Buy a Battery That will Do Your Work Easier

The Westinghouse Storage Battery is the first engineered battery for motor car service. Instead of growing like "Topsy" it was planned complete, from the ground up, by the foremost battery experts of America.

In this work, storage battery engineering became a fact. All previous knowledge and experience of batteries were utilized. Countless new experiments were made: Tests of every conceivable sort were devised. When you realize that the sciences of chemistry, mechanics and electricity all enter into the production of a storage battery, the wide scope of this work is apparent.

But engineering did not complete its task with the battery alone. The factory in which the Westinghouse Battery is made was planned with the same scientific care to insure uniform quality production. With the Westinghouse Air Brake resources and the Westinghouse habit of efficient manufacturing, the new plant was equipped with every facility for superior work.

The result is the Westinghouse Battery—a product of scientific engineering. Its reliability is being demonstrated daily on thousands of cars. It is backed by a service that gives a new vision of battery value to the motor car owner.
