Enterprise Has Good Streets—

"At the present rate the pavement will all be laid by the middle of July and then there will be a continuous pavement 37 miles in length extending from Pendleton to the Washington state line. From the line to Walla Walla, the road is now paved," reports Pat Loueragan, of Pendleton. "This paved road is the Oregon-Washington highway and it goes through several towns north of Pendleton. Each of these towns has paved. The traffic on the highway is already heavy, there being a continuous stream of trucks of produce." Mr. Loueragan is also interested in the paving of Enterprise, in Walla Walla county, which will be finished this season. The town of Enterprise has laid already what would be equivalent to ten miles of paved highway. As a matter of personal information, he is known that Mrs. Loueragan presented her husband with a baby last Saturday. —Portland Oregonian.
