Killed Dog With Auto.

If the young lady who drove the car that broke the neck of a Spanish dog on Main street last evening, could have witnessed the deep grief in the home of the little boy on Main avenue when he realized his little playmate would not be with him today, that young lady would have least have stopped her car after hitting the dog and showed some little feeling in the matter. Quite probable she did not think how tragic the accident was which her car caused. But had she heard the voice of a little boy this morning when he said to his papa: "Guess old Bob will not come and lick my face to wake me up this morning, for Bob is dead," the young lady would have opened wide her eyes and tears would have been noticeable, for no young girl could be sufficiently calloused of nature not to share the grief of the little boy whose dog has been killed.

was driving east along O avenue and when she came to the crossing at Sixth at a moderate speed she saw Dr. Kirby's car approaching from the north, his machine being in the middle of the block, giving her the right of way. Dr. Kirby was driving at such a speed that he hit the rear wheel of her car just as the latter was at the middle of the intersection. The speeding car, which was a much lighter machine than Mrs. Stoddard's caught the wheel swung around and turned the car over, throwing the light car into the curb. Several people lying in the

Trip Made Through Cattle, Sheep Section For Data

PORTLAND, July 22.—E. N. Kavanaugh, in charge of grazing in the Forest Service offices here, and Grazing Inspector C. E. Rachford, from Washington, D. C., left here on July 16, for six weeks inspection of the National Forest grazing ranges in Washington and Oregon. Their trip will take them through the cattle and sheep country of Eastern Oregon and Washington, and has for its purpose gathering of data on the ground regarding the actual value of the forage resources of National Forest ranges.

Mr. Rachford is making a general trip throughout the national forests of the west on a two-year study of this question of range valuation and now comes to the Pacific Northwest on a preliminary trip. The results of this whole study of range valuation of the forest ranges has been promised to Congress by the Forester, Col. Greeley, and Mr. Kavanaugh's office will be responsible for this work as far as the Oregon and Washington forests are concerned.

Messrs. Rachford and Kavanaugh will go first to the Rainier Forest, then through the Yakima Indian Reservation into the Wenatchee Forest, on to the Methow and Okanogan valleys, to Spokane. From Spokane they will go to Pullman, Washington, to confer with men at the Washington State Agricultural College, then to Pendleton, and to the Oregon State Experiment Station at Ufflon. From Union they will proceed to the Whitman National Forest at Baker, then south to the John Day country on the Malheur forest, then to the Ochoco, and Deschutes Forests, probably going as far south as Lakeview. Through out the trip they will confer with representatives of the agricultural colleges of both states, with owners and agents of private range lands and representative stockmen in both states, the aim being to inspect typical ranges and to secure the advice and suggestions of interested parties. The final object, Mr. Kavanaugh says, is to find the best method of determining the proper value in terms of the grazing fees of the forage resources of the national forest within the two states.

IS ATTENDING CONVENTION OF BATTERY MEN

R. L. Crossman, of the La Grande Battery Company, proprietors of the local Willard Storage Battery Service Station, is attending the convention of all Willard operators of this vicinity in Portland.

HEARING ON LABELING OF VINEGAR SET

The Secretary of Agriculture announces that a hearing to discuss the labeling of vinegar, particularly the product made from dried apple chips, and rind skins and cores, or a mixture of these materials, will be held at his office on Wednesday, August 17, 1921, at 10 a. m. The trade and other parties interested are invited to attend and present their views on the subject, orally or in writing.

Food inspection division 140, which relates to the labeling of vinegar, regards the term "apple vinegars" and the term "cider vinegars" as synonymous, and also requires that an article made from dried apples shall be labeled to show the material from which it is produced.

The purpose of this hearing is to determine on the basis of the information acquired and the evidence submitted, not only the proper nomenclature for vinegar made wholly or in part from dried apple products but also the extent to which differentiation between the terms "apple vinegar" and "cider vinegar" may be justified.
