was followed by Mr. Holmes, our present official.

"There has been trying times in banking in that thirty years, but there has also been lots of sunshine," said Mr. Meyers, "and to the employees here tonight—from the most important to the least important—I wish to say the La Grande National Bank owes its excellent record, its high achievement, its remarkable place in the sun to the people who have worked diligently and faithfully, as well as to the men who have had confidence in us all to place their money in our custody."

In introducing Earl Zundell, assistant cashier, President Holmes in a very impressive manner called attention to the sixteen years service of Mr. Zundell, stating that to his efforts is credited many a good account in the bank, many a satisfied customer, and a great part in the general supervision.

Mr. Zundell responded by assuring the president that his heart had men with the bank since first he began as errand boy and that he deeply appreciated the president's remarks concerning the work he had done in the bank's behalf.

Following Mr. Zundell, H. E. Coulidge spoke in strong words of the esteem all employees hold for Mr. Holmes, Mr. Meyers, Mr. Zundell and other men who have spent years with the financial institution which has prospered and grown to its present size. Other talks were made by Vice President C. C. Pennington, Harry Zarbrick, Harold Herring, Harry Bregholtz, Des

Mr. Mrs. Bay, Nell Grimmett and Mr. Pomeroy among the employees. Stockholders who spoke were J. G. Snodgrass, Dr. R. G. Brown, and Andrew Blockland.

The New 1920 Haynes Delights The Experts

Grand Opening

"Off with the old and on with the new," would be a good slogan for the McCrary Auto Co. to adopt, for it is now safely housed in its handsome new home opposite the Federal building on Adams avenue.

When Charles McCrary used to drive a transfer team in La Grande, walking through the mud with a half ton of freight, there was no such thing as an automobile known, and it is doubtful if, in his younger days, he even had a dream that some day he would be selling the handsome Haynes car and have a home for it that is entitled to special mention and becomes a public utility.

When Elwood Haynes was busily making the first automobile in America, Charles McCrary, the La Grande agent for that popular car now, was a much younger man than he is today. In those times he had good horses and knew about what was in a well bred animal.

But when the buzz-wagon heaved in sight, McCrary bid Old Dobbin goodbye and grabbed the steering wheel. He has built a fine business for the Haynes people here and has found that his present quarters were entirely too small.

The next thing to do was to build a garage and this he has done in the most approved manner. His opening will be on Friday night when a big dance will be the event that will open the handsome structure and, following that date, the new garage will be occupied and ready for business.

Everything is free—public cordially invited. Music will be furnished by Lindsay's Orchestra.

THERE are thousands of car users who know all the ins and outs of automobile making. They know engines, they know transmissions, they know body designs and their fitness to their purposes.

Today this super-critic class approves the Haynes. This approval is honestly earned. The Haynes presents a perfect combination of the four essential factors of car-character—beauty, strength, power and comfort.

Engine, chassis, body, every interior and exterior detail—all these are harmonized and perfected. The quiet period was well occupied in developing great and small betterments, resting upon the twenty-six years' history of the Haynes—America's first car.

Today, when you must consider values from every angle, the Haynes presents greater worth than has ever before been possible.

Naturally the Haynes is in greater demand than at any other moment in its life. To be sure of getting your Haynes, we ask you to be prompt in placing your order.
