

Warner's
Rust-Proof
Corsets

The new Fall clothes are such a temptation to every woman who loves pretty things—and sometimes she cannot afford quite all she wants. So we are suggesting a real economy—a corset which is dependable in style and fit and which gives wonderful service in long wear.

The prices of Warner's are not only unusually low, but they are even lower when you consider how long one of these corsets will last and that it can be washed again and again to be just as good as new. We are showing plenty of styles from which to select your model.

Guaranteed not to Rust. Break or Tear.

We believe those who are fortunate enough to hear him will agree with us that Paul is not the only Bible student and public speaker born in Tarsus. Brother Tontjian is a public speaker of many years experience. His theme will be, "Christ Has Come, His Iron Rule Has Begun—Million Now Living Will Never Die." No public message since the days of Jesus on earth has met with such a tremendous public approval as this. It is only eight months since this lecture was put in book form, yet 1,250,000 copies or nineteen twenty-ton carloads are now in the hands of the people and it is now translated into twenty-nine different languages. We will welcome our many friends in the City Hall over the fire station, Sunday, August 7 at 8 p. m. All are welcome. Seats are free and there will be no collection.—A Member of Local Class.

Three Brothers Don
Overalls and Work
On Frisco Building

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 6.—Four wealthy San Francisco brothers, who had been taught the trade of stone mason by their father, John D. McGilvray, pioneer of the stone industry in California, recently donned overalls and went to work, following their trade, on a San Francisco office building, when labor troubles held up construction work on the structure.

One of the brothers, John D. (Jack) McGilvray, past potentate of the Islam Temple of the Mystic Shrine, who is the oldest of the family and president of the McGilvray-Raymond Granite company, his father's firm, led the four to the construction job. Another, Harry S. McGilvray, vice-president of the firm and superintendent of construction in San Francisco, donned an ancient plug hat and followed suit. The others, Al E. McGilvray, treasurer of the firm and manager of the company's quarry at Raymond, Calif.; and Malcolm McGilvray, assistant secretary, left their desks and reported on the job.
