ETIQUETTE

Street Car Etiquette

When a gentleman meets a lady friend on the street with whom he has no engagement and they board a street car or bus, it is not necessary that he pay the fares for both. He gives her a gentle lift at the elbow as she proceeds him on stepping into the car. If there is not a vacant seat for him he stands by her seat or if another man arises to give her access to his seat, the gentleman accompanying her lifts his hat in recognition of this courtesy. If he is her escort, he, of course, pays the fares for both and upon alighting from the car he proceeds her down the step and turns to assist her. It is not positively essential that a man give his seat to a lady standing unless she is elderly, carrying a baby or a number of bundles. But a real polite man will do so unless he be an unusually tired workman. To give up his seat he indicates by a glance or a touch that he wishes her to take it, then withdraws to a polite distance.

Dear Friends of our Fountain:

To know the fullest pleasure good soda drinks can give make the "tasteful" with one of our chocolate combinations.

There's a difference in chocolate—you will never know how big a difference until you taste ours.

We serve chocolate in more ways than other fountains do, too (an excellent chance to let your fancy roam in choice).

The richness of flavor of our chocolate is repeated in all drink flavors we serve; each is full flavored, rich, heavy, true—as fruity as nature provides, as flavorful as fresh fruit can be.

You can go the limit in choice of kinds, combinations and fancies; we have reached the limit in flavor, purity and deliciousness.
