

Spectators Got Walloped, Too, In First International Battle.

John C. Heenan, the "Benicia Boy" (upper right) who represented America, and Tom Sayers (lower left) who represented England in the first international heavyweight fight. Their battle is reproduced from an old wood cut.

So long as boxing lives, the first international battle for the world's heavyweight boxing championship will occupy a prominent place in the record books.

John C. Heenan, known as the "Benicia Boy," represented America, and Tom Sayers, who was really little more than a welterweight, carried the British colors.

The men met at Farnborough, England, April 17, 1890, on the turf under London prize ring rules. The fight went 42 rounds, lasting two hours and 27 minutes and the referee called it a draw.

For 36 rounds each contestant took a terrific beating, with Sayers far the worse off, while Heenan was almost completely blind, but much the stronger.

Spectators Aid.

When the men came up for the 37th round Sayers was pitifully weak and held his feet with difficulty. Heenan rushed him, and grabbing him around the neck, attempted to toss him. Immediately a mob of Sayers' friends, who had bet heavily on the Englishman, rushed the ring, cut the ropes and surged within, crowding the referee out and beyond view of the fighters. The "interned" official immediately ordered hostilities to cease, but Sayers' backers, hoping to save their money, insisted that the battle proceed, and as they were in control of the situation the fight went on.

From the 39th round until the finish Heenan, unable to see, struck out blindly with both fists, frequently striking spectators, while Sayers was so badly spent that it was necessary at times for his henchmen to hold him on his feet.

Fight Stopped.

The referee finally worked his way into the ring and once more ordered the fight to stop. As all hands were willing, the struggle ended.

In recognition of the wonderful gameness displayed by both men, English sportsmen unanimously voted to declare them joint holders of the world's title and presented each with a belt emblematic of the championship.

Soon after the battle Sayers announced his permanent retirement from the ring and the undisputed championship was awarded to Heenan. He also retired later without defending his title.

All of the caves will be connected with the sewer. In the basement are found a laundry room, fuel room, fruit room, shower baths, furnace room, vacuum cleaners. The heating system is a vapor steam heating plant.

Mr. Hill's new home is one of the finest started this summer. Although no definite announcements have been made, several other elegant homes will be built this summer if plans of several of La Grande's citizens materialize.

PORTLAND, June 7.—W. C. Ruegnitz, of Portland, has been elected executive secretary of the Loyal Legion of Loggers and Lumbermen, effective June 15.

ETIQUETTE EVERYDAY

Table manners are determined largely by the use of the knife and fork. The knife is shifted to the right hand after the cutting of meat and then used for tearing food to the mouth.

It is an act of good breeding to smash food between the prongs of the fork, or to use the knife for any other purpose than that of cutting. When the knife and fork are not in service they must remain resting on the plate. This is true when the plate is being passed for a second helping. At the conclusion of the meal the knife and fork should be placed together across the plate, the handles on the edge of the plate.

Tomorrow: "Shaking of Hands."

DIRECTORS OF LOCAL CHAUTAUQUA WILL MEET SEMI-WEEKLY

At the meeting of the board of directors of the local Chautauqua Association yesterday afternoon it was decided to hold semi-weekly meetings until the opening of the annual Chautauqua week, which falls from July 8 to 15 this year. NEW PRISCILLA DEAN PICTURE IS COMING TO ARCADE THEATRE

"Reputation," the Universal super feature which is to be shown at the Arcade theatre starting Thursday, will establish Priscilla Dean as the foremost emotional actress of the screen. This is the opinion of reviewers in other cities who have seen the production and who say that it excels even "The Virgin of Stamboul" and "Outside the Law," Universal's recent pictures with the same star.

It is based on "False Colors," the sensational novel by Edwina Levin.

The theme revolves around the fantastic pivot of a girl impersonating her mother, a famous actress, appearing in her stead at the opening of a famous Broadway production and being an unconscious witness of the culmination of her mother's life tragedy, the end of an amazing series of sordid and picturesque adventures along the red line of unrestrained desire.

AT SHERRYS TODAY AND TOMORROW THE PLAY "EVERYWOMAN"

"Every Woman" is a story of every woman's quest for love. Wealth and flattery, dissipation and vanity stand in her way, but her quest is finally successful. A picture that every woman wants to see. Gorgeous gowns, marvelous scenery, a splendid cast headed by Violet Heming and a story that touches the spot.

When you look in the mirror do you see a faithful reflection of yourself or the distorted image that flattery makes you see? Does Ambition overshadow modesty and truth in your case? Might dissipation dispel your beauty? "Everywoman" takes up all these questions.

"NOMADS OF THE NORTH" AT THE ARCADE TONIGHT

The filming of a huge forest fire is not without its dangers as members of the cast of "Nomads of the North," showing at the Arcade theatre will testify. Twice during her attempts to face her way out of the maze of roaring flames which entirely surrounded her during the scenes, the motion picture cameras were recording the scene. Betty Blythe got caught afire.

the attractive casement type of windows. However, by folding the windows, the rooms can be practically converted into porches during the hot summer days.

Attractive Appearance.

A large front porch adds much to the inviting appearance of the house from the outside. On the first floor is a large living room, dining room, kitchen and breakfast room. A spacious porch at the rear adds much to the convenience of the kitchen.

The interior finish is of the latest design with the high baseboards and panel wainscoting. The ceilings are beamed and all the rooms have built-in features, convenient for the housewife having been kept in mind at all times in designing the house, and especially the many built-in features.

On the second floor are three chambers, an unusual large bathroom, solarium, and sleeping porch. The bathroom has both tub and shower bath.

Closets and wardrobes in the chambers are large. Basement convenient. The roof will be of composition
