AND SURE

When a remedy of specified strength is required to check a fever, stimulate the heart, or to defeat any disease, a weaker remedy may be no better than none at all.

Drugs may, therefore, be pure and yet not sure. They may be genuine yet lacking in active principles.

Drugs at our store are thoroughly tested to determine purity and potency. All important are made in our laboratory by experienced graduate pharmacists—and they have the finest materials in the world to work with.

Syrups, Tinctures, Etc.

TAYLOR FAMILY GIVEN SURPRISE

GRANGE HALL, Mar. 16.—(Special.)—Thirty-six friends and neighbors of Mr. and Mrs. Will Taylor gave them a surprise party last Wednesday evening. The hours were spent in playing cards and games. At the close of the pleasantly spent evening, dainty refreshments were served.

A nine-pound baby boy was born to Mr. and Mrs. G. V. Wilkerson on Thursday, March 16.

Mrs. J. E. Groesbeck and children, who have been the guests of Mrs. Salisbury for some time, left this morning for Nampa, Idaho, their future home.

Roy Gekeler made a trip to Telo-cast Monday to help with the initiation of some new members who have joined the grange at that place.

The house of George Gekeler has been receiving some improvements in the way of built-in cupboards, painting and papering.

As feed was getting low at his home place, Will Hughes took his bunch of stock cattle to his ranch up Ladd Canyon Monday to finish feeding till grass comes.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Gekeler returned home Thursday from Portland, where they spent the winter. Although Mrs. Gekeler has not entirely recovered from an attack of la grippe, her health in general is very much improved.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Ragain arrived from Salt Lake Thursday evening and were the guests of Mr. Ragain's sister, Mrs. George Hughes, for a day or two. The Ragains made the trip in their Studebaker six which was the first car reported to have made the through trip.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry McClay, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Huff, Mr. and Mrs. Lyman Huff and Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Spencer were hosts Monday evening at a surprise wedding anniversary party given in honor of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Huff. As it was the fortieth or fifty, anniversary the decorations of the Spencer home were in red. A novel feature of the evening was when little Jack McClay came bounding into the room and drawing a little express wagon which was decorated in red and contained a red Indian blanket, which he presented to Mr. and Mrs. Huff. Another pleasing feature was when J. J. Spencer appeared in her grandmother's wedding gown and sweetly sang "When You and I Were Young, Maggie." During the evening the children and grandchildren of the guests of honor gave a short musical program, after which the guests joined in singing several songs that were popular forty years ago. The latter part of the evening was spent in playing old-time games, after which the delightful evening was brought to a close by serving delicious refreshments.

COYOTES KEEP WALLOWA FAMILY

JOSEPH, Mar. 17.—For 12 years coyotes have supported the family of A. J. Sullivan, of Innaba, Wallowa county. Bounties collected and returns from the skins, Sullivan said, form his sole source of income, yet he has managed to pay all expenses of himself, his wife and three children, the oldest ready for high school.

Sullivan took up trapping while holding down a claim on the edge of an Idaho desert. His success led him to give up the claim, and for several years he followed desert trapping in Utah and Idaho. His family usually resides in a small town near the scene of his operations, but often accompanies him.

For two years he has been trapping on the F. W. Falconer sheep range on the Innaba, but he plans to go to the Utah deserts this summer. Changes in bounties put on predatory animals keep him changing the base of his operations.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy—Nothing So Good for a Cough or Cold.

Holding Emery Cloth.

When polishing flat surfaces with emery cloth instead of using a file it will be found more convenient to wrap the cloth around the file and to bend a piece of wire into a clip to hold the cloth to the file with the lower end. The clip at the outer end of the file is held with the fingers so that a clip at this point is not needed.

Probably Most Common Name. Thousands of years before Christ the Hebrews had a name corresponding to our John and this has remained a most popular name, not in some form or other in almost every country. One of the variations is the Latin Johannes from which is derived the modern German Hans. Without this final "s" this was widespread in England during the middle ages and from this is derived the modern Hankin (or little John), Handcock, or Hancock, Hanson and Hankinson.

Fellow Visitors. Passing through a poverty-stricken district and noticing the large number of children playing about, the thought occurred to us that the stork and the wolf have about the same calling list.—Boston Transcript.
