A Business Man Asked "What Would You Do?"

Eight months ago one of our patrons came to us and asked our advice regarding a contemplated business deal. Off-hand it sounded particularly bright but after getting in touch through our correspondent banks with the prospects in that particular field all over the United States, we advised against it. The soundness of that advice is today apparent. Our patron is very grateful to us. He need not be. It is to our advantage as well as his, to protect our patrons. We are always ready to conduct similar investigations.
