BOY SCOUTS

Wilson Praises 53 Scouts

President Wilson has sent personal letters of congratulation and commendation to fifty-three Boy Scouts of America, one in each state, territory and possession...

The conclusion of each letter reads thus: "I thank you in the name of the whole country, and I wish to convey to your parents, your community and your Boy Scout organization, my appreciation of the training that has developed in you such a fine spirit of wholesome and loyal citizenship."

THE OLDEST SCOUT TROOP

The oldest troop in the United States, Scoutmaster W. R. Ward of Troop 4, Salina, Kan., writes, "The boy scouts of Christ cathedral (Episcopal) were organized in 1880 by R. H. Bagnan, an instructor in the St. John's Military academy, who came here from Scotland, and who had seen the English scout movement in operation there. When the troop was organized English magazines hailed it as the first troop in the United States and published cuts of the original troop. When the national organization was formed the troop registered as troop 1 of Salina. We boast of 42 stars in our service flag, two of them gold, former scouts every one, every one of them active members of the troop."

SCOUTS TO BE FOREST GUIDES

Plans for a state-wide organization to be known as the Forest Guides, and to be a part of the boy scouts in Pennsylvania have been worked out by Commissioner of Forestry Clifford Pichot and Solon Parks, scout executive of Reading. Cooperation of all scout masters and executives in the state will be asked. The idea will be to have boys trained to protect and conserve forest and wild life, and to prevent and extinguish fires.

Brain's Many Uses. Brain is a term often used for the important central organ of a man; thus in English you usually mean wheat in English wats, in French, brain, in the count it means wate.

BANKS TRY TO RAISE PRICES

KENTUCKY BANKS LOAN LARGE AMOUNTS OF MONEY.

Central Post of State Tries to Save Thousands of Farmers From Embarrassment.

LEXINGTON, Ky., Jan. 21.—Central Kentucky is trying to save thousands of farmers from bankruptcy and banks and business houses from serious embarrassment, according to statements of bankers, growers and others who have been active in the movement to force prices for the 1920 crop of burley tobacco to a point that will not be far from the 1920 record. They assign this as the reason for the nervous situation that has torn the burley tobacco region for the last several weeks, resulting in all markets, but a few, being closed, threats being made against buyers, a run on one bank and an agreement to "cut out" the 1921 crop and hold the 1920 crop if financial arrangements can be made.

Banks in central Kentucky loan large sums to farmers to finance their crops. Just how large the total of these loans, this year are no guess has been ventured. The question of how long the bankers can carry the farmers, however, was one of the foremost in the meeting of farmers, growers and warehousemen held there recently.

It is claimed that if tobacco does not bring a satisfactory price these farmers will lose their lands, and many financial institutions will be hampered.

Buyers of tobacco are silent as to why prices are not higher. Farmers claim that in view of the fact that prices rose gradually over a period of four years from 1915 to 1919, they should drop gradually. They assert that labor costs during the 1920 season were the highest in the history of farming in Kentucky. Stories of farmers who paid $8 per day for common labor in the tobacco fields are common among large growers who visit the offices of the Burley Tobacco Growers' association here. Stripping tobacco—taking the leaves off the stalk and tying them in "bundles" or bundles—cost from five to eight cents a pound, according to statements of officials of the growers' association who have been traveling throughout the district.

Kentucky produces one-fifth of the tobacco of the world and almost one-third of the crop of the United States, according to the Agricultural Department of the United States. The world production in 1919, the last year for which statistics are available, was 2,152,295,000 pounds, while Kentucky produced a total of 428,000,000 pounds of all types. The estimate for the total 1920 crop in the
