAN"

Anita Stewart, in her latest First National Feature, "Mary Regan," the screen version of LeRoy Scott's great novel, which will be seen at the Arcade theatre today and tomorrow, has the difficult role of a girl loved by two men, yet in her heart convinced that she should not marry at all.

She takes this stand because she is the daughter of a notorious criminal who is serving a long sentence for robbery.

At last she decides her duty is to marry the younger of the men, the son of a capitalist, whom she desires to save from the ruin which is pursuing him in the form of a lost life with a background of hard way's lights.

How she finds she has made a mistake after doing this, how she battles a crowd of wily blackmailers who are seeking her fortune or her young husband, and how she is saved by her good angel, a detective, is thrillingly told in "Mary Regan."

AT SHERRY'S.
Isabelle was inquisitive—and she intruded! Apartment X at 118 West Seventieth street, New York. Lonely man, revolver in hand, ready to bid farewell to a great but otherwise disappointing world.

Exchange of sympathy? Winking of eyes? Isabelle hit upon a happy idea to whip grim Fate at his own game. Taviens—speedy train—Frisco! The grand and glorious West! Then the real excitement started. Another man, another woman and Dan Cupid had his hands full. All happiness in Madge Kennedy's latest Goldwyn drama, "Through the Wrong Door," by Jesse Lynch Williams, directed by Clarence G. Badger. Now showing at Sherry's. Bring the family. Last times today. Also showing the new, hot, heavily vaudeville movies. Four high class acts. The best variety.

Then I got up, feeling an intense desire to see something in connection with the case, for Taulac is one medicine everyone would know about. Such a medicine deserves the highest praise, and it is a pleasure for me to make this statement.

Giving Give Relief.
Great relief from pain in muscles of the arm had been gained from the use of a drug described by Dr. E. E. Williams in the British Medical Journal. The drug, given over the shoulder of the muscular arm, and under the effect of the painful arm in such a way that it slightly rubs it. This by rubbing the shoulder and collar bone, took off the pressure upon the nerve roots and removed the weight of the arm from dragging on these nerves.

Pathetic Query.
The nurse had been establishing her patient by eating some of his favorite songs to him. There was one song in particular that the little boy liked much, and he never failed to sing the nurse to sing it to him every time she came into the room. She had already sung it a dozen times or more that morning, when on coming into the room after a few minutes' absence she heard a little voice from the other end of the room: "Say, nurse, do you think you have enough time left to sing that song again?"

International Expeditions.
The first international expedition in this country was held in New York in 1853. The first international exhibition took place in Philadelphia in 1876, the World's Columbian Exposition in Chicago in 1893, the Pan-American Exposition in Buffalo in 1901, Louisiana Purchase Exposition in St. Louis in 1904 and the Panama-Pacific Exposition in San Francisco in 1915. These were the most important exhibitions having an international character.

Whales That Walked.
Whales need to walk. That is the statement of Prof. Harry Thompson, authority on fishes of the sea, in a lecture on that subject at the Royal Institution, London. He said the whale originally had four legs or fins, but that the two hind ones had simply dwindled away. In bygone ages ancestors of the present family of whales walked about much as seals do.

Coughed So He Couldn't Sleep.
Roughing sports, kicking in shoes and athletic games break one's rest and weaken one so that the system is gradually broken down. My wife writes: "I had a severe cold this fall and coughed continually at night, could hardly sleep. The first bottle of Foley's Honey and Tar relieved me, entirely curing my cough." It covers irritated membranes with a healing and soothing coating, lessens phlegm and clears air passages. Sold everywhere.
