MONDAY AT THE PACIFIC SHOW

(By Paul H. Spillman)
Monday morning came with a sense for which cleared away before noon and a bright calm day brought out a good crowd. These came on street cars or by auto—a continuous flow of humanity.

Tom Johnson put in his appearance with a big smile and announced that his car of heavy hogs arrived in good shape. Warren Chandler clustered a special lot of three fat hogs that they too arrived on the wagon for their travel. W. J. Townsley, Louis Bidler and Mrs. Bidler were found admiring the Union county hogs. Mrs. G. W. Delay was giving the De Lay Shortorns the once over. Frank Bidwell seems to have a habit of playing near the horse barn, and Gus Levy at the dairy barn. Charles Dutchman was seen to enter the cafeteria and Everett May was caught in the act of carrying a tray loaded to the limit at the same eating place, and here also were found Pete McDonald and J. E. Reynolds doing their utmost. Walt Matthews had either left the cafeteria or was putting on finishing touches to Union county draft horses. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Playle put in their appearance this afternoon and T. B. Terry was here enjoying the night show.

This morning the bay's stock judging contest was held but Union county did not get into the running. Clackamas, Marion and Coos county won the first three places. Fifteen teams competed, but the Union county score is not available to date.

The night horse show brought out a good many interesting features. W. R. Ledbetter won first in the heavy draft horse teams and Floyd McKennon third.

In the saddle horse classes competition was keen with the entries from Vancouver, A. C.; Victoria, B. C.; San Francisco and Los Angeles, Cal.; Seattle, Wn.; as well as local entries, among them G. S. Levy and W. R. Ledbetter. The gray saddle horse that Robert Withycombe sold at the State Fair also was entered by his new owner under the name of Funwood. G. S. Levy and Mrs. May Moss rode in some of the events. In the musical chairs act Gus Norval, Floyd McKennon, Gus Levy, Wade Brooks and Albert Hunter rode. Floyd was the first man to loose his chair and Albert was about fourth from the last to loose out. There were ten entries. One time, G. S. Levy and Albert tied for of love written on it. Then followed twelve years of misery for her. Was she to remain true to her husband and let him do as he pleased or was she to get what pleasure she could out of life? This is the absorbing part of a plot that is unfolded in "Wives of Men" starring beautiful and talented Florence Reed, that will be shown at the Star theatre today tomorrow.

BILLIE RHODES AS MADCAP HEIRESS

Petite Screen Star Appears As Dare-Devil Imp in "In Search of Arcady" Picturization of Popular Story at Sherry's.

Madcap Billie Rhodes is seen in a delightfully piquant role in her latest production for Exhibitors Mutual release, "In Search of Arcady."

The picture is a screen adaptation of the book of the same title by the well-known writer of popular fiction, Nina Wilcox Putnam, whose stories, if this production be a criterion, contain all the essentials for breezy and entertaining film plays.

The palatial home of Mrs. Chichester was the hang-out of various more or less bona fide specimens of titled nobility of the male persuasion, whom the hostess had invited in the hope that Barbara Chichester, heiress to the Chichester millions, would decide to marry a title. But Barbara hated dukes, counts, everything. Here's was a free, unfettered and adventurous spirit, as she ran away and became a Gypsy and went "In Search of Arcady."

The Earl of Chamboyne, a healthy he-man in spite of his title, was girlishly. He also ran away to escape the pestering Mrs. Chichester, and became a peddler.

Their identity unknown to each other, the runaways met.

The final denouement came at the Chichester house, when Barbara was introduced to the earl at a lawn fête, and came to the conclusion that a chap with a title could be a "regular fellow" in spite of it.

The story makes a delightful vehicle for the screen, and affords Miss Rhodes a role splendidly suited to her sprightly personality.

Also shows a comedy and Pathé Review.

CICILE R. DE MILLE SELECTS FINE CAST FOR NEW PRODUCTION.

Excellent Players Chosen by Celebrated Producer for "For Better, For Worse."

Cecil B. DeMille, director general of the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation, and producer of "For Better, For Worse," which is to be shown at the Arcade Friday and Saturday, is a stickler for fine actors, and he personally selects the cast in each of his productions. After spending weeks on the work of casting alone.

"For Better, For Worse" is no exception in this particular. All of the roles, from the leads down to the minor parts, are taken by actors of prominence and reputation, and a list of their names is sufficient assurance that the acting will be of the very highest quality.

Elliott Dexter, who will be remembered as the husband in Mr. DeMille's "Old Wives for New," has the leading role.

Tom Forman, a popular leading man, who returns to the screen after devoting many months to army service, will portray the second leading male role.

Glenda Swanson, who has also appeared in many of the DeMille pictures, is the heroine. Miss Swanson is as noted for her beauty as for her acting ability.

Wanda Hawley, another Paramount Ayrault favorite, who will be remembered for her work in "The Wives of Men," "We Can't Have Everything" and other DeMille pictures, is also in the cast. Others are Theodore Roberts, Raymond Hatton, Sylvia Ashton and Jack Holt.

a chair, each sitting in part of the chair and hold their horse by the reins. Next round, however, Lucy lost out.

Without a doubt the most popular rider tonight was a girl, riding a pony belonging to James McDevore of Victoria, B. C. She rode and drove exceptionally well and when she rode her pony over the hurdles she "brought down the house," cheer after cheer rang through the building as her nimble pony cleared the hurdles.

The final event of the evening was a drill by the Portland Hunt Club, twelve couples entering. The lady riders were attired in black riding habits, the men with "red riding coats, white breeches, and black boots, both lady and gentleman riders wearing white neck pieces, white gloves and high hats. Their drill resembled in many respects to the evaluation of an infantry company going through close an extended order. The adept, well dressed riders astride their beautiful horses made an impressive sight.

One of the interesting features of the night is that the young sport runs to "Charlie Chaplin" and the old sport to "roscoe." We see numbers of them each day.

Fecundity of Fish.

The most prolific fish is the cod the yield of which averages about 45,000,000 eggs each season. Many other kinds of fish are exceedingly prolific. More than 30,000 eggs have been counted in a herring, 28,000 in a smelt, 1,000,000 in a sole, 1,120,000 in a perch, 5,000,000 in a starurgeon, 500,000 in a mackerel, and 1,357,000 in a flounder.

Fertilizers in the Netherlands.

One source of the demand for fertilizers in the Netherlands that one is apt to overlook is the fairly extensive reclamation of waste land. The process of dyking and draining that has won large sections of the country from the sea and its culmination in the project to drain the greater part of the Zuider Zee are well-known.

The Greyhound's Origin.

The origin of the greyhound, according to some authors, is a mystery. In ancient times the greyhound was considered a valuable present, especially by ladies, with whom it appears to have been a particular favorite. In the reign of Henry VIII the greyhound was distinguished as one of the king's beasts.

Something of a Leading Question.

An older brother has recently married and Bobby had told that he could call his new sister-in-law Mary, instead of Miss Barbour as before. A few nights later, when a devoted admirer of his older sister was entertained at dinner, Bobby caused much embarrassment by inquiring, "Mother, how soon can we begin calling Mr. Carter Mary?"

Flowers in Greenland.

Greenland, it seems, is a place of flowers as well as of ice, reports Gus Logie. Botanists have counted 120 specimens of flowering plants, growing in the land of the South sound Eskimo, on its northwest coast.

"Auld Lang Syne." Perhaps you think that Robert Burns wrote that famous song, "Should Auld Acquaintance Be Forgotten?" Most people do, yet the noted Scotch poet is not the author. He himself said, "I took it down from an old man's singing."—Boston Post.

Imperfect Vision In A School Child

often entails more than mere eyestrain. It must be remembered that trouble from imperfect seeing school work, comes not only from seeing words and figures wrongly but also from fatigue of the brain caused by eyestrain. Twenty-five per cent of children have defective vision. Frequently a bashful child fails to tell the teacher he cannot see the blackboard easily and so is unable to do his work—is accused of neglect and falls behind in classes—all because of lack of proper eye care. If your child has defective vision have it corrected by an Optometrist. Our equipment is the most modern in the optical science.
