A SCOUT LEADER'S PLEA

By Willard A. Postman.
There's a heap o' tasks before us
And it somehow sort o' seems
That the men who make great nations
Are the men who follow dreams.
We've been dreaming of world brotherhood,
Of universal peace,
And chaos would be certain
If the dreaming we should cease.

There's a dream somewhere within me
Of a nation strong and great;
Of a manhood good and noble,
With the pluck instead of "fate."
It's a dream of love in action,
Men who'll lead the nations far,
With the Golden Rule before them
As their leading, guiding star.

We cannot stop at dreaming,
We have got to form a plan.
For the boy of today, tomorrow
Will be the Nation's man.
In our boyhood lies tomorrow,
In our boyhood lies our dreams,
Borns will be MEN if we'll help 'em.
It is up to us, it seems!

Oh, life is full of battles;
But the greatest one to me
Is to help our future manhood
Better citizens to be.
Here's the secret we are searching,
Here's the mighty LIGHT we need,
HELP THE BOY UPGRADE TO MANHOOD.

BE A MAN, STEP UP AND LEAD!
SCOUTS AS FOREST GUIDES.

The plan for making scouts' agents in the conservation movement in the state of Pennsylvania, has met with more than the anticipated success. At present more than 6,000 Pennsylvania boy scouts are enrolled as forest guides, the proud possessors of certificates of service signed by Gifford Pinchot, the state commissioner of forestry.

According to Solan L. Parker, scout commissioner of Reading, chief guide and originator of the forest guide plan, the movement has two objects: one, the preservation and conservation of the forest and the bird and other wild life in them, and second, the development of good scouting, with a distinct new feature added in the responsibility for wild life and a greater interest in trees, birds and wild life generally which is strictly in line with the scout plan of outdoor life and interests. It is believed that the plan will be of great value wherever it is tried. The scouts of Berks county, Pa., have saved, it is claimed, during the year, over one hundred thousand dollars' worth of forest growth from destruction by fire, and this is only one of the 67 counties which are benefited by this splendid movement.

DOUBLE EAGLE VETERAN SCOUT.
In Topeka, Kan., they are proud of William Meminger. William joined a troop of scouts as a tenderfoot in March, 1913. By July of the same year he was a first class scout, with his eye on merit badge achievement. He qualified for 53 of the badges, thus making himself more than a "double eagle." He is one of the six veteran scouts of Topeka, an assistant scoutmaster, an expert examiner in bird study, a member of the special court of honor, has been an editor of the Topeka Boy Scouts Trail and served as assistant scout executive in the absence of the executive. At present he is studying medicine at Cornell.

SCOUTS, PROPERTY GUARDIANS
Boy scouts of Louisville, Ky., are enrolled in the local membership of "The Guardians of Property" and take a special pledge to safeguard property especially at home, school or church. The same boys are called upon to assist in handling crowds at parades, the verdict being that they are just as efficient as the police in this difficult job—some change from the old days when the small boy and the policeman used to be sworn enemies. "Chéese it the top" now reads "Glory be! A boy scout!"

HERE'S A BUSY SCOUT TROOP.
In its annual report Troop Sixteen of San Diego, Cal., says through its scoutmaster: "My troop assisted in extinguishing five fires; James Lankester, first class, rescued a woman who fell under a street car; the scoutmaster applied first aid to three accident victims and also saved two people from drowning."

GOOD STUNTS BY BOY SCOUTS.
Troop No. 1 of Upland, Ind., reports that Scout Rex Rhinehart stopped a runaway horse and also pulled a youngster out of a river. Forty convicts in the Eastern penitentiary in Philadelphia, contributed $170 to a local campaign for the promotion of scouting. The men said they like the money because they believed that through the boy scouting movement many boys might be saved from "what we do today."

WOMAN REALTOR HAS MADE GOOD

HOT LAKE, Apr. 16.—(Special)—There is a great deal said and written about women being upon an equality with men in the business world. To a large degree, however, this is more theoretical than actual for women have not, so far, taken their place on an equality with men except in a few minor employments. There are exceptions, however, to this rule.

Ten years ago, Mrs. R. E. Barrett was left a widow with just $4.00 and no previous business experience. She was endowed with an indomitable will power and vision. She was fortunate enough to get an option upon a piece of property in Astoria, (for this had been her home) without an initial payment. Time was the essence of the contract, and by walking two miles into the city each day to save carfare and taking her lunch, she managed to exist. Before the option had expired, she made her first deal that netted her $700. This gave her confidence, and she went at the handling of real estate in Astoria and Warrenton, with a vim and determination.

Things have changed for Mrs. Barrett. Now, she has a beautiful home in Seaside. Has ten or fifteen salesmen constantly in the East, bringing people to Warrenton to buy property. She entertains them in her home and it is known among her prospective buyers that she will pay the entire cost for any investigation should it disclose misrepresentation of any kind on her part. Mrs. Barrett closes all her deals, and never loses a customer, because she has the goods and is square with her people.

Besides holding options in Warrenton, she has extensive personal holdings there, and is enthusiastic about the future of the place. There is a little secret about her enthusiasm for Warrenton. Several years ago she learned about Jim Hill, most beloved and substantial of railroad magnates, buying extensively at Warrenton. She made a trip to St. Paul for a personal visit with him. After waiting for two days, she was told that she might have just five minutes with him. It is to Mrs. Barrett's credit that James J. Hill, after meeting her, called off all of his other appointments and spent the afternoon with her. He told her all he knew about Warrenton, and advised her as to his belief in its future; consequently her enthusiasm.

Mrs. Barrett is deeply interested in all public enterprises that affect the lower Columbia. She was concerned in the visit of Secretary Daniels a few months ago, which resulted in the government's determination to make extensive improvements at that point. She made a special trip into Montana and was successful in getting the farmers together and pooling the wheat crop of several million bushels to be hauled by water grade to the mouth of the Columbia instead of taking the bumps over the mountains into Seattle.

She has recently been a patient at Hot Lake Sanatorium, likes the Grande Ronde Valley and the institution so well that she will return again next fall.

The Savior in Profane History.
Among the historical references to Jesus Christ which are undisputed is that made by Tacitus, the Roman historian, who on speaking of the Christians said, "The originator of that name had been executed in the reign of Tiberius by order of the administrator, Pontius Pilate." This may be found in the Annals of Terevat. Reference to Christ is also made in the "Antiquities of Josephus," a Jewish historian, who was contemporary with Christ, but this passage is declared by some to be a forgery.

Why Ball "Bounces."
A ball bounces because it possesses a quality known as elasticity. When a ball is thrown against the floor the ball becomes flat where it strikes the floor; because of its elasticity the ball immediately returns to its natural shape and in doing so forces itself back into the air—and that's the "bounce." A baseball flies away from the bat for the same reason.
