The Mission Band of the Presbyterian Church will meet at the home of Marjorie Kirby, 992 O St., Saturday afternoon at 2:30. All members and friends are urged to be present.

Team Match Tournament

There will be a team match tournament Sunday at the golf grounds of the Country Club. The captains of the teams will select sides on the course, the losing side pays for a dinner for the winners. The dinner is to be served at the club.

Takes Church at Elgin

Friends of the Rev. W. A. Winter family are glad to learn that Rev. Winter has taken the pastorate of the Methodist Church at Elgin. They were former residents of this city, but more recently have been making their home at Caldwell. They are now settled at Elgin.

E. L. Whiddon Will Return

Rev. E. L. Whiddon, pastor of the Methodist Church South, who has been in Portland for the past two weeks, will occupy his pulpit on Sunday. He has been away from the Whiddon's health, which is somewhat improved. She will remain in Portland for a while longer.

George King Represents Actna

George King, one of the Baker boys who has been in the book and stationery business in that city for a number of years, is in La Grande today and stated to the Observer that he had sold his business in Baker and has taken the Eastern Oregon territory for the Actna Life Insurance company. He will visit La Grande often, for this company has a great deal of business in this section.

Return to La Grande

F. A. Lovitt returned to La Grande yesterday morning, after spending the past several days in Baker.

Will Meet Son

Frank Harris has gone to Portland on business and will not be back until the first of next week. He will meet his son, Charles, who is on his way home from an extended trip through the south.

Visits Husband

Mrs. R. H. Osborne, of La Grande, arrived in Baker Wednesday evening and will make an indefinite visit with her husband, who is employed here in constructing the large oil tank which the Standard Oil company is putting up.—Baker Herald.

Mrs. Gulling Returns

Mrs. J. C. Gulling returned yesterday from Los Angeles, Cal., where she has spent the past month, having been called there by the illness and death of her father, John Dyrnes, whom many of the old-timers here will remember.

"Hi" Crippen is Running

Frank Crippen, one of the graduates of the local high school last year, is running for the O. A. C. rooks this spring. Crippen was high point man at the Eastern Oregon track meet held here last spring, and his friends look for him to make good in college.

Wallace Kaddery in City

Wallace Kaddery, known throughout the state as one of the famous O. A. C. foot-racers, is in the city today on business. Mr. Kaddery is county agent leader for Western Oregon, while F. L. Ballard is county agent leader for Eastern Oregon. The two are exchanging ideas today.

Complaint Asks for Divorce

Alleging cruel and inhuman treatment and desertion, Elizabeth Simmons has entered complaint in the circuit court against Roy Simmons, asking that she be granted a divorce. They were married in La Grande in 1918 and have one child, 15 months old, of which the plaintiff asks custody. J. L. Rand is attorney for the plaintiff.—Baker Herald.

Will Enter New Work

Henry Buchholz, formerly employed by the O.-W. R. & N. company as foreman, has entered the employ of the International Correspondence School in the Railway Service Division and has been assigned to instruction car No. 105, which operates on the main and leased lines of the Union Pacific railroad in the states of Washington, Oregon, Idaho, Utah, Montana and Wyoming. Mr. Buchholz will leave for Portland in a few days to take up his new duties. The family will continue to reside here.

Gas Thieves at Work

August Berger, who lives on Y avenue, says the open season is on in his end of town for gas thieves and he is loading up his trusty shotgun with buckshot to get the chap that has been entering his garage in the small hours of the night and draining his car. Others have reported similar thefts and the people north of the track are now throwing out a dragnet to bring in a few offenders to police court.

Chinese Water Chestnuts

Water chestnut is a name given many times to the edible tubers, grown in great quantities in China, that are properly called the pinst, and may be eaten either raw or boiled. The real water chestnut in China has the name of Hing-ko and is one of the five food grains grown there.

Laces and Silks Again United

AS IN the past, lace and tulle go their ways together this season, happily united in dresses for afternoon and evening. They make the prettiest frocks, dressy enough and not too dressy, so that they serve many purposes. Their rivals are made of lace and satin for lace is an accommodating thing, easily adapted to many other materials.

In the illustration above, black chantilly is shown in combination with tulle at the right and draped over satin in the dress at the left of the picture. To appreciate the good points of the sprightly model at the right it must be imagined with a plaited skirt of old blue crepe-de-chine having a wide border of black tulle at the bottom and a bodice of the crepe-de-chine with lace sleeves. The skirt is relieved with an over-skirt of lace and the bodice almost lost sight of under a slip-sleeve, sleeveless blouse of black tulle. There is a giraffe of heavy two-toned ribbon, black on one side and blue on the other. When this frock is required to spend the evening in company with others made especially for that purpose, a wreath of little flowers or a handsome corsage may be added to the giraffe.

The dignified dress at the left is all black, with short-sleeved under-slip of black satin and draped over-dress of chantilly. Its long tulle is scalloped at the bottom, bound with satin and draped about the hips. Satin binding finishes the neck and short draped sleeves of the over-bodice. A color note is introduced in the model by a soft giraffe of metallic ribbon, but if one wished to add to the formality of this gown, it might be replaced by a wide giraffe of handsome brocade or by one of the many very rich and elaborate giraffes made of ribbon for this very purpose.

Fine Country Unappreciated.
The most singular plateau in the world is in the island of Papua. The plateau is elevated 6,000 feet above the sea, and there are mountains towering 5,000 feet higher, but the close proximity of the equator has covered the great plain with luxuriant vegetation. The climate is a perpetual May, birds sing in every bush and the only animals are a few marsupials, such as ground kangaroos and opossums. Yet this lovely region is literally deserted. The million Papuans live in the sweltering coast jungles and only occasionally stray to the uplands.

Wires Foretell Weather.

The varying humming of telegraph wires is claimed to give experienced observers a clue to the weather 24 to 36 hours ahead. A German statement is that high shrill notes are followed by heavy falls of rain or snow of short duration, and deep humming tones, by brief light rainfalls, while buzzing tones precede a change in the weather.

Many Claim Columbus as Native.
Italy, Spain, possibly Portugal, and now Corsica (and therefore France) claim Christopher Columbus as their own. An increasing number of historians and scholars in Galicia believe that he was a Galician. The origin of the belief was that one of his ships was called La Gallega (the Galician), and sailed from Pontevedra.
