COVE HOLDS ROAD MEETING

COMMUNITY UNITED ON ROAD PROGRAM
Men and Teams Awaiting Arrival of Rock Crusher to Begin Work—Money Pledged for Work
A good roads meeting at Cove Tuesday evening resulted in uniting the sentiment of every man, woman and child in the community in favor of fighting for better roads to Cove, according to Karl Stackland, who was in La Grande yesterday. Mr. Stackland stated that there isn't anyone laying down his part in the good road program and nearly half the teams have been pledged for work on that section of the road to Union which will be built by Cove. A total of $2500 has already been pledged, he stated, and the men and teams are now waiting for the rock crusher to be moved to Cove. It will be there within a few days and then work will begin in earnest. Work has already been started at the Union end of the road by the Union people who will grade a mile out of Union. Following the meeting Tuesday night the ladies served ice cream and cake and then dancing was indulged in for several hours.

REFERENDUM IS ON FIVE MEASURES

resident of Oregon who served in the United States army, navy or marine corps between April 6, 1917, and November 11, 1918; to levy an additional annual tax of 2 mills to pay principal and interest of such bonds; and ratifying correlative legislative enactments."
"The correlative enactments" mentioned refers to an act passed by the 1921 legislature providing that each qualified veteran of the world war may borrow from the state up to $3,000, or may receive a cash bonus of $15 a month for the time he was in service, but not to exceed $500. This act would be ineffective for lack of funds should the proposed constitutional amendment fail to pass. While the constitutional amendment authorizes loans in amounts up to $4,000, the act passed by the legislature fixes the maximum loan at $3,000, therefore $3,000 would be the largest amount a veteran could borrow.
Veterans taking loans pay the state 4 per cent interest. The affirmative argument in the voters' pamphlet offers this information about loans:
"The loan must be made upon real estate security and shall not exceed 75 per cent of the appraised valuation of the real estate." The real estate need not necessarily belong to the soldier, but may be owned by his

La Grande Max Days
"One of a very few recent cash realty deals was concluded here yesterday when C. L. Howard, a railroad contractor, formerly of La Grande purchased five lots and three houses on West street from E. J. Sweeney and the purchase price was $5000 and the sale was made by Snow & Dayton. The new owner is intending to erect a modern bungalow on the corner of Lewis and Lee streets. Mr. Howard and children will come to Pendleton to join Mr. Howard and they will make their home here. Pendleton, Oregon.

wife, father or mother, child, brother or sister. The borrower must repay the loan in installments of 6 per cent per annum. Of this 6 per cent the unpaid principal applies as interest and the balance applies in payment of the principal. This method will repay the loan and principal entirely in twenty-eight years, although the veteran may pay his debt to the state sooner if he desires."
Relative to the bonus, the argument says:
"Application for the bonus must be made within one year from the date the act became effective. The first sixty days of service are excluded from the time for which a bonus may be paid, as it is considered that the government bonus of $60 paid at the time of discharge covers the first sixty days of service."
Relative to the bonus, the argument explains that "the bonus period is extended to November 11, 1919, one year after signing the armistice, because it was many months after the ending of actual hostilities before the men overseas could be returned to the United States, and it was considered to be fair to include the time served by each man up to the date of his actual discharge, in the period for which he receive the bonus payment."
Women Are Included.
This measure applies either to males or females who served at least sixty days. Conscientious objectors and those who served only as students in training camps are barred.
Third of the trio of proposed constitutional amendments is that empowering the governor to veto the emergency clause.
When the emergency clause is attached to a legislative act, two purposes are served. First, the bill becomes effective as a law as soon as it is signed by the governor, while acts not having the emergency clause are not effective for ninety days. Second, the use of the emergency clause prevents the invoking of the referendum against the measure.
Charges often have been made that the privilege of using the emergency clause has been abused to forestall the referendum. As the emergency clause now serves a double purpose, it may be said also that the proposed amendment will serve a double purpose. It will prevent the clause being used merely to halt the referendum, and it will prevent the governor using the clause as a pretext for vetoing an entire bill.
Examination Required.
The object of the marriage examination and license bill is to stop the propagation of feeble minded persons, or those otherwise likely to suffer by inheritance. It provides that both male and female applicants for marriage licenses shall submit to examination by competent physicians to ascertain if they are afflicted with contagious or communicable venereal disease or whether they are normal mentally. If both or either fail to pass the examination the measure would prohibit their marriage unless one or both were sterilized. If either should feel the judgment unjust, provision is made for appeal from the county clerk's refusal to issue a license to the county court, which would cause an examination of the complaining person to be made by three competent physicians selected by the court. Their judgment would be final.

The women jurors bill is a revision of the jury law providing that women are qualified to sit as jurors. Further provision is made, however, that the jury shall be optional with the woman. The amendment changes the word "male" to "persons" wherever the method of calling jurors is set forth. It is provided that in criminal actions in which a minor under 18 years old is involved, whether as defendant or as complaining witness, at least half the jurors shall be women.
The municipal measure, referred by the legislature as a salary bill in Wallowa county, a salary bill in Umatilla county, a salary bill effecting the justice of the peace in The Dalles, district of Wasco county, and the Port of Portland organization bill.
