

Through Palestine By Rail

Bedouins of Palestine.

ONCE upon a time Moses took his people to travel from Egypt into the Promised Land. Today the Palestine Military railway leading it between night and day, every day of the week, writes Clair Price in Asia. I stood at my carriage window, entering Palestine to the thirteenth mile of the line. Below me, the rails were bedded in golden sand, up the slope of which the green of the adjacent hills lay like surf on a yellow beach. Laid was a small railroad yard in a vast pool of sand, with Welsh coal under smoking its yellow chimney. With its passengers leaning out its windows pulling into the station came "Ya weled," the Officers' Special pulled in on its way to Haifa shortly after seven o'clock and came to a dignified stop alongside the little "Jerusalem" train for Jerusalem. An Arab weled, wearing a fez and a station porter's brassard, attended of empire, one column of which rests on South Africa and the other on India. It is the neck of the British Cape-to-Calcutta-Cantonment.

Leaving Haifa, we skirted the foot of Carmel and entered the broad plain, with the black hills of the Lebanon, dotted with the green of the olive trees and with the tall, thin, tangled up like the Sultan's signature, in a carriage built for eight, talking of the Crusaders and the Camel Corps, and untangling ourselves intermittently, hanging out of the windows with our kodaks, as the low cone of the Mount of Transfiguration disengaged itself from the horizon for a moment. We passed Atch, where the greatest cavalry maneuver in military history enabled the Australians to smash the Turkish rear in September, 1918, and we squeezed across the tarmac to see where "Nazareth lies just over that hill." We saw the green plain give way gradually to a hilly, mountainous landscape.

THINK of the amount of hen energy, vitality and red blood required to grow a thousand feathers—the average plumed! A healthy hen needs good health—good appetite—good digestion.

Dr. Hess Poultry Pan-a-ce-a helps poultry through the moult and starts pullets and resulted hens to lay. It contains tonic for the appetite, tonic to aid digestion. It tones up the dormant egg organs. It contains iron that gives a moulting hen rich, red blood and a red comb. No disease where Pan-a-ce-a is fed. By all means feed your moulting hens Dr. Hess Poultry Pan-a-ce-a.

La Grande's Pioneer Home Furnishings

In the Summerland of Home

ONLY summer is reflected in the frivolous and adorably pretty negligees with which the shops outside inspection of their stocks in these garments. The finest of materials in the most dainty of colors and all sorts of dainty trimmings lend their help to make up this shimmering apparel for the genial air of home. Nothing quite equals it in daintiness, but there are negligees of more substantial fabrics that come quite close to being rivals, like those very popular morning coats of tulle in gay colors that give the day a cheerful stay, or one with a dash of brightness. These are much more practical than their flimsy sisters, unless one lives in a tropic sea—or steam heat.

A Toulouse Goose.

Toulouse. The appearance of old birds is rather hard to prepare for market. The skin is dark and there is down and also pin feathers that give the carcass a poor appearance on the market.

TUBERCULOSIS IN CHICKENS

Disease is Quite Common and is Caused by Quarters Being Poorly Ventilated and Lighted.

Tuberculosis in poultry results in a loss of weight. The birds may look all right for a time, but they will be found to be light. Mr. Barton, of the North Dakota Agricultural college, states that in the later stages the birds become weak, often they cannot fly into the roosts, but sit in a corner, and after a little die. According to Mr. Barton, this disease is quite common, affecting turkeys as well as chickens. One way to tell if the birds have tuberculosis is to cut them open. If the bird is light in weight and the liver is enlarged and spotted it may be quite safe to say that it has been suffering from tuberculosis.

The sties that small quarters, poorly ventilated, poorly lighted and damp are conducive to the spread of the disease. The best remedy is to dispose of all infected birds and if the flock is badly infected to dispose of all the birds, then thoroughly clean the house and yards, disinfected and start over again with tuberculosis-free birds. Mr. Barton recommends a disinfectant made up of the parts of one ounce of creolin and one ounce of carbol and in one gallon of water.

PROPER SHELTER FOR GEES

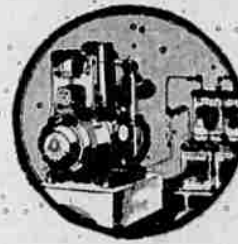

Some Protection Should Be Provided During Winter and Stormy Weather—Keep It Dry.

Except in winter or during stormy weather, when some protection should be provided, geese need no shelter. They will seek out a shed open on the south side, a poultry house, or a barn, if usually provided. The goose house should be kept clean and plenty of clean straw provided for the floor.

Original "Limerick"
The word is said to have been adopted as a name for a certain kind of nonsense verse, because an old song current in Ireland, which had the same "Limerick" contained the phrase "Limerick."

Breaks Originated Ostracism.
Ostracism was a ceremony and a political move, as well as a banish more so its original workings. The word comes from the Greek "ostrakon," meaning the shell of an oyster. The shells were used as ballots. Ostracism was a punishment, as it took a man out of the country for a year, and anyone who was banished was not allowed to return for a year. It was a punishment for a crime, but it was not a punishment for a crime. It was a punishment for a crime, but it was not a punishment for a crime.

family known, came from fine old to me, I decided to try it. I got a rugged Quaker stock, and there is a better known or more highly used in referring to his remarkable restoration to health by Tanlac, he said: "About five years ago I suffered a general breakdown. My principal trouble was nervous indigestion. My appetite was very poor and my food seldom arrived with me, and I had to live on a very restricted diet. I suffered a great deal from headaches, dizziness, and I had severe pains across the small of my back and was badly constipated most of the time. In fact, I was so weak and rundown I was not able to attend to my duties. This condition made me very nervous and I could not sleep at night. Frequently I would lie awake most all night and was in that condition more or less for five years. My physician said he could not do anything for me and suggested a change

For a Disordered Stomach.

When the stomach fails to perform its functions the bowels become deranged, the liver and kidneys congested. The important thing is to restore the stomach and liver to a healthy condition and for this purpose Chamberlain's Tablets are excellent. Give them a trial. They only cost a quarter. —Adv.

Reducing Work to Pleasure With the VIKING

HERE'S one job on the farm you can make a pleasure. You don't need to put much time on a Viking cream separator, either in operation or in cleaning. You will enjoy doing the skimming and can take the Viking apart and clean it quickly. No clumsy, heavy parts to get mixed up—no chance to go wrong, and it runs as smoothly as a watch.

Nothing to get out of order; always clean, fresh and ready. The time you save in using a will pay for the machine. The Straight Discs, held together by a ring—the greater time-saver science has ever invented in cream separators.

You cannot put them together wrong. You'll realize what a pleasure it is to have a separator when you own a Viking. Come in and see it.
