MELONS NOT A GOOD SELLER

HIGH PRICE FOR CALIFORNIA SHOWING RETARDS.

Milton Cherries at the Height of Their Glory—Cants Sell Well.

If the hot weather of yesterday and today keeps up the sale of water-melons may be spurted but at the present writing their retail disposal is lethargic. Somehow the public is not willing as a general rule, to buy the melons at an average of 8 cents per pound, which often brings the cost of one to considerably more than $2. These California showings are dragging some. Cantaloupes, at an average of 15 and two "ponies" for 25, are moving better. They too, are from California.
