THEATRES

MARCEL LLOYD AND JUSTINE JOHNSTON AT ARCADE THEATRE

Chief in support of Marcel Lloyd in the merry-making "Get Out and Get Under" are a flivver, a dog and a mouse. It is hardly necessary to mention that the blond and beautiful Mildred Davis and the ebony-hued and decidedly brunet Ernest Morrison are also present. "Get Out and Get Under" is the newest laughter-bolt by the Hal E. Rosch-Pathe comedian, due to convulse audiences at the Arcade Theatre today and tomorrow.

Justine Johnston, pronounced by many, one of the most beautiful women in America, is appearing on the same program, in her newest picture, "The Plaything of Broadway," a stirring story of New York life.

ZANE GREY'S "U. P. TRAIL" AT THE STAR SATURDAY

"The U. P. Trail," a Hodgkinson release, which is coming to the Star theatre Saturday and Sunday, is the latest photoplay production of Benjamin B. Hampton, the pioneer maker of pictures from great novels. The selection of actors, the art expressed in wonderful scenic settings, the perfection of technical details all bear the impress of his constructive ability. The wonderful romance of the story, combinations of dramatic tension, glamor of achievement, warmth of love and mighty heartplay of human emotions, places "The U. P. Trail" at the top of Mr. Hampton's list of successes, and among the few great photoplays of all time.

If patrons of Sherry's yesterday, under the spell and magnetism of that master-adventurer of life and literature, Jack London, where his "The Star Rover," is being shown for one more day, came expecting to see a truly sensational picture, they were not disappointed. The last sentence says everything. This is a thrilling, not-to-be-forgotten picture telling of young Dr. Hugh Standing, who dazeily picks up a fallen revolver in his theatre box, and is promptly accused of the murder of a notorious political boss. To wrest a confession, the police subject him to torture, but instead his soul comes among the stars to the scenes of his past re-incarnations. His fiancée is about to have a wedding, when the doctor is about to have the torture come. The scenes during the fatal night, the marriage—a chorus girl—is discovered as the result of the experience.
